U. S. TREASURER TATE IS UNDER FIRE

POLICE GRAFT ACCUSER GIVES BLANTON DATA

MAKES LONG TRIP TO HOME OF TEXAN

District Officials May Have Statement on Accusation Later.

GIBSON COMMITTEE MAY HOLD HEARING

Man Named Formerly Friend of Woman Who Seeks to Expose Him.

Mrs. Helen Blaylock, a palmist, who made sensational charges against a local police captain to Representative Ernest W. Gibson, of Vermont, chairman of the House District subcommittee that is investigating the local Police Department, has gone to Abilene, Tex., where she reiterated the charges to Representative Thomas L. Blanton, of the Lone Star State, arch foe of the lawless element in the local Police Department, it was learned by The Post last night.

Although Mrs. Blaylock made her sensational charges December 18 to Gibson, Herbert D. Brown, chief of the Bureau of Efficiency, and his assistant, D. W. McReynolds, in an anteroom in the Bethesda, Md., police station, District Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty and Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, chief of police, last night said the first intimation they had of the charges and subsequent investigation was given them by The Post.

Decline to Comment.

Both Dougherty and Hesse declined to comment on the case. Dougherty said he probably would have a "statement" to make at a later date.

In a telegram to The Washington Post yesterday, Blanton explained that the illness of a member of his family was holding him in Abilene, but he added he would be back in Washington "very soon."

Blanton has promised to make a "blazing exit" from the House when his term expires March 4 and it is assumed he will use the present case to make good his promise.

It is assumed that the story Mrs. Blaylock told the Texan was substantially the same one she narrated to Gibson. In the secret conference with Gibson, Mrs. Blaylock charged that the police captain—who once was her friend, but who now ignores her—had $14,000 hidden away in a safety deposit box in a local bank.

Shows Ring and Papers.

In the course of that conference the woman displayed to Gibson a ring and a batch of papers which she said would further incriminate the captain.

In giving her the ring, Mrs. Blaylock said, the police official had boasted that he seized it in a raid. As for the documents, Mrs. Blaylock claimed that these would show how the captain had defrauded her in a real estate transaction, and would also connect him with other alleged misdeeds.

It develops now that Mrs Blaylock tried to see Blanton in the first place, but learned he was out of the city. Then she sought Representative Gibson.

Record of Testimony.

As was told in The Post yesterday, Gibson took Brown and McReynolds along with him when he went to Bethesda to interview Mrs. Blaylock. An expert shorthand writer, McReynolds made a complete record of the woman's testimony, and this now is in the files of the Gibson subcommittee.

Representative Blanton, the chief nemesis of the local police force, is a member of Gibson's committee, and has at various times made sensational charges against member of the force.

The action of Mrs. Blaylock in making the long trip to Abilene is further evidence of her determination to bring the police captai nbefore the Gibson subcommittee. The woman is a palmist and is known in her professioo as Mme Banzi. She has not been seen at her establishment at 1804 Seventh street northwest for two weks. A sign written in ink and placed on the door of her estblishment, reads "Closed."

COOLIDGE'S LETTER LAUDS CHEST PLAN

Relief From Heavy Expense in Maintenance Main Point of Appeal.

SPECIAL GIFTS SOUGHT

Relief from excessive expenses of maintenance faced by charitable organizations was pointed to by President Coolidge as one of the advantages of the Community Chest in a letter to officials of that organization made public yesterday.

The President believes that under the Community Chest plan a smaller percentage of funds contributed will be used for administration.

The letter follows:

"I believe that the Community Chest plan of providing for local benevolences is the best which has been devised. By eliminating much of the cost of collection it increases the amount actually available for charitable purposes and makes for a wiser and more equitable division of funds in accordance with the needs and opportunities of each. The very fact that the American people stand ready at all times to aid a worthy cause tends in itself to increase the number of benevolences dependent for their existence upon annual contributions, so that there is a real danger that the fine objects of each may be obscured by the problem of maintenance and the true spirit of benevolence chilled by an endless succession of pressing demands.

"The Community Chest idea makes possible the inclusion of a definite sum for charitable contributions in the family budget, and by a concentration of effort focuses the thought of each community at one time on the duty and privilege which is theirs to aid the deserving and to relieve suffering and misfortune."

A meeting of the special gifts committee, headed by Robert V. Fleming, president of Riggs National Bank, will be held today at 12:30 o'clock. Plans for a special gifts campaign will be outlined.

NEIGHBORS KNEW HER AS MATE OF DENTIST

Separated Three Years Ago, Says Ball Player, When Told of Tragedy.

Watertown, Mass., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Mrs. George Herman Ruth, wife of Babe Ruth, the home-run king, was burned to death in a fire which destroyed the home of Dr. Edward H. Kinder, dentist, here Friday night it was learned today when relatives identified the body. She was known to her neighbors as Mrs. Helen Kinder, wife of the doctor.

Two sisters of Mrs. Ruth, Catherine and Nora Woodford, of South Boston, identified the body at a local undertaking establishment. Dr. Kinder could not be located.

District Attorney Robert T. Bushnell, of Middlesex County, assigned State detectives to investigate the case and ordered an autopsy of the body. Dr. George O. West, medical examiner, later said this showed death due to burns and suffocation.

Separated for Three Years.

"Babe" Ruth arrived in Boston today, after having been called here by his friend and legal counsel, John P. Feeney, of Boston. He issued a statement in which he said that he and Mrs. Ruth had not been living together for three years.

"We had no permanent home," the "Babe" said, "and Mrs. Ruth went to South Boston to be near her mother three years ago. She had been in Boston since."

He said that his 9-year-old daughter, Dorothy, was at a private school in Weston, where he planned to visit her tonight.

A pedestrian discovered a fire in the home of Dr. Kinder Friday night, when fire apparatus arrived the interior of the house was a mass of flames.

Unconscious in Burning House.

Firemen found Mrs. Ruth unconscious on the floor of a bedroom on the second floor. Apparently she had retired for the night and had been overcome while attempting to escape. She was taken to the home of neighbors, where she died a short time later.

Dr. Kinder had left the house earlier in the evening to attend a prize fight in Boston. Neighbors identified the body as that of Mrs. Kinder and it was taken to a local undertaking establishment where it remained until today.

Last night police were informed that the body was not that of Mrs. Kinder, but of Mrs. Ruth and that Dr. Kinder never had been married.

Mother Is Prostrated.

An investigation was started and Mrs. Ruth's sisters were summoned from South Boston.

Mrs. Ruth was the daughter of Mrs. Johanna Woodford, of South Boston. The mother was prostrated with grief when she was informed of the tragedy today. Members of the family declined to discuss the case except to say that Mrs. Ruth was a close friend of a Dr. and Mrs. Kinder and visited the Kinder home frequently. They said that they believed Mrs. Ruth's death was due to accidental causes.

The cause of the fire had not been determined definitely, but was believed

CENTER OF STRIFE

EVANGELINE BOOTH.

ROCKEFELLERS SEEN BEHIND BOOTH FOES

Opposition to One-Man Control by Americans Said to Inspire Attack.

STAND TAKEN LONG AGO

New York, Jan. 13 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Back of the attempt of Commander Evangeline Booth and the liberal forces with her to democratize the Salvation Army lies an unsuspected influence, it has been learned from an unquestionable source—the wealth and the sound philanthropic judgment of many American men of wealth, notably of the Rockefellers, John D., sr., and jr.

It may not be the only influence, since Evangeline Booth, a keen-minded and progressive woman, has been irked for years by a form of organization which puts control of the $33,000,000 worth of Salvation Army property in the United States in the hands of one man in London—an old man, and ailing. But the Rockefellers and others have furnished her a powerful argument.

The Rockefellers, in brief, have refused to contribute as largely as they otherwise would to an autocratic organization, completely in the power of one man, and they have let both Miss Booth and her brother, Gen. Bramwell Booth, the autocrat, know their attitude.

General William Booth, father of both Bramwell and Evangeline and founder of the Salvation Army, came to this country in the years when a much smaller army was struggling desperately to raise funds. He told his needs to the older Rockefeller, who had lavished money on so many other philanthropies.

John D. Rockefeller, sr., replied to the stern and patriarchal Salvationist that he had no doubts of the latter's sincerity, but that the system was wrong. He pointed out that not only were the Salvation Army properties throughout the world directly in the control of one man, even where they were nominally incorporated, as in the various States of this country, but that this man had power to appoint his own successor.

Later the matter was again discussed in a three-cornered correspondence now in Salvation Army files between the children of these men—John D. Rockefeller, jr., and Bramwell and Evangeline Booth. Mr. Rockefeller

Mail Thieves Elude Posse in Colorado

No Trace Found of Three Escaping With $20,000 Pay Roll for Mine.

Trinidad, Colo., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Supposedly hidden somewhere in the rugged canyons of southern Colorado, three masked men who escaped yesterday after robbing a mail carrier of a $20,000 pay roll, today had eluded the possemen.

Without a tangible clew to the identity of the men with only a partial description of them, Sheriff's deputies continued the search. The robbers left no trail.

The robbers waylaid Charles Festi, 18, who was carrying the mail for his father, Joe Festi, the regular mail carrier on the rural route, while he was going to Delagua with several sacks of mail, including the pay roll for the Victor American Fuel Co. mine. Festi was bound and left blindfolded in his truck.

Radio School Safes Are Robbed of $2,000

Entering through an unlocked window, thieves Saturday night or early yesterday morning broke open two safes at the National Radio School, 1536 U street northwest, and made off with more than $2,000 in cash and money and express orders.

The robbery was discovered about noon yesterday by James E. Smith, president of the school, when he went to his office. Smith reported it to the police of the Eighth Precinct, who are conducting an investigation.

COOLIDGE FAILS TO CHECK FIGHT ON PEACE PACT

Group Urging Declaration of American Rights Remains Firm.

BINGHAM INSISTS PLAN IS NOT RESERVATION

(Associated Press.)

Renewed pressure from the White House failed yesterday to break the deadlock in the Senate on the Kellogg antiwar treaty, and the group demanding an interpretative declaration on the pact decided to hold out against any agreement setting an hour to vote on its ratification.

Apparently concerned over the circulation Saturday of a round robin petition by those seeking an interpretative declaration of American rights under the treaty, President Coolidge on Saturday night summoned Senator Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, who was passing the petition around.

The President made known his desire that no manner of reservation accompany American ratification of the treaty engineered by his Secretary of State. He considers a report of the foreign relations committee, declaring the treaty does not affect America's right of self-defense and does not infringe upon the Monroe Doctrine, which is asked by the petition, would be tantamount to a reservation.

Bingham Remains Firm.

Senator Bingham stood his ground. He had in his pocket the round robin petition, already bearing 24 signatures, declaring for an interpretation. He insisted a committee report stating America's position under the treaty could not be constituted as a reservation to the pact.

Another conference of the "interpretationists" yesterday decided to fight on, and as a result of that decision objection will be voiced today to the proposal which Chairman Borah, of the foreign relations committee, intends to submit to limit debate on the treaty.

This decision throws the treaty into an indefinite future. Borah, in charge of the pact, feels, however, the responsibility is entirely on the "interpretationists." Almost to a man this group is strongly for the cruiser construction bill which is awaiting disposition of the antiwar pact. Treaty advocates feel the foes will be forced by their own desire for action on the cruiser bill to give in on the demand for an interpretation and are content to accept the deadlock for the present.

All Plans Rejected.

But President Coolidge wants both the treaty, without reservation or interpretation, and naval construction measure. A senatorial breakfast party, a later White House conference of Senate leaders, and finally, the Bingham conference, failed to budge the deadlock. The resultant conferences yesterday at the Capitol also got nowhere.

Senator Bingham made it clear to the President that with the exception of two or three of the 24 petition signers none wished to defeat ratification of the treaty. But he said the group was firmly of the conviction that this Nation should make known in some manner its interpretation of the pact now rather than at some later time when such an emergency arose. He contended that under international law a mere report by a Senate committee could not be constituted as a reservation to a treaty ratified by the Senate. But the President doesn't see it that way, and he is stubborn on the point.

The round robin petition pledges the signers not to ask even for the adoption by the Senate of the report of the foreign relations committee, which is requested. However, it declares the signatories will feel constrained to vote for an interpretative resolution, such as has been proposed by Senator Moses

Soviet Leader Killed By Assassin's Shot

Gen. Slaschoff Is Slain in Moscow Home by an Unidentified Man.

Moscow, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Gen. Jacob Alexandrovitch Slaschoff, former czarist and "white" commander, and high in the Soviet army commissariat during the past six years, was assassinated in his home here today.

Komsomolskaya Pravda, in reporting the murder says that an unknown person entered and fired at the general, killing him. He died before witnesses reached him.

Krashnaya Zvella (Red Star), chief organ of the Soviet army, in announcing the death says that the assassination was prompted by motives of personal revenge.

CAPITAL OBSERVES DRY LAW'S BIRTHDAY

CURRAN FLAYS MEASURE

Yesterday was the ninth birthday of national prohibition.

Claims of results positive and negative under enforcement were made in the hostile camps of wets and drys, while in statements and speeches at mass meetings the eighteenth amendment's enemies and friends set forth their views with considerable vigor.

The 9-year-old prohibition was described as a fair-haired child, a child whose path has been made difficult but one of beautiful promise by Clinton N. Howard and Gifford Pinchot, former Governor of Pennsylvania, at a dry mass meeting in the Masonic Temple Auditorium.

That the 9-year-old is a solven and should be tarred, feathered and deported was the picture held up in a statement by Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

The recommendation of Maj. Hesse, District police superintendent, that the same penalty be imposed on the purchaser of illegal liquors that applies to the seller was approved by Howard and Pinchot and the audience which heard their addresses. The audience, comprising about 600 persons, instructed Howard to send to Maj. Hesse, the District committee of House and Senate, and President-elect Herbert Hoover resolutions setting forth the opinion that the purchaser of illegal liquors should be made liable to prosecution for a felony.

"We urge Congress to try out this 'noble experiment' in the National Capital and justify to the people the determination of the incoming administration to enforce the law," the resolutions stated.

Pressed during the presidential campaign for a statement of his opinion of prohibition, Candidate Hoover declared that it is "a noble experiment." Upon Herbert Hoover, as President, will depend the success of enforcement, former Gov. Pinchot declared.

"We drys elected our man," he said. "The people who believe in prohibition sent him to the White House. I do not say that the eighteenth amendment will go, but I do say that if the conditions which exist today are existent four years from now we drys will be in a dangerous position."

There is enough money, a sufficient number of men and the necessary agencies to make enforcement a success, Pinchot said, adding that the one hope of real enforcement depended on none

MERCURY GOES TO 13 AS CAPITAL SHIVERS

MOTORISTS FACE TROUBLE

Intense cold paid its first seasonal visit to Washington last night and today, forcing temperatures down to an unofficial 13 degrees above zero at 10 p. m., and giving rise to an official forecast of "quite cold weather" today.

From a high mark of 43 degrees at noon, the temperature had dropped 11 degrees at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and at 10 o'clock the official temperature reading was 15 above zero, the coldest weather the Capital has experienced this season.

Rising temperatures tomorrow probably will be followed by snow or rain, said the Weather Bureau.

A stiff wind added to the discomfort of pedestrians last night, and reports to the American Automobile Association were that scores of motorists experienced difficulty caused by freezing as a result of sudden change from warm garages to near zero weather.

C. L. Mitchell, Weather Bureau forecaster, said that today probably would be the coldest of the season thus far.

"It appears to be a week averaging up cold," he said, "with rising temperatures in the middle of the week and lower temperatures toward the close."

WILL R. WOOD BACKS ATTACK ON APPOINTEE

"TRICKERY" CHARGED, HOUSE MEMBER SAYS

Representative Contends That F. J. Thiel Should Have Had Post.

FITNESS OF OFFICIAL QUESTIONED, HE HOLDS

H. Theodore Tate, Treasurer of the United States, is the central figure in an investigation which will come to a climax today or early this week, when the official report of a formal hearing in connection with the matter will be laid before Secretary of the Treasury Mellon or Undersecretary Ogden L. Mills.

The hearing in connection with the investigation was held last week, according to Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), of the Tenth Indiana district. The hearing, the representative said, was on charges involving alleged incompetency, alleged "trickery" in obtaining the position of treasurer, and alleged favoritism toward women employes.

Representative Wood declined to state who filed the charges against Tate, but it was understood that Treasury secret service operatives who have been conducting an investigation for the past several weeks brought pressure to bear which resulted in the hearing.

Bond Conducts Hearing.

Frank J. Thiel, Assistant Treasurer, was mentioned for the post later given to Tate, but Representative Wood, Thiel's personal friend, declared last night that the Assistant Treasurer was not behind the charges in any way.

Representative Wood stated that Thiel "should have been promoted to Treasurer instead of Tate," but that despite knowledge of this Thiel "has conducted himself as the gentleman that he is throughout the matter."

Thiel, questioned last night, declared he was not in a position to talk. He referred his questioners to Representative Wood.

Nomination not Confirmed.

Tate refused to answer the telephone when efforts were made last night to obtain a statement from him, the person who answered the telephone stating that Tate had retired and would not be disturbed.

Tate was nominated as Treasurer on April 24, last year, by President Coolidge. At that time the hold-over short session of the Seventieth Congress was in session, but the nomination was not confirmed. When that body adjourned President Coolidge made a recess appointment, but to date the Senate of the "lame duck" session of the Seventieth Congress has failed to confirm it.

In view of this circumstance, Representative Wood expressed the opinion last night that in event the charges against Tate are sustained that he will be ousted without any ceremony except the withdrawal of the nomination.

Appointed Under Wilson.

Tate has been connected with the Treasury Department a number of years. He first obtained an appointment

(Associated Press).

The Soviet government has assured Senator Borah, of Idaho, of cooperation in an investigation to determine the forger of the documents purporting to show that Borah and Senator Norris of Nebraska, were paid $100,000 each by Russia for services in behalf of American recognition of that government.

A cablegram from Maxim Litvinoff, acting secretary of foreign affairs of the Russian government, was transmitted yesterday to Senator Borah through Boris E. Skvirsky, unofficial American representative of the Soviet, denying that any employe of his government was implicated in the forgery.

"The government is ready," Litvinoff replied, "in every way possible to assist in the investigation of the whole matter. When informed of the forged documents by the special Senate committee which investigated them, Senator Borah

Fires 55 and 30 Floors Up Are Fought in Two Cities

New York, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—A young woman and five men were marooned for ten minutes today on the fifty-eighth floor platform of the Woolworth tower when fire broke out in machinery insulation on the fifty-fifth floor.

Edward J. Link, of Sunnyside, L. I., who was accompanied by his sister-in-law, Miss Margaret Shields, of Bay City, Mich., was the first person to fight his way through the smoke and flame down the circular stairway to the fifty-fourth floor. Two or three men followed. While they called firemen, Link returned to the marooned party, threw his overcoat over Miss Shields and escorted her down the stairway to safety. The others followed.

A crowd gathered around Park Row and Broadway to watch the smoke that was visible at the tower top. Fire department officials said it was the highest blaze in the history of New York. The fire, believed to have started with a short circuit was quickly extinguished. Damage was slight.

Chicago, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Fire broke out tonight 30 stories above La Salle street in the scaffolding of the uncompleted Foreman Bank Building, a 44-story skyscraper in the heart of downtown Chicago.

Blazing timbers were showered upon nearby buildings and imperiled firemen below, who were powerless to reach the flames. Handicapped by power inadequate to carry a stream of water to the thirtieth floor and by a ten-below zero temperature accentuated by a northwest wind, the fire fighters were forced to limit their efforts to protect adjoining buildings.

during the tenure of office of the late Woodrow Wilson. He was nominated for a post in the disbursing office, but he held that only a short time. William Gibbs McAdoo, then Secretary of the Treasury, having asserted that Tate was a Republican.

In January, 1922, Tate again became a Treasury official. On this occasion he was nominated as Deputy Assistant Treasurer by President Harding. He has served with the department continuously since that time.

Since his appointment as Treasurer one of Tate's duties has been affixing of his signature to all currency printed.

Succeeded Frank White.

Tate succeeded Frank White of North Dakota, who resigned. Prior to his appointment as Treasurer Tate had held the post of Assistant Treasurer. Thiel was the other Assistant Treasurer.

Thiel, under seniority rules, outranked Tate. He was promoted from Deputy Assistant Treasurer to Assistant Treasurer at the same time that Tate was nominated as deputy assistant.

Congressional records issued in 1922 show Frank White, treasurer; Frank J. Thiel, assistant treasurer, and H. Theodore Tate, deputy assistant treasurer. Directories for 1927 show both Thiel and Tate as assistants, with Thiel's name first.

Representative Wood was elected to the Sixty-fourth session and has been reelected successively since then. He is chairman of the Republican National Congressional Committee. He also is a member of the House appropriations committee.

Three Royal Flushes Held in Day by Woman

San Francisco, Jan. 13 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—"Heh, heh! Beginner's luck!" So chuckled William Schaumberg last night when his wife, playing her first game of poker, held a royal flush.

The second "Heh, heh!" which came a half hour later, Mrs. Schaumberg had caught her second royal flush. Fifteen minutes later she asked for "one card," and filled a third royal flush. Five players in the game vouched for Mrs. Schaumberg's three royal flushes.

Question Mark Flier Races With Death

Capt. Eaker Is Speeding by Plane and Auto to See Stricken Mother.

San Angelo, Tex., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Mrs. Y. Y. Eaker, mother of Capt. Ira Eaker, of the Question Mark, was near death from influenza at her home in Eden, near here, today.

Mrs. Eaker was buoyed by word that her famous son was flying in a swift pursuit plane from San Diego, Calif., to her bedside. Her condition tonight was slightly improved.

It was possible Eaker would reach his mother's side tonight. Claud Eaker, a brother, was to meet the flier here and rush him to Eden in an automobile. There is no landing field near Eden.

Physicians held little hope for Mrs. Eaker's recovery.

Midland, Tex., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Capt. Ira Eaker landed here at dusk. He was en route to Eden, Tex., where his mother is near death.

Eaker took off from San Diego at 6:30 o'clock this morning, Western time, and landed here at 5:05 o'clock this afternoon.

Sharp Quake Recorded In Egypt and Belgium

Cairo, Egypt, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—An earthquake shock of great intensity, with its epicenter about 5,600 miles away, was recorded at the Helouan Observatory beginning at 2:15 a. m. today.

Brussels, Belgium, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—A violent earthquake, with its epicenter about 5,000 miles distant, possibly in northern Japan, was recorded at the Uccle Observatory shortly after midnight last night.

Bandit Kills Victim; Beats Girl in Auto

Colorado Ranchman's Son Shot in Struggle by Thief He Seized.

Denver, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Clarence Gieseker, 21 years old, son of a rancher who lives near Denver, was shot and killed early this morning by a robber, who forced him from his automobile. His companion, Miss Anna Williamson, 19, was severely beaten and was in a hysterical condition at her home here tonight.

Gieseker and Miss Williamson had attended a theater in Denver early in the evening and were driving toward the Gieseker ranch when a masked man stepped out from the side of the road and ordered the youth and the girl out of the car.

"And be quick about it," the robber added, with one hand holding a revolver. He took $20 from Gieseker. As he turned toward the girl, the young ranchman knocked him down. The robber started to flee, but Gieseker caught him and in the struggle that followed was shot through the head. The robber then returned to the car, beat Miss Williamson severely and disappeared.

SET FIRES TO FIGHT THEM, SAYS FIREMAN

Leader of Volunteer Group Declares First Was Lit to Avoid Initiation.

BETRAYED BY CUT HAND

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Jan. 13 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Earl Rock, of Morrisonville, near here, popular musician, and one of the leading members of the Volunteer Fire Department, has acknowledged himself as the man who set all the fires that have recently terrorized the town, destroyed thousands of dollars in property, and endangered the lives of his friends and neighbors.

In a full confession to District Attorney B. Loyal O'Connell, of Clinton County, Rock, who is 30, gives a detailed description of the fires he set and the reasons for setting them.

The first fire was set by him last May, and he tells of it as follows:

"I was elected to the grange and was supposed to be initiated. I did not like the thought and a short time before it was to take place I decided to set fire to the Sorrell store, as the Grange Hall was above that store and I knew that if it burned up I would not be initiated." He set the store on fire, then helped put out the blaze.

Of the next fire he set, he writes: "For some reason which I can not explain, I wanted to set fire to the Catholic Church shed. I had no grudge against the Church or the priest, and am a Catholic and go to that church. I took some excelsior, put it inside and set fire to it. I went home and went to bed. When I heard the church bell I got up, went to the fire and helped carry water in buckets."

"During the fall of 1928," he goes on "I kept track of the efforts to organize a volunteer fire department in Morrisonville. This was finally done and I was asked to serve as a volunteer fireman. I was very glad to do this, for I have always liked to help put out fires."

From then on he kept setting fires frequently.

"When I got home," he says of the next fire, "I began to think about setting fire to the Purdy barns, because I wanted to see how the new fire equipment was going to work and I wanted to help put out the fire." He set the fire and went home to wait for the church bell. When this sounded he ran to the garage.

"I got on the truck and rode to the fire," he writes. "When we got to the barns I helped put out the hose. I handled the nozzle on one of the two lines. This is what I like to do best when fighting a fire—handle the hose. I worked very hard fighting this fire and afterward several people told me that I worked all night like a dog."

Celebrates New Year.

"New Year's Night, this year, I was at home all evening and about 11 o'clock I decided to set fire to the Vaughn house because I again wanted to fight a fire. I knew there was nobody in the house." He set the fire, then, "when I heard the bell I ran down to the scene and I again worked on the nozzle.

"A week later I again decided to set a fire. I went to the residence of F. M. Purdy, as I knew they were away, broke a window and set fire to the curtain, and then set fire to a bag in the shed. I had been drinking some that night. I then went over to Fred Trombly's house. I didn't know whether he was home or not and I went into the shed and lit a match and dropped it. I then went home. Somebody hollered 'fire!' and I ran to the garage, woke up the driver and he and I went to the fire alone. We laid the hose and I took charge of the nozzle."

The Purdy fire led to Rock's discovery. He cut his hand when he smashed the window. When he gave the alarm it was noticed his hand was bleeding. Later the broken window, smeared with bloodstains, was found. Rock was questioned, broke down and wrote his confession.

3,692 Crows in 2 Shots Of Dynamite, Is Record

Vinita, Okla., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Harve Dennis, who lives 4 miles west of Timber Hill, is claiming championship crow shooting honors, and to date no one has appeared to challenge his record, for Dennis bagged 3,692 crows in two shots.

Dennis, with two neighbors, purchased 300 pounds of dynamite and planted half of it under a tree on which the crows roosted. The first shot netted them 1,492 crows. A few days later they repeated the trick, getting 2,200 crows. Dennis collected a bounty of 5 cents for the left wing of each crow.

Five Shot Over Spilled Liquor; Three Are Dead

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—The death yesterday of Howard Schultz brought to three the fatalities of an alleged wild shooting spree Monday by Lehman H. Griffin, a logger at a nearby lumber camp.

Officers are still searching for Griffin in a swamp. It is charged he killed Francis Heath, 10; fatally wounded the boy's father, L. Heath, and wounded Schultz and his wife. Griffin, officers said, became enraged when he saw Mrs. Heath destroying a bottle of liquor and started shooting.

LOS ANGELES MAKES TOUR OVER FLORIDA

RETURNS TO BASE TODAY

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—After paying a belated aerial visit to Miami and other coastal and inland cities in Florida today, the Navy's giant dirigible, the Los Angeles, tonight was sailing westward across the Florida Peninsula to St. Josephs Bay, where it is planned to refuel at the tender Patoka tomorrow before starting its homeward journey to Lakehurst, N. J.

Clear skies and a bright sun provided ideal flying conditions for the dirigible's trip today, which were in marked contrast to the cloudy, rany weather that had caused the airship to remain moored to the mast of the Patoka since its arrival there last Thursday. Late Thursday the big craft attempted to continue its Miami flight but was forced back by low hanging clouds and indications of bad weather.

Crowds Greet Air Liner.

Thousands of spectators on the west and east coasts of the State, as well as many in the central and northern sections, greeted the dirigible as she glided over St. Petersburg, Tampa, Fort Myers, Miami, Palm Beach, Orlando and Jacksonville.

Plans tonight called for the arrival of the Los Angeles at the Patoka, off Port St. Joe, early tomorrow. After refueling, and if weather conditions are favorable, she probably will take off about noon on a direct flight to the base at Lakehurst.

Leaving the Patoka late yesterday, the Los Angeles headed out across the Gulf of Mexico, passed over St. Petersburg and Tampa, and continued south along the west coast shore line to Fort Myers, where it turned inland toward Miami.

Arriving there about 7 o'clock this morning, she was met by an escort of airplanes. Foghorns from boats in Biscayne Bay and sirens of the fire department screeched out a welcome an hour later.

Other Cities Visited.

Proceeding up the east coast, the Los Angeles dipped low over the winter resort of Palm Beach and there took a northwestward course, arriving at Okeechobee City, on the northern shores of Lake Okeechobee, about noon.

From thence the route led up the Kissimmee River Valley to Orlando, where it circled over that city for several minutes, and then headed for Jacksonville.

Before arriving at Orlando, Lieut. Comdr. Rosendahl sent a wireless message to the naval station at Pensacola, asking for the delivery of a supply of oil to the tender Patoka by 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Lindbergh Defies Snow; Forced Down

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Cold and snow balked the execution of plans for dedicating the Columbus Municipal Airport today although Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was on hand and willing to help out.

Col. Lindbergh came here this afternoon from Cumberland, Md., where his plane had been forced down on its way from Philadelphia, because of a cracked exhaust pipe. He was flying in the City of Columbus, office ship of the Transcontinental Air Transport Co., with other officials of the company.

His party had planned to make Indianapolis tonight, he said, and would continue westward tomorrow morning. His immediate objective is Los Angeles, where he plans to inspect sites for a terminus.

Maryland Atlantic City Is Found, Under Ocean

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 13 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—"Atlantic City, Md." has been discovered after fishing around for several months, postoffice inspectors found it, a four-mile strip of sand, several feet under high tide about seven miles below Ocean City, Md. It is more appropriately known as "Waters."

The stimulus that led to the search came from inquiries received from people all over the country who had bought ocean front lots at the resort. The most persistent was Mrs. Mary Dodzek, of Schulter, Okla., who said she had been paying taxes on her lot since 1917.

As to dreams of palatial hotels and gay piers, they were dispelled when the inspectors failed to find a house within several miles of the place. At low tide the land might be seen peeping through the water.

to have started in the partitions of the living room which was located beneath the bedroom where Mrs. Ruth was found. Firemen said that the fire might have been caused by defective wiring.

After the death of the woman Friday night a death certificate was issued in the name of Mrs. Helen Kinder. The first hint that the woman was Mrs. Ruth was said to have reached the officials through a person who identified a picture of the woman known as Mrs. Kinder as the ball player's wife. Mrs. Ruth's sisters in South Boston then were summoned and after the investigation Ruth was notified in New York.

Mrs. Ruth was a resident of South Boston when she and Ruth became acquainted shortly after he came to the Boston Red Sox in 1915. At that time she was employed as a waitress in a Back Bay restaurant near the ball park. They were married a few months later. For a time they lived in a Back Bay apartment and later, when Ruth went to the New York Americans, they moved to New York.

Considerable mystery surrounded the birth of the daughter. In September, 1922, the Ruths announced that sixteen months before a child had been born to them, but that they had kept the birth secret. A few days later Ruth said the child was born on February 2, 1921. Mrs. Ruth shortly afterward said the girl was born on June 7, 1921.

Doctor Is Missing.

Kinder, whose home was with his parents in South Boston, is said to have made the acquaintance of both Ruth and his wife during their courtship days when they attended social affairs in South Boston. He attended the Boston Latin School and was graduated from Tufts Dental School in 1924. Although he maintained an office in Boston, he continued to live with his parents. He was not there today, however, and a sign on the door of the house said no one was at home.

More than a year ago, according to neighbors here, Kinder and the woman supposed to be his wife moved into the bungalow where the fire occurred. The child, known to the neighbors as Dorothy Kinder, was seen frequently with her mother.

Last September Mrs. Ruth was taken to a hospital suffering from a nervous breakdown and was under treatment for some time.

Kinder was last seen by neighbors Friday night when he returned to his home after the fire and after Mrs. Ruth had died. Efforts to locate him today failed.

Student, Starting Car, Hit and Killed by Bus

La Porte, Ind., Jan. 13 (U.P.).—Charles Kramer, 22 years old, of Eastman, Wis., was killed instantly near here today when struck by a bus while he was assisting in starting a stalled automobile. Kramer was a student in a watchmaking school in Chicago.

DEMOCRATIC SURVEY SHOWS PARTY NEEDS

MANY HANDICAPS NAMED

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Continuous national activity by the Democratic party carried on through the periods between presidential campaigns was described as the urgent need of the party in answers by Democratic leaders of the Nation to queries sent them by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt at the termination of the last campaign. The governor tonight made public an initial survey of several thousand letters received from State party leaders of the country.

The absence of national activity in the years between presidential campaigns has been a decided handicap to State organizations, the leaders told the governor. Mr. Roosevelt said that no single section of the country's Democracy should arrive at a conclusion on a national issue without knowing of the attitude of other sections of the country and that he hoped that the necessary contact would be established through placing the national organization on "a thoroughly efficient and businesslike basis."

Clearing House Is Needed.

"One of the structural faults of our national Democratic organization in the past," said the governor, "which has resulted from our previous practice of laying the national committee carefully away in cotton wool after each election, to be taken out and dusted off just before the next presidential election, has been the lack of any central clearing house for exchange of ideas among the leaders, great and small, of our party."

The governor said that "Never before in the history of the Democratic party, at least during the last 25 years, has there been shown so clearly a militant, aroused and aggressive determination to fight not only with a view to the national four years from now, but for the coming congressional elections in 1930" as now exists.

"I think it is a safe statement to make that the effect of our failure at the polls last year instead of discouraging members of the Democratic party has been to arouse in them the 'will to win' said the governor.

"This country clearly expressed a feeling that can only be compared to that which followed the theft of the Presidency in the case of Mr. Tilden," he continued. "Bigotry, ignorance of Democratic principles, the spread by unspeakable and un-American methods of the most atrocious falsehood, unfair and improper pressure brought to bear upon workers in specially favored Republican industries, false claims for the prosperity of this country and kindred propaganda, cheated, so my correspondents feel, our party out of the Presidency."

Publicity Urged in Letters.

Publicity is another great need of the party, the governor said he was told in the majority of the letters.

"Perhaps the most encouraging thing about these letters," Gov. Roosevelt said, "is the information they bring of the establishment of local Democratic clubs, immediately following our recent defeat, for the purpose of educating and arousing the voters of our own party and winning converts from those who did not vote with us last year. The women of our organization have been particularly active in this line."

The governor said he hoped some way would be worked out to bring about unity of effort of these clubs, creating of them some kind of an informal organization.

The $1,500,000 deficit of the national organization resulting from the last campaign is not worrying the party, the governor said.

COMMITTEES CHOSEN FOR INAUGURAL BALL

Mrs. John Allan Dougherty Is to Direct Affair in the Name of Charity.

PLANNED FOR MARCH 4

Committees which will prepare for the inaugural ball to be held on the evening of March 4 were announced last night by Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 2d, general inaugural committee chairman. Assisting Mrs. John Allan Dougherty as director will be:

E. A. Harriman, James Coul Fraser, Miss Katherine Judge, Mrs. Sidney Coleman, Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, Mrs. Frank Mondell, Mrs. E. Hope Slater, Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, Mrs. Laurence Townsend, chairman of the music committee, and Col. O. Latrobe, aid to President Coolidge, chairman of the floor committee. Roland Robbins will be chairman of the ticket committee.

The general inaugural committee is sponsoring the charity ball, but is giving over to the above-named group management of all details. A limited executive committee, which will act for the general committee in coordinating the plans of the ball committee with the general plans, was announced by Col. Grant as follows:

Joseph H. Hines, chairman; E. F. Colladay, E. C. Graham and C. C. Glover, jr., who will serve as treasurer of funds raised by the ball for charity. The net profits from the entertainment will go to the Community Chest excepting amounts of $5,000 each to the insurance relief funds of the police and fire departments.

Sir David Serjeant, 99, British Doctor, Dies

London, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Sir David Maurice Serjeant, believed to be England's oldest physician, died today at the age of 99. He was a poet as well, and was knighted when he was 91 for his patriotic verse.

Leaving Cambridge University without funds, he tried the Australian gold diggings, but only contracted fever in the cluster of huts which then stood for Melbourne. After working as a painter, paperhanger and gardener, he returned to England and resumed his medical studies. He practiced for 60 years in Camberwell.

Banton Told Klan Posed as "Frat"

Gained New York Charter in Guise of Greek Letter Society, Is Charge.

New York, Jan. 13.—District Attorney Joab H. Banton tomorrow will question several knights of the Ku Klux Klan, as the first step in an effort to determine whether the fraternity of the flaming cross pulled a "fast one" in obtaining its New York State charter.

Banton has subpenaed the president and several directors of the Knights and Ladies of the K. K. K., among them L. Miller Clark, the president; J. Archibald Wilson, Horace A. Demarest, F. Ashfield, Wm. F. Casper and Jay D. Jones.

According to information in Banton's hands, the klan got incorporation papers without revealing their secret oaths and membership lists, by organizing as a Greek letter society—Alpha Pi Sigma. The State department, under the impression that the organizers were college lads issued the charter, passing up the secret data.

Once organized, according to Banton's information, the society changed its name to the Knights and Ladies of the K. K. K., and forgot to hand to the secretary of state the additional information required under the Walker antiklan law. If the State finds that somebody deceived Albany, the organizers can be sent to jail for three years, fined $1,000 each, and $10,000 more levied on the organization itself.

Queen Ill, No Palace Services Are Held

King's Physicians Confer for Hour and Half; Ruler Has Restful Night.

London, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—The customary Sunday services at Buckingham Palace Chapel were not held this morning because of the indisposition of Queen Mary, who has been stricken with a cold after the long strain of King George's illness.

The customary morning bulletin on King George's condition was omitted this morning by prearrangement of his physicians. No bulletin was expected this evening.

It was said that Queen Mary was confined to her suite of rooms chiefly as a precautionary measure until she recovers from her cold.

King George is said to have passed a restful night. The physicians, Lord Dawson of Penn, Sir Hugh Rigby and Sir Stanley Hewett, conferred for an hour and a half this morning.

Former School Athlete Called Bandits' Leader

Mexico, Mo., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—The alleged leader of robbers who looted the First National Bank of Mexico of $13,775 was identified yesterday as Tom Dunn, 23, former high school athlete of Dallas, Tex., by W. T. Hightower, of Fort Worth, Tex.

Hightower's son, Wilburn, was killed by a posse in attempting to escape. Dunn, captured on January 4 after a manhunt near here, had maintained he was Tom Davis, of Atlanta, Ga.

The slain bandit's father has been an educator in Texas schools for 31 years.

Slayer, Given Life Term, Turns to Comic Page

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Awaiting sentence for murder after pleading guilty in criminal court yesterday, Leroy Moss, 26 years old, negro, read a newspaper. When sentenced to life imprisonment, Moss said "All right" in an unconcerned manner and turned to the comic page.

Moss, a professional juggler, pleaded guilty to killing Joseph Saunders, a fellow juggler, in an argument over wages.

Youth Robs One Woman To Impress Another, Charge

Young Russian in Paris Also Is Alleged to Have Replaced Gem in American Fiancee's Ring; Alleged Fake Bonds Are Seized.

Paris, Jan. 13 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Charges of robbing one American woman to keep up an appearance of affluence before his American fiancee have landed young Vladimar Tetischeff, son of a once rich Moscow banker, in jail here.

While dancing with Mrs. Elizabeth Salomon, of 51 Quai Bourbon, Paris, in a fashionable restaurant, it is alleged he found means of detaching a diamond and platinum bracelet worth $10,000 which she was wearing and the next day sold it in a jewelry shop, using part of the money to pay rent on his room in the Hotel Scribe.

He had already played a trick on his fiancee, Miss Dorothy Dotty, a young American girl, according to the jeweler to whom he sold Mrs. Salomon's bracelet. This merchant told the police that Tetischeff had come to him with a solitaire diamond ring and had the $1,000 stone in it exchanged for paste. Investigation disclosed that Tatischeff had obtained the ring from Miss Dotty on the plea of matching it for an engagement ring and had then returned the paste jewel to her. The jeweler explained that he did not realize at the time what the young Russian was doing.

In Tetischeff's possession at the time of his arrest were found 900,000 francs of alleged worthless bonds which the police say he was trying to dispose of to men who had had business connections with his dead father.

CAPITAL SHIVERS IN YEAR'S COLDEST WAVE

Chicago, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Winter's latest sortie over the ice-bound Middle West sent the mercury downward to record low temperatures tonight, sharpening the misery of the poor and contributing to a number of deaths from exposure.

The subzero wave was most acute in the Northwest, with thermometers reading 41 below zero at International Falls, Minn., on the Canadian border. Records of eleven years' standing were broken at Duluth, where the official temperature was 34 degrees below, and across the State line at Superior, Wis., firemen were handicapped by freezing hose as they battled a blaze that destroyed the Superior Journal Building. The loss was $40,000.

Hope for two fishermen, missing since Saturday off Grand Marais, Minn., was given up today when the Coast Guard cutter Crawford reported that search for the men was unsuccessful. Had the pair kept their craft afloat it is believed they would have perished of exposure.

Tonight the temperatures were moderating, with 18 below zero at Duluth. At Fargo, the minimum was 27 below; at Rhinelander, Wis., the mark of 30 below was the coldest in several years. Temperatures ranged around the zero mark in Nebraska and touched 8 below in Des Moines, but there the wave had already begun to recede.

Snow plows from Salem, Bangor, and Rockland were bucking their way along the Milwaukee railroad lines today to clear the way for a passenger train stalled since midnight Saturday at Viroqua, Wis. The temperature stood at 20 degrees below zero and 12 passengers were aboard.

Three persons died of exposure in Chicago, where suffering was intense as the mercury slipped down to an official reading of 11 degrees below zero. Several firemen were injured fighting blazes in various parts of the city. Thirty tenants were driven from their homes by a stubborn fire at Argo, a western suburb. Hundreds of the city's homeless poor were herded into police stations and rescue missions for the night.

A brisk north wind intensified the cold here, but with a promised shift to the west, the temperature will rise tomorrow, the Weather Bureau forecast. Twenty degrees above zero was the prophecy for Monday afternoon in Chicago.

New York, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—New Yorkers shivered in the coldest weather of the winter tonight with the thermometer registering 12 degrees above zero at 10 o'clock and a low of 5 to 6 degrees above forecast for before dawn. The previous two mark was on January 8, when the temperature dropped to 14 above.

Snow flurries this afternoon ushered in the cold weather, which was made more intense by a strong west wind.

Reception Halted By Mrs. Lindbergh

Flier's Mother Leaves Constantinople Quietly; Is Going to Egypt.

Constantinople, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, left Constantinople today as unobstrusively as she arrived last September. She abruptly changed her plans to remain here until January 19 and departed for Cairo, Egypt, avoiding newspaper men and calling off demonstrations by students at the American College where she has endeared herself.

Miss Kathryn Adams, president of the college, told the Associated Press that Mrs. Lindbergh had from the beginning intended to remain only a half school year as visiting professor of chemistry, and that her departure therefore was expected. She said the college deeply appreciated her work. The American University at Beirut, Syria, has invited her to visit it after her stay at Cairo and before she returns to America.

Turks generally, among whom Mrs. Lindbergh made many friends seemed appreciative of her interest in their country's evolution, and of her efforts to learn the Turkish language and make herself a part of Turkish life during her short stay here.

Wyatt Earp, Noted Gunman Of Old Frontier Days, Dies

Special to The Washington Post.

Hollywood, Calif., Jan. 13.—Wyatt Earp, one of the last of the celebrated frontier gunmen whose guns blazed on the side of law and order, died peacefully in his Hollywood home in the arms of his wife, early this morning. The 78-year-old pioneer, a friend for 30 years of Tex Rickard, whom he knew in Nome, Alaska, where both operated gambling halls, in California and in Nevada, will closely follow his old pal to the grave here on Tuesday.

Earp was lionized by some of the leaders in the film colony. Bill Hart, who was his friend for years, was summoned by Mrs. Earp to assist in the funeral arrangements. Like Hart, Wilson Mizner, playwright and former Alaska pioneer, who also ran a gambling hall in Nome, and who was Earp's friend from the frozen North to semi-tropic California, is to be a pallbearer.

Earp's shooting exploits became part of frontier history around Tombstone, Ariz., where Wyatt Earp was deputy United States marshal and at Benson, Ariz. The ready guns of his brothers, Virgil and Newton, and his pal, Doc Holliday, sometimes saved his life as he saved theirs.

Wyatt Earp came to the Southwest from Monmouth, Ill. The family originally had been from Virginia, by way of Kentucky. The brothers came West in the sixties before the Civil War. Newton Earp died recently in Sacramento, Calif., at the age of 91.

Wyatt Earp acted for a time as city marshal for Dodge City, while the late Bat Masterson, later of New York, was sheriff of Dodge County. Earp plunged for a last time into that stormy life that surrounds the frontier during the Klondike gold rush of the late nineties. Like Rickard, Wyatt Earp went serenely through the truculence of the Alaska settlements, sustained by the respect due to a generation's reputation for gameness, competence and squareness. This reputation also caused Earp's selection as referee in Tom Sharkey's fight with Bob Fitzsimmons, which had been preceded by rumors that the fight was to be "fixed" and that the referee would be intimidated.

There was a protest after the fight, but it was not addressed to Earp personally. In recent years Earp had a share in the making of several motion pictures dealing with subjects from the old West, but this was little more than a recreation with him. He acted as a technical assistant and adviser on costumes, horseback riding and tricks of gun play.

JOURNEY TO FLORIDA IS DELAYED BY HOOVER

President-Elect to Clean Up Work of Receiving His Callers in This City.

MAY DEPART ON FRIDAY

President-elect Hoover has delayed his departure for Florida for several days for a clean-up of the work of receiving callers here.

Mr. Hoover now is expected to leave Washington Thursday or Friday, arriving at Belle Isle, Fla., near Miami Beach, for a complete change of front, in which most of the few callers will be at his bidding and will hear as well as give advice and orders.

The passive Hoover role in the Capital, which has served to bring many notations for the inaugural address, will be changed to an aggressive one, with Hooverized efficiency. The President-elect plays as hard as he works. He will be intense in his application to fishing, drafting the inaugural address, planning governmental reorganization, sifting Cabinet appointment problems, deferring arguments with patronage seekers, taking one-day recreational excursions on short notice and arguing with advisers.

In his week of intensive and extensive listening, in Washington the President-elect has received more than 200 callers. These included 20 senators, 50 representatives, half the Cabinet, countless old friends, Government officials and business leaders. He has made no public utterance. In addition to a regular annual eight-hour day in his hotel suite, in an isolation protected by half a dozen Secret Service men, he has conferred with guests at breakfast, luncheon and dinner. Political speculation has been written by the thousands of words, based upon the largely noncommittal entry and departure of callers.

The Hoovers attended religious services this morning in the small Friends meeting house at Thirteenth and Irving streets, accompanied by Mr and Mrs. Edgar Rickard, friends who have been house guests of the Hoovers. Dinner guests tonight included Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, whose vociferous backing for a Cabinet post has caused much comment, and Senator and Mrs. James Douglas.

The President-elect will continue his conferences tomorrow, with William J. Donovan, Assistant Attorney General, slated for his seventh conference on problems concerning the proposed elevation of Mr. Donovan to Attorney General. Much of the opposition to Donovan, highly organized on an anti-Catholic line, has given way. He will depart soon for New Mexico, to resume his role later as adviser in Florida.

Mr. Hoover will be an executive innovator. He likes to plan on a large scale, refrain from comment as much as possible and shock with the scope of important announcements.

MRS. A. V. FRANKLAND DIES

Widow of Confederate Veteran, 85, Succumbs to Pneumonia.

Mrs. Alice Virginia Frankland, 85 years old, wife of the late Capt. Walter E. Frankland, Confederate veteran, died yesterday from pneumonia at her home at 1013 Eighth street northwest. Funeral services will be held this evening at 7 o'clock from the John R. Wright Co. chapel, at 1337 Tenth street northwest. Mrs. Frankland will be buried at Stephens City, Va., beside her husband.

She is survived by a son, Dr. W. Ashby Frankland, of Washington, and four daughters, Miss Mary H. Frankland, of Washington; Mrs. J. W. Wheatley, of Easton, Md.; Mrs. D. W. Weaver, of Harrisonburg, Va., and Mrs. William Bell, of Charlotte, N. C.

COMDR. WOODRUFF DIES OF INFLUENZA

Shipping Board Attorney, 58, to Be Buried Tomorrow in Arlington Cemetery.

VETERAN OF WORLD WAR

Lieut. Comdr. John Sitcher Woodruff, 58 years old, director of navigation laws revision work for the United States Shipping Board, died early yesterday morning at George Washington Hospital. His death was unexpected, following a relapse from a severe attack of influenza. He resided with his family at 1620 R street northwest.

At the time he was stricken Commander Woodruff was engaged in codifying the navigation laws of the United States, and also was preparing to represent the United States in an expert capacity at the international conference on safety of life at sea, scheduled for this spring in London.

A graduate of Yale College and Harvard law school, he entered the practice of admiralty law in New York during the late nineties. He followed this calling until the United States entered the World War, when he accepted a commission in the Navy. After the war he resumed his law practice until about five years ago, when he accepted a position with the Shipping Board.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Marian Parker Woodruff; his mother, Mrs. Mahlon J. Woodruff, of New York City; his daughter, Mrs. Charles Peter Weeks, of San Francisco, Calif., and a sister, Mrs Oscar A. Woodruff, of New York.

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow from the chapel at Fort Myer, the hour being undecided last night. Interment will be in Arlington Cemetery.

NOTED ARTIST KILLS SELF; CANCER VICTIM

DIES FACING PAINTINGS

New York, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Emil Fuchs, internationally famous painter and sculptor, committed suicide today by shooting himself in the heart on the balcony of his West Sixty-seventh street apartment. Police said he had been a sufferer from cancer for a long time and had undergone several operations.

The body was found by a sister, Rene Fuchs, who became alarmed at not finding him when she went to the apartment to prepare his noonday meal, as had been her custom. Knowing her brother's despondency over his health, she went at once to the balcony, where she found the body with a bullet wound from a revolver which had been held close against the chest. Police said a note addressed to the sister, the text of which was not made public, explained that the artist felt himself a burden to himself, his sister and the whole world and felt that he "might as well end it."

Miss Fuchs said that she telephoned to her brother at noon to tell him she would be over to prepare his dinner, but he asked her not to, explaining that he was not hungry. She found the body in an armchair on the balcony, facing several of his paintings. The revolver lay on the floor by his side.

The sister said her brother underwent a serious operation last June and recently had complained of severe pain. She said he asked her a few days ago not to feel too badly if he met an "untimely end." At that time she said she asked her brother if he intended to take his life, and he said he did not. Later police made public an extract from the note to the sister.

"I am failing from day to day. You can notice that as well as I. Forgive me for what I am going to do. It is the only way out," the extract said.

Mr. Fuchs was born in Vienna, Austria, August 9, 1866, a son of Leopold and Josephine F. Fuchs, and was educated at the Imperial Academy of Fine Arts in Vienna and in Berlin. He exhibited in the Royal Academy in London, the Salon in Paris and in Munich, Vienna and Rome.

The artist came to America in 1905 and became a citizen of the United States nineteen years later. Some of his works are in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York; the Cleveland Museum, the New York Public Library and the Congressional Library, Washington.

Community Chest, pointed out that an unprecedented sum required by the 57 charities under the chest banner will call for gifts beyond all previous needs. The total amount needed, according to Delano, is $1,343,348.93. This sum, which includes administration expenses as well as the fund for charitable agencies affiliated in the chest, was set by the budget committee under the chairmanship of Charles J. Bell after a study of the needs of Washington benevolences.

"The amount is thoroughly justified as the result of this study," Delano said, "and, indeed, many thousands of dollars more could be effectively expended. As a matter of fact, the budget committee, in preparing these budgets, reduced their original requests by over $150,000 in the belief that while these requests were proper if funds were available, only the most urgent needs of the community should be met."

Amounts given by contributors to charities in the past in a systematic way will not be sufficient to cover the needs of the chest, Delano said, because of many methods of collecting which were not made a matter of record by the giver. In this category he listed bazaars, balls, street tagging and flower sales.

"Very few givers have any record of such contributions," he added. "The amount to cover such unrecorded gifts must be added to the estimate of what the giver has been contributing to charity in the past."

GEN. BOOTH OPPOSED BY RICH AMERICANS

HIGH OFFICERS DEMOTED

wrote that he, too, was utterly opposed to the Salvation Army's form of organization.

He declared that he had profound confidence in and respect for both Gen. William and Gen. Bramwell Booth, but that he could not contribute more heavily as long as it was theoretically possible for one man in the international headquarters at London to say, "I own the whole Salvation Army," even the American Salvation Army, which had been built up with American workers and American dollars.

It was pointed out that if the leader of the Salvation Army suddenly became mentally incapacitated, he could dissipate, give away or sell properties bought by American contributions and by American contributions alone. Moreover, without the consent of that one man in London, the American Salvation Army could not make plans to utilize the money it had raised. Mr. Rockefeller wrote Bramwell Booth that he sympathized with Evangeline's desire to democratize the Army and to substitute for autocratic one-man control an elected council, which should elect its head.

Commander Evangeline Booth, it may be mentioned, has become an American citizen—an act which displeased her brother and his group of conservatives in London.

No Concessions Made.

Gen. Bramwell Booth made no concessions to the Rockefellers. In fact, he has taken only one step in response to the agitation that has been going years. He named a high council designed to meet only in an emergency—if the leader should meet with a sudden, fatal accident or become mentally incapacitated before he had named his successor. In such an event, the council was to choose a new general.

If the liberals should lose the fight in the high council—a remote possibility according to present indications—the American Salvation Army would break away from the international organization at once, in the opinion of the informant. If they win and Gen. Booth abdicates, however, it is unlikely that Evangeline Booth would permit herself to be elected leader. Those close to her say she would not give up her work in the United States to head the international organization in London.

U. S. Branch Wealthiest.

The American Salvation Army is by far the wealthiest branch, particularly since the war, when public appreciation of the army's wartime efforts brought in enough funds to permit it to spend $7,000,000 a year on its charitable activities, where before it had spent $600,000. But this vast organization, whose property in this country is estimated at $33,000,000, is controlled in all important details by Gen. Bramwell Booth.

Each State organization of the Salvation Army is incorporated, with the American commander as president and the State leader as secretary, but these officers hold only a nominal number of shares, the fewest permitted by law. The rest are sequestered in this city in the name of the international head of the army. All transfers of property, all building plans, even such details as the assignment of cadets to the army training schools here, are controlled by Gen. Bramwell Booth.

Charles J. Faulkner, Ex-Senator, Is Dead

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Jan. 13.—Charles James Faulkner, 81, jurist, United States senator from West Virginia from 1887 to 1899, and Confederate veteran, died at his suburban home, Boydville, this morning after a one-day illness. Death was due to heart failure.

Tentative arrangements are for funeral services Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, with burial here.

Senator Faulkner, known as "the grand old man of Berkeley County," was the son of Charles James Faulkner, of Virginia, one time Minister to France, and of Mary Wagner Faulkner. He was born here September 21, 1847, educated in Virginia schools and also in France and Switzerland, while his father was serving abroad. He served with Virginia Military Institute Cadets at the battle of New Market in the Civil War, and afterward was an aid to Gens. Breckenridge and Wise.

Senator Faulkner's first wife, who died in 1891, was Miss Sallie Winn, of Charlottesville, Va. In January, 1894, he married Miss Virginia Fairfax Whiting, of Hampton, Va. Surviving are the widow and four children, Mrs. Jane White, this city; Mrs S. R. Snodgrass, at the home; Charles James Faulkner, jr., Chicago, general counsel for Armour & Co., and Attorney Whiting C. Faulkner, of Richmond, Va.

Maj. Graham Bell Dies.

PROHIBITION MARKS NINTH ANNIVERSARY

HESSE'S PLAN APPROVED

of these things, but on the President of the United States giving to the people the "spirit of a proper regard for law." Outlining a number of actions President Hoover "might take," Pinchot said the President could instill this spirit in every enforcement officer in less than 5 per cent of his working time. He went a step further than Maj. Hesse and suggested that Congress in time might suggest an amendment under which the buyer of illegal liquors would be chargeable with a felony.

"A lot of people seem to think that transfer of the enforcement administration from one government department to another would result in enforcement. Nothing could be further from the truth. One department can neglect prohibition as effectively as another.

"The essential thing," he asserted, "is that the head of the department, and every man directly concerned with enforcement actually believe in the law. Prohibition has not succeeded because the Government has not wished it to succeed. Not until the President makes it his personal business to see that enforcement is a fact will we have success."

Money Should Be Accepted.

F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-saloon League, told a congregation in Foundry Methodist Church that in his opinion it would be wise for the Congress to accept the $25,000,000 appropriation offered by the Senate committee last week. The appropriation would "speed up" enforcement, McBride said, despite that "the wets supporting the appropriation are not sincere."

McBride said the first definite conclusion he arrived at on taking stock of prohibition at the end of the ninth year was that "at its worst and in its worst places, Chicago and Washington, D. C., prohibition is better than the old liquor traffic at its best and in the saloon's best places." The people are for prohibition, he said, but added that militancy, with cooperation beginning at Washington, is needed.

Clinton N. Howard, who is chairman of the National United Committee for Law Enforcement, read letters from Vice President-elect Charles Curtis and Senator Joe T. Robinson, the defeated vice presidential candidate, in which each expressed the hope that enforcement might be made a success.

"I do hope the law will be better and more rigidly enforced than ever before," Curtis wrote.

"I am thoroughly in sympathy with the better enforcement and observance of the prohibition law," was Robinson's expression.

Howard declared that Maj. Hesse's plan "has upon it the stamp of divine approval. He proposes to bestow upon the Police Department of Washington the same authority which Jesus exercised in enforcing the law in Jerusalem.

Speaker Quotes Bible.

"It is to be observed that on Palm Sunday it was the crowd that waved the palm branches. Jesus waved the scourge. * * * Jesus made no distinction between the buyer and seller, where there was a violation of the law."

Only 38 policemen on the Washington force of 1,850 have the same measure of authority now vested in prohibition enforcement officers, he said. Pinchot added later that if the District Commissioners were to lay the law down on the Police Department its members could furnish the address of every "speak-easy" in the Capital in one week.

"They know where the speak-easys are, all right," he remarked.

The appeal for cooperation and statement of hope for ultimate enforcement had no place in a stinging statement issued by Henry Curran, whose Association Against the Prohibition Amendment is adamant in its opposition to the law and all its appurtenances.

"Now that nine years of prohibition are up," he stated, "an accurate inventory of the blessings which it has showered upon us indicates that we have outdone Capt. Kidd, because we now have not only the smugglers and pirates of the days of golden doubloons but we also boast a complete equipment of bootleggers, hijackers, racketeers, gunmen and even the lonely but useful kibitzers.

Law's Evils Are Stressed.

"We also are blessed with speakeasies, hooch on the hip, bubbling vats and steaming stills in the kitchens of the land, a bumper crop of drinking drys and an interesting transformation of the churches of religion of yesteryear into the town halls of tyranny of today. And I nearly forgot the nightly movie of father and mother sitting up beside the family lamp and wondering whether daughter will get home from the hip-mobile party in time for breakfast.

"All of these things we have in the United States. No other nation in the world has them, except possibly Finland, which still staggers under prohibition just as we do. Many of the other nations tried prohibition, but did away with it as soon as the racketeers and all the rest began to appear. Only the plain Finns over there and the plain fish over here still flop feebly in the net of the prohibitors.

"Some day it will be different. We got ahead a little when President Coolidge first gave us leave to be opposed to the eighteenth amendment, and then a little later on told us that we might even say so. Much obliged. Some of us have been saying so for some time, with or without leave. Now about 50,000,000 Americans are saying so nearly every day as they conduct their own little individual daily American Revolutions against prohibition, even to the extent of rolling their own in the home if they can not obtain the ready-made product."

Mrs. K. E. Jervey Dies at 56 Years

Mrs. Katherine Erwin Jervey, 56 years old, wife of Brig. Gen. Henry Jervey, United States Army retired, died at her home at 218 Prospect street, Friendship Heights, Md., yesterday. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Tabler funeral home, 928 M street northwest. She will be buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

She leaves, besides her husband, a son, Lieut. W. W. Jervey, and a sister, Mrs. Cornelia E. Bailey, of Charlevoix, Mich.

Mrs. Jervey was well known in Washington social and military circles. She had lived in Friendship Heights for the past five years and in Washington from time to time for over fifteen years. Brig. Gen. Jervey retired in 1922 from the Corps of Engineers. Mrs. Jervey was married in 1896 and accompanied her husband to the Philippine Islands in 1900.

COOLIDGE FAILS TO CHECK FIGHT ON PEACE TREATY

(Republican), New Hampshire, if this committee report is not forthcoming.

While he obtained only 24 signatures Saturday, Bingham is confident at least a dozen more are prepared to sign the petition. This would give the "interpretationists" more than a third of the votes which would be necessary to defeat ratification of the pact. However, any intention of defeating ratification is disclaimed by the petitioners.

Treaty advocates, still confident of an overwhelming majority, are disposed to look lightly upon the round robin petition. They believe many of those who had signed it had done so with the understanding that they would not go to extreme measures and would not stand in the way of ratification of the pact.

"Conferences have been held today by senators interested in the effort to obtain from the committee on foreign relations an interpretative statement relating to the multilateral treaty," Bingham said in a statement.

"The administration's position is that for the foreign relations committee to make such a report would be the same as making a reservation to the treaty.

"We feel that this position is unfair and not in accordance to world legal practice. Reservations to the treaty would have to be signed by all the signatory powers, whereas a report by the committee would be only an expression of our understanding of the treaty's intent, and would not require action by the other powers but would be in line with what they themselves have done. In view of the fact that other nations have given their interpretation of the treaty's meaning we feel that if we should not do so such an omission on our part would lead to recrimination and charges of bad faith.

"We feel that it is unfair for the administration to claim that this position is taken by foes of the treaty, and we regard this claim by the administration as an attempt to discredit those who desire from the committee a clarifying statement. The round robin, which has been signed by 24 senators, set forth the need of a statement so as to avoid a reservation.

"We believe that the people of the country should understand that the signers of the round robin have taken this step so that the United States may be in a position to point to what is our understanding of what the treaty means, and thereby maintain and strengthen our good relations with foreign nations.

"We believe that a majority of the senators, if they felt free to voice their individual opinion, would like an expression from the foreign relations committee respecting the treaty's meaning.

"In view of the considerable number of senators who desire a report from the committee, it is proposed to continue to use all legitimate efforts to secure it. Any delay or difficulty connected with the ratification of the treaty must be laid at the doors of those who are unwilling to have the committee state clearly what they think the treaty means, as the great majority of the committee would like to do."

REPUBLICANS UNDER TEST.

Some of the wise heads of the Republican party have been strongly opposed to the holding of an extra session of Congress for the purpose of revising the tariff. They remember the misfortunes that have befallen the party when it has "monkeyed with the tariff." But they have been overruled, and an extra session will be called by President Hoover; not because Mr. Hoover is anxious to have a session, but because events have made the session necessary.

One obstacle after another has prevented Congress from cleaning the slate at this session. The principal obstacle has been the farm bloc, which has opposed farm relief legislation at this session, preferring to deal with the subject under Mr. Hoover's fostering hand, and having a lively interest in the personnel of the Federal Farm Board that is to be created. Several patriotic farm leaders are willing to sacrifice themselves as members of this board, which will be well paid and in control of $300,000,000 to $500,000,000 of public money with which to put agriculture on its feet.

Of course there had to be delay, also, in the consideration of the Kellogg treaty. As Senator Reed, of Missouri, said, it was an astounding piece of effrontery in the Secretary of State to negotiate a treaty with the entire world without first consulting the Senate, and then ask the Senate to approve the pact without dotting an "i" or crossing a "t." Although the treaty is a naked renunciation of aggressive war, and nothing else, 20 or 30 senators, most of them Republicans, have been unable to understand it, and are demanding that Senator Borah shall file a paper explaining it. These senators are not opposing the treaty. They expect to vote for it. But they wish it to be distinctly understood that they do not understand it. All this takes time.

As soon as the treaty has been disposed of, another batch of senators are ready to show that they do not understand the cruiser bill. Since the Kellogg treaty abolishes war, why have cruisers? Ah, that's the question that will hold the Senate for a while; long enough to endanger necessary legislation, at any rate. The bill readjusting the number of representatives in Congress according to the population is pending in the Senate; two or three big appropriation bills are awaiting action there, and others are coming; the immigration situation needs attention; and farm relief, the central objective a few weeks ago, is already shelved. Legislation to bring about railroad consolidation would be worth more to the national prosperity than anything that Congress has done at this session, but it is not even discussed. Congress should also give its attention to the soft coal industry, which is more demoralized than agriculture; but that problem calls for hard work by statesmen, and so nobody touches it.

It is easy to open Pandora's box of tariff revision—nothing is easier. Who will close it again, with all the imps of mischief safely bottled inside? Sometimes the country has had to throw out the party in power and put in its opponent, in order to overrule unsatisfactory tariff legislation. What becomes of the new administration if it runs up against a Democratic Congress two years from now? This pale cast of thought sicklies the most red-blooded Republican in Congress, and makes him tremble under the responsibility of a victory that swept over 44 States. Big victories bring big risks, as Taft, Wilson and Harding discovered in their turn.

Now that the Hoover administration is to begin with an extra session of Congress engaged in the task of recasting the foundation upon which rests American employment, domestic and foreign trade, industrial equality, foreign economic relations, agricultural welfare, and prosperity itself—now that this is coming, a better brand of statesmanship and teamwork among the Republicans in Congress must be forthcoming also, if that party is not to discover that its tremendous victory of 1928 was a disaster in disguise.

CONGRESS THINKS FOR ALL.

Senator Dill, of Washington, daddy of the ugly little brat called the radio law, has introduced a joint resolution calling upon the Federal Trade Commission to transmit to the Attorney General the record in the so-called radio monopoly case. The resolution directs the Attorney General to "consider and take such action as may be warranted." The resolution recites that the radio trust investigation was made following a formal complaint against the Radio Corporation, the General Electric Co., and others, and asserts that under a recent decision of the United States Supreme Court the Federal Trade Commission decided that it had no jurisdiction over the alleged violation of the antitrust laws and dismissed the case.

The Radio Corporation hit back immediately with the assertion that "an implication of fact entirely erroneous is the foundation and basis of the resolution." The proceeding was dismissed by the concurrence of four of the commissioners, one of whom announced that he concurred for the reason that the commission had no jurisdiction. The fact that the three other commissioners concurring found no occasion to qualify the basis for their concurrence indicates, says the corporation, that the respondent's motion to dismiss because of lack of sufficient proof as well as for lack of jurisdiction had been sustained.

The joint resolution is nothing but a request by Congress to the Attorney General to do his duty. What would this Government do if its executive department had no Congress to tell it how and when to think?

"MORAL MURDER."

The grand jury of Stark County, Ohio, has ignored the charge of "moral murder" against Wilbur O. Heidman. The jury decided that there was not sufficient evidence upon which to hold Heidman responsible for the death of his wife, who committed suicide while he was taking her to the sheriff's office. Mrs. Heidman, in contemplation of taking her life, wrote a note confessing that she was the young woman who called Vernard E. Fearn to the door of his home and killed him. It was charged that Heidman had held up to her the horrors of capital punishment and had thereby virtually driven her to suicide.

The grand jury exercised common sense in refusing to hold Heidman responsible for his wife's suicide. The country would not be safe if lawyers were given an opportunity to place a man's life in jeopardy because he had talked. In this particular case the woman evidently had a mind of her own, as proved by her achievement in killing a man single handed. But even if she had been a clinging vine instead of an Amazon, she would not have been compelled to accept anybody's advice to commit suicide. When it comes to suicide, every individual decides for himself.

The law books do not need any new and fantastic crimes like "moral murder," which is nothing but an attempt to involve innocent persons in the guilt of others. It is hard enough now to send the guilty to jail and to keep the innocent out of jail, without inventing new devices for facilitating the work of crooked lawyers and stupid juries.

THE INFLUENZA CONFERENCE.

Three lines of attack will result from the influenza conference held in Washington under the auspices of the Public Health Service. Information as to the best known methods of cure and prevention will be disseminated; the present outbreak will be studied in various parts of the country, and laboratory research to isolate the influenza germ will be continued.

The conference urges that people be careful about their personal hygiene and avoid so-called sure cures and preventives for the disease. Communities are advised to take all practical measures to segregate persons suffering from the disease. With the present inadequate knowledge of influenza, this is about all that can be done.

While the epidemic is not severe this year it has already taken a considerable toll of life and caused a vast amount of sickness. The fact that it is less virulent now than in 1918 does not mean that there may not be a recurrence of the epidemic in its worst form. Every possible effort should be made to discover its cause and work out a suitable remedy. This will call for cooperation of health agencies in all parts of the country and concentration of competent scientists in laboratory research. Federal health authorities will supervise the investigation of the exact nature of the disease in ten cities and other data will be supplied from local officials. Such a survey should give complete information on which the scientific study can be based.

One of the most important results of the conference will be a campaign to secure from Congress larger appropriations for general health defense. In view of the present epidemic, Congress should not cripple the work of the investigators by refusing reasonable demands. It is of prime importance to the country as a whole that influenza be thoroughly diagnosed. The conference delegates are to be congratulated on the excellent program they have decided upon and they should have cooperation in carrying it out.

COMMUNITY CHEST PLANS.

The budget committee of the Community Chest has set a figure of $1,343,348 as the goal to be sought in the first annual drive that gets under way the latter part of the month. The figure is large; but the cost of providing for the needy in a city of 600,000 is bound to be large. The advantage of the new system is that every dollar is applied to the community's charities. There is no waste and no misapplication of funds.

The work of organizing the Community Chest is nearing completion. Prominent citizens have given unsparingly of their time and advice in connection with the preliminary work of the campaign. The chest is well organized and admirably officered. Washington is fortunate that citizens of such caliber have consented to lead the organization. The city has full confidence in their ability to carry the project through to a successful conclusion.

Fifty-five agencies have become members of the first Community Chest. They represent every creed and every color. They work for the relief of children and of the aged, of the sick and of the so-called institutional case, of the stranger and of the wayward. Seldom has a Community Chest included in its agency members such diversity of interest. A dollar contributed during the drive will go toward the relief of practically every type of suffering and distress that is to be found in the city.

The Community Chest does not destroy the identity of its agency members. If the contributor is so minded, he may designate the charity to which he wishes his contribution to be applied, and the money will be distributed as he designates. Those who have no personal interest in a charity may contribute directly to the chest fund in the knowledge that the contribution will be assigned where it is most needed. Thousands who, through indifference and neglect, have failed to assume their responsibility toward the city's unfortunates in years gone by will learn through the Community Chest the satisfaction of giving.

The drive will be a success. The people back of it and the innate kind-heartedness and sympathy of Washingtonians guarantee it.

DIRECTOR MATHER'S GOOD WORK.

The country loses the services of a remarkably able and public-spirited official in the retirement of Stephen T. Mather, director of the National Park Service, on account of ill health. Mr. Mather took charge of the national parks in 1915, when they were inaccessible wildernesses. He interested the whole Nation in its recreation grounds, and by enlisting the cooperation of private citizens he brought about the installation of utilities in the parks, making them accessible and comfortable to hundreds of thousands of visitors. Roads and trails were opened into landscapes of sublime beauty, forests were protected, rail connections extended, bus lines established and camping sites provided, equipped with all modern conveniences. Mr. Mather's indefatigable efforts won the confidence of Congress, which finally granted long-delayed appropriations for the development of the parks. The national park system will forever bear the stamp of Mr. Mather's unselfishness and organizing genius.

Fortunately, a suitable successor to Mr. Mather is found in the person of Horace M. Albright, late superintendent of the Yellowstone National Park and assistant to the director of the National Park Service. He is familiar with the work of the service, and is competent to carry on the plans for development of the parks.

Now that the campaign is over, Democrats who ridiculed the idea of prosperity can go ahead and get a new car.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

WHEN COMPANY COMES.

Wife (as the bell rings): Oh, I do hope it's the Widdgertons, the people across the street! I do so want to show 'em our bathroom.

Husband: I've been very much disappointed about that bath, my dear. It cost me over $350 and nobody's called to see it.

(He opens the door. It is the Widdgertons, Mr. and Mrs. Widdgerton and their three children.)

Wife: Why how do you do! So glad you came. Let Wilbur take your hats and coats and come right into the bathroom. We're very proud of it.

Husband: It's a McGuffey & Zilch bathroom.

Mr. Widdgerton (registering appreciation): A genuine McGuffey & Zilch bathroom! My word!

Mrs. Widdgerton: How fortunate!

Wife (leading the entire party into the bathroom): There! Isn't it a dream?

Husband: Just look at that tiled floor.

Wife: It's a Bermudian blue tile. We could have had a Slovakian pink, a Tangiers red or a Moorish black and white. We had a dreadful time making up our minds. It really ran Willis into a nervous breakdown but we finally chose the blue.

Husband: Observe the built-in tub. Note the contour and the graceful lines. It has grace as well as durability. I don't think there is another tub like it in the community.

Wife: The best tub or no tub at all, that's our motto.

Husband: Give eye to the built-in soap dishes. They're by Igor Vonorsky, the famous Russian soap dish designer. He gets a certain sweep and dash to a soap dish that nobody else seems able to achieve.

Wife: Look at those glass towel racks. Aren't they the dears? They're by the Drake, Drake & Drake people. You find their towel racks in only the very best homes. They are a mark of distinction.

Husband: They reflect taste, breeding, refinement, culture.

Wife: And just cast your eye over that medicine case. It's a Birmingham, McDowell & Schmalz built-in case. You know 'the medicine cabinet your whole family will be safe with.'

Husband: Did you notice the bathtub faucets? They're by Covington, builders of the Faucets for Fastidious People.

Mrs. Widdgerton (overcome): You're breaking my heart!

Mr. Widdgerton: There, there, dear, don't cry.

Mrs. Widdgerton: But all my life I have wanted a McGuffey & Zilch bathroom with Igor Vonorsky soap dishes, Birmingham, McDowell & Schmalz medicine cabinets and Covington faucets. Life has been so unkind to me, Willis.

Mr. Widdgerton (consoling her): Dry your eyes, sweet. You shall have a bathroom like this. You shall! You shall!

Mrs. Widdgerton (embracing him): Darling!

Sirius, Sun of Night.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Sirius of Canis Major—the dog-star in the constellation of the Great Dog! This brightest sun of night is scintillating in the southeast around the hour of 9. Later it sparkles within the "Chambers of the South," below the constellation Orion, where gleams reddish Betelgeuze and glitters bluish-white Rigel.

Bluish-white Sirius is somewhat larger than our own sun. It is, of course, much more brilliant. Sirius has a surface-temperature which greatly exceeds that of our sun. Our earth's "sky-furnace" approximates 11,000 degrees Fahrenheit. Sirius has a surface-temperature approximating 20,000 degrees. We are more than 90,000,000 miles distant from our own sun. We are about 50,000,000,000,000 miles distant from Sirius. That is, our eyes behold Sirius not as it is tonight, but as it was more than eight years ago. Its light-rays, traveling 186,000 miles per second, have taken about 8 8-10 years to reach us.

CHARLES NEVERS HOLMES.

The Kellogg Treaty.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: To a "looker on in Venice," so to speak, the performance of the Congress of the United States, since it convened the first week in December, causes one to lose all faith in the capacity of congressional or parliamentary government, and to long for a Mussolini. The Boulder Dam bill is the fruit of six weeks' labor, and that amounts to nothing, for it has got to be approved by six States before it becomes effective, which will never be given because their interests are antagonistic.

The rest of the time has been taken up with a fruitless discussion of a will-o-the-wisp — the Kellogg treaty — a pious declaration that will be about as effective to prevent war as a prayer to a heathen god. When every nation that has so far signified its adherence to this treaty has given its own interpretation of it in regard to its own obligations thereunder can there be any reason under heaven why we should not do the same thing, and yet that has been the whole subject of controversy in the Senate, with the crack-brained sentimentalists of that body insisting that we ratify without regard to its effects upon our interests, and indifferent to the necessities for our national defense.

If the vanity of the protagonists of this treaty and the pressure of the pacifists are too great to be resisted, for heaven's sake ratify the darned thing, and get it out of the way, so that the cruiser bill, farm relief, tariff, and other important domestic legislation may be taken up and disposed of in the interest of our own people.

ALEXANDER SIDNEY LANIER.

President Johnson's Church.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The article in Sunday's Post about the church attendance of former Presidents is very interesting, but contains at least one glaring error. The writer makes President Andrew Johnson a regular attendant at the Catholic Church. During most of Johnson's administration I was in Washington and was a fairly regular attendant of Foundry Methodist Church, which then stood on the present site of the Colorado Building, and nearly every Sunday saw the President in his pew. He may have attended service occasionally at a Catholic church, but was not regular in such attendance.

I recall one incident which happened in Foundry that may be of interest. A former chaplain of the Army, I am not certain now of his name, but think it was Chaplain McCabe, was preaching. In the course of his sermon he had something to say of the use of prayer and related a story in which President Johnson was a part when he was military governor of Tennessee. According to the story the governor was much disturbed over a threatened attack on Nashville by the Confederates. The chaplain called to see him, and after discussing the situation suggested prayer. They knelt down and the chaplain fervently besought God in behalf of the Union, and of Nashville. When they arose from their knees the chaplain asked the governor if he did not feel encouraged. "Yes," was the reply, "but I will be damned if I surrender Nashville." When that story was told President Johnson was in his pew.

W. H. SMITH.

Nature Keeps a Fat Wolf Hungry Until He's Lean Enough to Catch a Deer.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

FADS never come singly. When one set of people adopts a fad, another set makes a fad of denouncing it.

When women decided to eat less and reduce their girth, the people who enjoy telling others how to live began a chorus of protest.

"You will weaken yourselves," said they, "and lessen your resistance to disease. Let nature alone or you will sacrifice your health."

With one breath they say: "Men dig their graves with their teeth;" and with the next they add: "But it is silly to diet."

The truth of the matter is that both extremes are foolish, but medical men agree that fat is more dangerous than lean.

Fat is nature's reserve against a time of famine.

The primitive man was often hungry. When food was plentiful and the business of getting it required no great exertion, he took on more fuel than his body consumed. Nature stored up the surplus in the form of fat.

Fat was a reserve source of energy and also a fuel to keep him warm during the bleak winter.

It was a blessing, and nature did not permit it to become a curse. Only so much fat could be accumulated, for an excess impeded progress and thus made food harder to get. The fat man went hungry until he was again lean enough to win his food.

But an artificial existence, in which food can be obtained without exertion, accumulates fat in dangerous quantities and there is nothing to prevent it except will power. Nature can't work her schemes in an unnatural civilization.

Fat is proof of excess. Whether much or little, its existence makes the flat declaration: "This body has consumed more fuel than it needed and has turned the excess into reserve fat."

All excess is a burden. It is an abnormal load. And abnormal loads wear out machines.

Without exception, people who live fourscore years and ten are lean people who eat no more than they need.

The less you eat, the longer you live. Apparently nature checks you out when you have eaten your share, whether early or late.

Most of man's ailments are digestive. He suffers because he eats too much, not because he eats too little.

Women have taught us what nature knew all the time: that health increases as clothes decrease.

Perhaps their effort to overcome fat will teach us another: that fat violates nature and serves only as a handicap.

GRAND CANYON DISTANCES.

On the opposite sides of the Grand Canyon two villages are located, Canyon Station in Arizona, and Kaibab Forest Station, and they are only 11 miles apart in a direct line, says the Ohio State Journal. To send a letter from one village to the other the missive must travel a distance of 1,025 miles. If the letter starts from Canyon Station, it goes to San Francisco, back across California, Nevada, Utah, thence toward the south as far as trains are operated and then 170 miles by stage. At a narrow place in the Grand Canyon a lofty and beautiful steel bridge is being completed, the floor being 475 feet above the ordinary level of the river. The great spans were built out from the sides, then joined in the center. With that bridge the letter can be taken from one city to the other in 20 minutes.

SEWARD'S FOLLY.

More and more evidence is being unearthed every day that anything that can be grown in the soil of the States situated in the North Temperate zone can also be duplicated in Alaska, says the Detroit News. The latest agricultural achievement to come from that territory is the successful production on a commercial basis of narcissus, tulip, iris, gladiolus and Regal lily bulbs.

Since 1923 the Agriculture Experiment Stations of Alaska have been experimenting with bulb growing. Few persons believed that flowering bulbs of these species could survive the Alaskan winters. It was an accepted theory that they would winter kill unless grown under shelter. But what has happened? From a few hundred bulbs originally obtained for the experiments from the State of Washington the stock of the experiment stations has increased a hundred fold in five years and all of it was grown out-of-doors. Planting of the stock takes place a trifle earlier in Alaska than down here in order to give the bulbs a good chance to root, but in the spring they emerge with their delicate, fragrant blossoms each producing other bulbs and bulblets. And the Alaskan stock has proven to be even hardier than that produced in the States.

With an embargo existing upon practically all bulb stock from European countries, from which we formerly obtained most of our outside planting and forcing stock, the Alaskan success with bulbs promises the development of a new production center for flowering bulbs for importation into the States.

PRESS COMMENT.

He's Got to Be.

Philadelphia Inquirer: "The president of Austria has 14 children and is said to be very frugal," but why insinuate that a necessity is a virtue?

There Is No Choice.

Atchison Daily Globe: The Lancaster Literary Society is trying to decide which is the most obnoxious, "the swelled head" or "the protruded chest."

Real Record Holders.

Indianapolis News: Before any aviator claims a refueling record he'd better look at the official records of some of the members of the American Association of Amateur Furnace Feeders.

Wounded Vanity.

Houston Post-Dispatch: A Milwaukee woman has sued the telephone company for giving her beauty shop and the Old Ladies' Home the same telephone number. That does look like adding insult to injury.

Light 'Em Up.

Boston Transcript: Now that a Connecticut man has been sued because he failed to hang a lantern on the sow he led along the highway the time when lights will be required on pedestrians would seem to be a step nearer.

No Danger.

Ohio State Journal: There is a good deal of alarmist talk to the effect that monogamy is doomed but we imagine the innate conservatism of the race will avert the peril, if only on account of the wife's relatives consideration.

Can You Blame It.

Houston Post-Dispatch: There was a demand in Chicago Christmas week for 10,000 babies for adoption. Looks like some of those wild Chicagoans have been shooting at the stork until it is afraid to hover over the Windy City.

One Advantage.

Rochester Democrat-Chronicle: An airplane enthusiast says that it is plain that a submarine is much more risky a craft than an airship. Maybe so, but after an airship goes unexpectedly to the bottom, you can't get it up with pontoons.

The Modern Swain.

Philadelphia Inquirer: The world, or such of its young as used to "court" and "escort," has advanced far beyond that decorous period of conventional love-making, and today a young bucko in a raccoon coat and a striped Spinnort Eight drags his Jane to the dump where the party is being thrown.

Back Seat Radio.

Arkansas Gazette: Because there are 12,000,000 radio receiving sets operating in the United States, the Federal Radio Commission estimates that there are 40,000,000 radio listeners. Probably a more accurate presentation of the matter is that there are 12,000,000 persons twiddling the dials and 28,000,000 criticizing.

'At a Girl.

Philadelphia Inquirer: A Kansas woman attributes her four score and ten, together with her enjoyment of them, to the fact that she has always minded her own business. There's a dame who would probably make an admirable driving companion. She wouldn't strut any fancy backseat stuff.

Progress!

Kansas City Times: A characteristic French criticism of American film drama appears in a recent number of L'Europe Nouvelle, Paris. Discussing "White Shadows in the South Seas," the writer concludes with the remark that "although the scenario does not escape a certain sentimentality, at least the story ends otherwise than in a marriage. Here is decided progress."

Massachusetts Society Plans Reception January 22.

The Massachusetts Society of Washington has issued invitations to a reception on Tuesday evening, January 22, at 9:30 o'clock, at Wardman Park Hotel. There will be dancing and an entertainment.

The Women's Guild of Georgetown Presbyterian Church will hold their annual turkey dinner in the chapel on P street, near Thirty-first street, on Thursday from 5:30 to 7 o'clock.

The Texas State Society has announced its first reception of the New Year for Wednesday evening, January 23, at Meridian Mansions, 2400 Sixteenth street. The reception primarily will be for Texans in Washington serving in the Army, Navy, Marine or Flying Corps. However, a general invitation has gone out to all Texans in the city to be present. There will be dancing.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the reception is headed by Mrs. Morris Sheppard. Representative Morgan G. Sanders is president of the society.

Mrs. W. M. Hawling will entertain at a luncheon Thursday at the Willard following the weekly book review to be held there that morning at 11:30 o'clock. Among her guests will be Mrs. Tom Barber, Mrs. James Randall and Mrs. J. E. Mayfield. The books to be reviewed Thursday morning are "Forgotten Ladies," by Richardson Wright, and "Swan Song," by John Galsworthy.

The Society of Natives of the District of Columbia will hold its monthly meeting at the Washington Club, Seventeenth and K streets northwest, on Friday at 8 p. m. After a business meeting there will be a musical program by members of the choir of the First Baptist Church. A playlet will be presented by some of the younger members of the church. The program is under direction of Mrs. Ella C. Robinson. Mr. Lee D. Latimer, president of the society, will preside.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde B. Aitcheson will be hosts at the Arts Club dinner Tuesday evening. The speaker of the evening will be Mr. Arthur Stanley Riggs, editor of Art and Archaeology. Mr. Riggs will talk on "The Spanish People and Their Art." This talk is a substitute for the lecture on entomology by Dr. L. O. Howard, former chief of the Bureau of Entomology, Department of Agriculture, whose talk entitled "Is This the Age of Man?" has been postponed.

The Robert E. Lee ball arranged by the Georgia State Society will be on Friday at 2400 Sixteenth street. An evening of music, dancing and cards has been prepared. Mrs. Wallace Whitcover will be the hostess. Mrs. Walter F. George is chairman of the committee on entertainment, and arrangements for cards is in the hands of Mrs. Louella Davis. At a recent meeting of the society the following officers were elected: Maj. S. G. Green, president; Mrs. Walter F. George, first vice president; Miss Jessie Dell, second vice president; Mrs. Wallace Whitcover, third vice president; Mrs. John A. Massey, secretary; Mr. John Tyner, treasurer. Mrs. J. W. CAPITAL'S TRAFFIC SYSTEM IS PRAISED

Progressive Lighting Method Cited by Engineer Here for Conference.

ALL-NIGHT PARKING IS HIT

The progressive system of traffic control in Washington is superior to the traffic system of New York, in the opinion of E. P. Goodrich, of New York, a member of the American Engineering Council's committee on street traffic signs, signals and markings.

"The system in Washington," Goodrich said yesterday, "has one difficulty, that which is presented by the conditions at multiple intersections or circles. Nevertheless, Washington traffic officials are doing justice to the foresight of America's first city planner in the manner in which they are utilizing the spacious areas he left free from obstruction."

The American Engineering Council meets at the Mayflower Hotel today for a two-day session. A feature of the meeting will be a report of the traffic committee based on a study of conditions in 35 States and 100 cities, having a population of more than 33,000,000.

"Ahead of New York."

"Washington," said Goodrich, "with greater automobile ownership per thousand population than New York, is solving its traffic difficulties by means of the progressive system of lights, which keeps traffic moving at a steady pace.

"It is ahead of New York in this respect, since Riverside Drive in Manhattan and Ocean Parkway in Brooklyn are the only two streets in the metropolis equipped with this up-to-date system of traffic control."

Eliminating parking on streets traversed by electric cars would enable street railways to operate with little obstruction to traffic, in his opinion, providing the car tracks were kept clear.

"Bus schedules should be made to conform to the average speed of other traffic."

All Night Parking Hit.

Goodrich disapproves of all night parking on residential streets, even where the movement of traffic is not hampered. "If people feel it is necessary to keep their cars parked in front of their homes all night, they should have driveways built for the purpose," he said.

Senator Hiram Bingham, Connecticut, and Dr. A. E. Morgan, president of Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio, will address the council at the annual dinner tonight.

Strangled Baby's Body Found in Church Pew

New York, Jan. 13 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The body of a day-old female child, said by the police to have been strangled to death, was found today wrapped in newspapers in a hat box in a rear pew of St. Sebastian's Catholic Church at Woodside, Queens. Worshipers who discovered the body turned it over to the sexton, Joseph Markey, who notified the police.

A cloth tied tightly about the infant's neck led the police to believe it had died of strangulation.

Forecast for the District of Columbia—Fair and continued cold Monday; Tuesday cloudy with slowly rising temperature, probably followed by snow or rain; diminishing northwest and north shifting to east winds.

For Maryland—Fair and continued cold Monday; Tuesday cloudy with slowly rising temperature, probably followed by snow or rain; diminishing northwest and north shifting to east winds.

For Virginia—Fair, with colder in southeast portion Monday; Tuesday cloudy with slowly rising temperature, followed by rain on the coast and rain or snow in the interior; diminishing northwest and north shifting to east winds.

The disturbance that was central over Ontario Saturday night has moved eastward to New England and Quebec. Father Point, Que., and Eastport, Me., 29.66 inches. Another disturbance has moved very rapidly southeastward from the northern British Columbia coast to Wyoming, Sheridan, 29.72 inches, and low pressure prevails also over the Hudson Straits region and southern Greenland, Port Burwell, 29.32 inches. These disturbances have been attended by snow, mostly light, over northern sections east of the Rocky Mountains. High pressure prevails elsewhere over North America with centers as follows: Forth Simpson, B. N. T., 30.52 inches; Evansville, Ind., 30.52 inches, and Boise, Idaho, 30.32 inches. A cold wave has overspread the lower Missouri and upper Mississippi Valleys, the lake region and the Ohio Valley, and the temperature is now falling rapidly in the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States. The temperature is slightly higher in the South Atlantic and Gulf States.

Generally fair and quite cold weather will prevail almost generally in the Washington forecast district Monday, but the Wyoming disturbance will move southeastward during the next twelve hours, and later toward the east or northeast, and will be attended by rising temperature Monday night or Tuesday over all sections east of the Mississippi River, and by snow in northern, snow or rain in middle, and rain in southern sections beginning in the Ohio Valley and Tennessee Monday night and in the Atlantic States and the lower lake region during Tuesday.

SHOOTING OF DOCTOR LAID TO CRITICISMS

Former Asylum Inmate, Held in Sartwell Death, Stirred by Reports, Belief.

MAN IS FOUND IN WOODS

Cranston, R. I., Jan. 13 (United Press).—Police believed the murder of Dr. Ransom H. Sartwell, superintendent of the State hospital for mental diseases, who was shot in his home here Friday night, was solved today with the arrest of Frank E. Weeden, 54, a former inmate of the institution.

Weeden was arrested at 1:30 a. m. today in the woods of Cowsett, near his mother's home, where he made his residence.

Arraigned in court here early today, Weeden pleaded not guilty to first degree murder and was ordered held for trial to commence January 30.

Police said Weeden had been under suspicion since Friday night, when Dr Sartwell was slain in his home as he sat writing a telegram to a friend in New Jersey, advising him of an intended visit. The assassin had poked a double-barreled shotgun through the window and fired two loads of deer shot into the doctor's body, killing him instantly.

The motive for the crime, police believe, lay in a report of a special State investigating commission, published three weeks ago, severely criticising the hospital and Dr. Sartwell. It was thought that Weeden had read this report and decided to kill the doctor.

As a former inmate of the State hospital, Weeden was one of a number under suspicion. When police found him missing from his home late Saturday night, the State-wide search was centered about him. A few hours later he was found in the woods nearby and placed under arrest.

Weeden was first committed to the State hospital 32 years ago for a homicidal attack upon his sweetheart and had a record of fifteen escapes from the institution. He was on parole at the time of the shooting of Dr. Sartwell.

Stranded Tanker Held Lodged Fast on Reef

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—The Gulf Refining Co.'s tanker Trinidadian, which went aground Friday on Gilberts Reef, 20 miles north of Jupiter, remained lodged on the rocks tonight despite efforts of tugs to float the craft.

The Coast Guard cutter Yamacraw stood by all day. The tanker appeared to be in no immediate danger and the crew reported all was well aboard.

MELLON DRY STAND DECRIED BY HARRIS

DECLARES MORE NEEDED

Declaring that he was "naturally not surprised" at Secretary Mellon's opposition to his amendment appropriating $25,000,000 as additional funds for the enforcement of prohibition, Senator William J. Harris (Democrat), Georgia, in a statement issued yesterday, defended his authorship as unpartisan.

Secretary Mellon announced Saturday that he would notify Senate leaders today that the Treasury can not use the additional funds which Senator Harris seeks to have appropriated. Announcement of the Secretary's intentions was made Saturday, following a conference with Prohibition Enforcement Commissioner Doran and others.

Denies Partisan Politics.

The Georgia senator stated that prohibition enforcement is "a moral question and should be kept out of partisan politics. Leaders may try to make it a partisan question, but the rank and file of the voters of the country will oppose such a viewpoint."

Senator Harris explained that he has been a "consistent prohibitionist" and that his first interest "in politics was in that cause." He stated that he had supported every measure that would advance the cause of prohibition in his "town, county, State and Nation."

In this connection, he said: "I voted for the eighteenth amendment and will always oppose its repeal." Since he has been in the Senate, he said he has supported all measures for the enforcement of the law." He also explained that one of the principal reasons that led him to support woman's suffrage was "the hope that the women would be active in efforts for prohibition."

"Even More Money Needed."

Declaring that the prohibition law has never had a fair trial, the senator said: "It can not be enforced by the amount of money now appropriated, and, for that reason, a vote against my amendment, no matter what the motive may be, is a vote against the enforcement of this law and will tend to encourage indifference to all laws."

In conclusion, the Georgian said: "No mater what Secretary Mellon and those in his department who can be influenced by him may say in opposition to the amount to be appropriated under my amendment, the records of the House committee will show that Dr. Doran, the prohibition enforcement officer under Secretary Mellon, stated to the committee that ten times the amount of money to be appropriated under my amendment would be necessary to enforce this law."

Alpine Avalanche Hits 11; 3 Killed in Snow

Grenoble, France, Jan. 13 (U.P.).—Three alpinists were killed today when an avalanche of snow crashed down on a party of eleven men on skis ascending Mount Jovec. The party was about 7,000 feet altitude when the avalanche struck.

The eight other members of the party were buried under the great rush of snow. They managed to dig their way out, although all were severely injured. They were unable to search for the bodies of their companions because of their own condition.

Two other parties left immediately to search for the victims of the avalanche. The bodies were reported to have been covered by more than 9 feet of snow.

Two Prisoners Escape; Army Guard Missing

Indianapolis, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Two Federal prisoners escaped from Fort Benjamin Harrison, near here, and a guard who had charge of them was missing late yesterday. Whether the guard, Private Cleveland G. Pipes, had met with foul play or voluntarily accompanied the prisoners remained a mystery.

Ralph Norman, 20, one of the prisoners, was serving a five-year sentence for forgery. The other, Fred Briggs, 20, had been captured recently after escaping from the Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary.

David Belasco Suffers From Influenza Attack

New York, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—David Belasco, theatrical producer, is ill with influenza, is was learned today. He was taken ill Friday and since has been confined to his bed in his apartment in the Hotel Gladstone. Mr. Belasco is 69 years old.

Some concern was felt among his friends, but his physician said the producer was in no great danger.

Man Falling Five Floors Escapes With Cut Leg

Yonkers, N. Y., Jan. 13 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Harry Quick, 39, a building mechanic, fell five stories yesterday when the scaffolding of an apartment house under construction gave way while he was at work.

INFLUENZA MAY BE WARDED OFF BY FOLLOWING THIS GOOD ADVICE

Get plenty of sleep in a well-ventilated room. Eat regularly, sparingly, of wholesome food. Exercise each day in the open air. Walk to work if possible. Avoid crowds, and keep away from all who evidently are suffering from colds. Treat a cold promptly at the start. It is better to stay in bed for a day or two than to take a chance with a cold.

These and similar bits of common-sense advice have been given out by health officials in almost every section where influenza is severe. The public in general is becoming educated to take proper precautionary measures. The prevention is easier than the cure.

Now with the germs of colds, grippe and influenza almost everywhere, many are finding Vapex of the utmost value. It is the most modern way of combatting the always-with-us cold evil. Vapex is pleasant to use. Put a drop on your handkerchief. Breathe the invigorating vapor. Do this often during the day and your head stays clear. Vapex will stop a cold at the start. Your druggist has it for $1.00—in the little square bottle and the package with the green triangle. Fifty applications in every bottle.

In the course of the years many of the plays coming to Washington have been what might be called diplomatic backgrounds—and, as such, have been of exceeding interest to the Diplomatic Corps, of which many members dwell in Washington; but the comedy now on view at Poli's commands more than passing attention, at least from one section of the Diplomatic Corps.

If a word of warning might be in order at the outset of a review, the military attaches of M. Washington's town had better have from the intelligence corps advance reports on "The Command of Love," the continental cocktail concocted by the old Hungarian journalist and playwright, Dr. Rudolph Lothar, assisted in collaboration by an equally agile and witty fellow, Fritz Gottwald. The play is built around the philanderings of a military attache; a single, unmarried military attache. If there is any truth at all in the story, it might be a good week for all military attaches, single and married, to ask for leave of absence and go to quieter recesses far from Poli's, for this play is very liable to excite gossip.

Continental comedy must sometimes be toned down—for American consumption. There is usually need of a washing machine. In the enjoyment of the European brands many of those Americans who are acquainted with only one language ofttimes wonder what in the name of high heaven the playwrights get away with abroad; or, in the original texts. This script, in the adaptation, was made by Herman Bernstein and Brian Marlow, and of it they have made a magnificently fine fabric for the sophisticates.

As one man of doubt asked of a companion—the man really was in doubt—"Is this dirty?"

"It is certainly good," remarked the second man, whereupon a third member of the lobby brigade stepped up and he saith, saith he: "Good and dirty!"

Now, that is a bit far-fetched; but the truth of the matter is, "The Command to Love" is one of those pieces of the theater that has to be infinitely clever, and amusing, and entertaining merely to be classed as comedy other than downright decameron—if the word is recognized in lower case letters There are moments of it when, in all truth, the Decameron seems to have come under a modernizing influence; merely that, and nothing more.

It seems that a young military attache, sent from France to the embassy at Spain, becomes involved in the heart affairs of his own ambassador's wife. Because of her jealousy he is unable to pay court to any other ladies; even look at them at the dance. So the reputation of a celebrated Don Juan is at stake. Of course, the lady holds some passionate love letters. Then comes the command to love. There is only one person standing in the way of a treaty that France wants signed—the war minister. His wife the power behind the throne, it remains for the military attache—but why go on in this fashion? In the working out of an extremely clever plot, albeit one tinged with moments embarrassing to the purity league, "The Command to Love" is filled to the brim with situation after situation designed only for comedy—delicious, delightful comedy.

There are some extremely handsome performances turned in by Henry Stephenson, as the French Ambassador; by Melvin Douglas as the philandering military attache, by Violet Kemble Cooper and Mary Nash as the ladies in waiting, and by that old-time trouper, Ferdinand Gottschalk. A play such as this demands a cast such as this, and so the beauty of the theater is preserved—in the name of art.

BELASCO

With all hands cutting fine capers, "Hit the Deck" last night opened its hold-over engagement at the Belasco Theater as the attraction offered by the Savoy Musical Comedy Company. The second helping of this entertainment dish is well in order.

Kate Smith went right along the path she followed last week, shouting blues in a manner fit to be heard from here to Memphis. Handling the chocolate-brown role of Lavina, she showed the folks the abilities that graduated her into big-league entertainment. At 25 minutes of 11 she sailed into "Hallelujah" with seventeen different kinds of gusto, stopping the show. Earlier, she registered with a new group of numbers, winding up with the "St. Louis Blues." Renee Hamilton, as Loo Loo Martin, did her neat share in an off-again and on-again romance with "Bilge" Smith, played by Frank Gallagher. The pair did well by "Sometimes I'm Happy."

Everything else as it was last week, and that's another way of saying "right."

Mission Treasurer Will Face Trial February 12

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 13 (U.P.).—The trial of Clinton S. Carnes, former treasurer of the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board, who is charged with embezzling nearly $1,000,000 of the funds under his control, will begin February 12, it was announced.

Mrs. Marica King Mohr was elected vice president, succeeding Miss Margaret O'Dea, who declined renomination. Miss Mary C. Hurson was reelected secretary and Mrs. Elsie Wenger O'Dea was elected treasurer, succeeding Miss Roland, the new president.

The Rev. Francis X. Cavanagh, State chaplain of the Knights of Columbus and assistant rector of St. Martin's, was reelected moderator.

Projects for 1929 were discussed by the club members, whose activities have received commendation not only from prominent church authorities but also from society leaders, including Mrs. Coolidge, who was made an honorary member of the club two years ago. The first lady became interested in the charity activities of the girls and gave them a private reception at the White House at which she mapped out a program of work for them and pledged her own support to it.

It was announced yesterday that a priest of the faculty of Catholic University has sketched the history of the club for incorporation in a treatise on church social activities to be published soon.

BODIES OF 5 PLANE VICTIMS DUE TODAY

Army Fliers Will Be Buried in Arlington Cemetery on Tuesday Morning.

CAUSE OF CRASH SOUGHT

Bodies of five of the eight men who perished Friday in the crash of the Army Fokker transport airplane C-2 at Royalton, Pa., will arrive in Washington this morning from Middletown, Pa., where they have been held since being prepared for burial.

The five victims who will be brought here for burial Tuesday at Arlington are Second Lieut. Henry K. Angell, of Birmingham, Ala.; Master Sergt. Joseph B. McCarthy, Staff Sergts. Henry Cronan and Rudolph Le Hutte, all of Washington or suburbs, and Private Samuel P. Jones, of Bellbuckle, Tenn.

The body of Private Clarence E. Birch, of Chicago, was shipped to his home yesterday from Middletown, being escorted by Private Maurice D. Klingenberger, of Bolling Field, a friend of the deceased, according to Bolling Field officials. Disposition of the bodies of Sergt. Patrick Conroy, of Somerville, Mass., and Private Michael B. Kelly, of Mineraville, Pa., has not been decided, the officers said.

Official investigations of the crash which were begun Saturday continued yesterday at Middletown, and according to Associated Press dispatches, has developed the unofficial explanation of the disaster as failure of the left motor, which apparently was noted within a minute after the Fokker had left the air depot field at Middletown.

BEWARE THE COUGHS THAT FOLLOW FLU!

They May Weaken Your System and Lead to Serious Trouble

You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion may help you avoid flu, but is not sold as a flu remedy. If you have fever, or think you may have the flu, see your doctor immediately. (adv.)

English Star To Be Heard Over WRC

Gertrude Lawrence Will Make Debut on Radio in U. S. Tonight; Bill of WMAL Music Half Hour Is Largely Vocal.

The regular Monday night features will be offered in due order from WRC, an exception being the Great Northern program at 10:30 o'clock. Gertrude Lawrence, the English musical comedy star, will be the chief attraction in the family party at 9:30 o'clock. In addition to Miss Lawrence, the program will offer a number of striking features in a revue of current popular numbers, presenting a saxophone sextet, a marimbaphone specialty by the Green brothers, a trio of men's voices and Victor Ohman and Phil Arden, the "piano twins."

The occasion is said to be the first on which Miss Lawrence has been heard over an American radio network. In December, 1911, she appeared in Reinhardt's "The Miracle" at the Olympia in London, after which she joined the Repertory Theater of Liverpool. She has since been starred in revues and in vaudeville.

Merle Johnston, saxophone soloist, will be one of the featured artists appearing with Roxy and His Gang at 7:30 o'clock.

Franklyn Burr again will be a soloist during the "Voice of Firestone," as will Vaughn de Leath, contralto. This program includes an Indian group, Southern group and popular group.

A program of Spanish music will be transmitted by the Gypsies at 8:30 o'clock, as follows:

"Los Gitanos" (Jacoutot), "La Comparsita" (Rodriguez), "Capriccio Espagnole" (Rimsky-Korsakow), "Tuoi Occhi" (Bonincontro), "Samba de Nego" (Vianna), "Serenade du Talgane" (Valdes), "You're the Cream of My Coffee," "Maldito" (Friere), "Bolero" (Billis), "Vela a M'Mare" (Gashajerri), "Ay-Ay-Ay" (Friere), and "A Bunch of Roses" (Chapi).

The National Grand Opera Company will broadcast "The Secret of Suzanne" from 11 o'clock until midnight.

The music room, in which string music usually predominates, will present a program largely vocal at 8 o'clock from station WMAL. The Music Room Quintet will open and close the program with the Beethoven "Cavatina" and the "Largo" from Mozart's quintet in E flat major, but the rest of this half hour, with the exception of a cello solo by Lalo, will be entirely vocal. Among the songs selected are Brahm's "Wiegenlied," sung as a soprano solo, and Hildach's duet, "The Passage Bird's Farewell."

Henry Burbig will give a burlesque on "The Face on the Barroom Floor" as a feature of the Ceco Couriers presentation at 8:30 o'clock. Mr. Burbig is the author of "Leffing Ges" and is well known for his burlesques on famous poems and situations.

"Boccaccio" will be the offering of the United Light Opera Company at 10 o'clock from WMAL.

Station WOL will broadcast a half hour of dinner music, followed by the S. S. Silver State Orchestra and two hours of dance music from 10 o'clock until midnight.

The morning program will open with stock market quotations at 9:55 o'clock, followed by the household chat by Peggy Clarke and the advertisers' period.

Station WLW, at Cincinnati, will broadcast inaugural ceremonies, at which Ohio will induct Myers Y Cooper into office as its governor, at 11:30 o'clock this morning.

Gov. Cooper will make his inaugural address at 12:05 o'clock following his oath of office, which will be administered at noon by the Hon. Carrington T. Marshall, chief justice of the Supreme Court of Ohio.

With the first half of the school year drawing to a close, the folks in Thompkins Corners are taking a great interest in the educational system of the community. Station WJZ during the "Real Folks" at 9:30 o'clock will reveal the extent of this interest.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN.

JANUARY 14.

BEBE DANIELS, the popular screen star, was born this day in Dallas, Tex., 1901. Miss Daniels began playing child parts in stock companies. Later she appeared in comedies with Harold Lloyd. Subsequently she was featured in "Why Change Your Wife?" and a few of the Wallace Reid pictures, "Dangerous Money" was followed by "Miss Bluebeard," "The Crowded Hour," "The Manicure Girl," "Wild, Wild Susan," "The Palm Beach Girl," "The Campus Flirt," "Stranded in Paris," "Senorita," "A Kiss in a Taxi."

Bebe Daniels is her real name. She was educated in a Los Angeles convent. Her mother was of Spanish descent and her father was Scotch. Both were actors.

Katharine P. Wormeley, translator of 40 volumes of Balzac, six volumes of Moliere, and 20 volumes of the Duc de Saint Simon's memoirs, and author of a life of Balzac, was born this day, 1844.

Clara Kathleen Rogers, the singer, composer and author, was born this day 1844. Besides giving concerts in Europe and the United States she composed much music and wrote on singing and her own career.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE HAPPIEST GOAL.

Now what has fame to give
More than a few brief cheers
And envy's bitter sneers;
A place of pomp and style
To hold a little while:
The cry for more and more
Splendors like those before:
The everlasting drain
And drag on strength and brain
And the fickle crowd that flies
When younger heroes rise?

Now what can wealth bestow
More than the fattened purse
Which may become a curse?
Who has good food, warm fires,
But little more desires.
To own the costliest things
No lasting pleasure brings.
The multimillionaire
Has multiplied his care.
To have beyond life's needs
Unrest and envy breeds.

What then is best to win
If neither wealth nor fame,
Luxury nor acclaim
Leave man at last content?
A life in friendship spent,
A love that has circled all,
The great joys and the small,
An understanding mind,
Wise, sympathetic, kind
Most joyously he lives
Who thought to others gives.

What Today Means to You

JANUARY 14

"CAPRICORN."

IF today, January 14, is your birthday, the most propitious hours for you are from noon to 2:15 p. m., from 4:15 p. m. to 5:15 p. m., from 7 p. m. to 8 a. m., and from 9:15 p. m. to 10:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 2:45 p. m. to 3:45 p. m.

Benign influences will be very prevalent today, and all affairs, whether of a social or business aspect, should run smoothly. Do not resist these signs, as to do so would court danger. Be pleasant and courteous to all!

The child born today will be endowed with great mental power. This gift, however, will be much undermined by its seeming physical laziness. The inability to apply itself studiously and conscientiously to its studies. It should be taught that work alone will bring it success.

The love you bear for your family is so great that you will bear any and many hardships to give them the happiness and prosperity which you think they deserve. This may be regarded as the keystone of your character, and undoubtedly accounts for much of your success. No self-sacrifice is too great, the smallest detail is not too small, the greatest responsibility is not too much, that your ambition to succeed for the sake of your family will not cheerfully encounter and overcome. Your love for them is intense, and in time of business crisis and stress, it acts as your bolstering support, to tide you over all difficulties.

You are honored and trusted by all your business associates, as your wholeheartedness, your personal courage and disinclination to accept defeat, makes of you the perfect executive and partner. Your personality will win you an unusual degree of loyalty, fidelity and devotion from your friends, of which you have a great number. You are charitable and kind, and you strive, in every way, to alleviate the sufferings of others.

Your mate will give you happiness and tranquillity of spirit, as your love will be constant and true.

Berlin Suffers Dearth Of Good Artist Models

Berlin, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Professional artist models are rare today, if the experience of the Prussian State School for Free and Applied Arts is a criterion. The applicants for the job of posing are persons whom unemployment and need drive to posing as a last resort.

The reason lies in the fact that artists in Germany today are too poor to pay their models fittingly. Twenty-five cents per hour and a four-hour day is the customary rate. Employment seldom lasts longer than one week after which a new situation must be found.

London Finds Artistic Talent Among Workmen

London, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Pictures painted by East End workmen and women during their few leisure hours at night have been purchased by Sir Joseph Duveen for the Tate National Gallery of Art.

The artists whose work he has selected, include a pipe inspector, a day laborer, a basket maker, a clerk, two shop girls, a piano-case maker and a window cleaner. Mr. Charles Aitken, director of the Tate Gallery, also bought pictures by a commissionaire and a clerk for exhibition in the leading gallery of modern painting in Britian.

Radio Sales In 1928 Rise To Big Sum

Survey Shows Expansion Of Industry Is Nation-Wide; Audience Total Held to Be 35 Millions; New School Is Started

As has been freely predicted, radio sales the past year have taken a decided upward trend. This is shown in the annual survey made public yesterday by Radio Retailing, of New York, of which Federal Radio Commissioner O. H. Caldwell was formerly editor, to which position he expects to return. According to the figures, radio sales last year totaled $650,550,000, as against $426,600,000 for 1927.

The radio audience in America today, the survey reveals, totals 35,000,000 persons, as against 26,000,000 in 1927 and 75,000 in 1922, the first year for which complete statistics are available.

In the matter of United States homes with radio sets of all types, the total for 1928 is 9,000,000, as compared with 7,500,000 sets of all types in 1927. In 1922 there were 60,000 sets in home use.

The year just beginning will show further huge gains in radio sales, the survey indicates. Final figures warrant the assumption that the 1929 radio audience will reach a total of 40,000,000.

Accounting for sales in the industry by items, the nation-wide survey shows that 2,550,000 factory-built sets, including consoles and built-in receivers, were sold at a total of $305,000,000 in 1928, as against 1,350,000 sets, sold for $168,750,000 in 1927.

Tubes showed large gains. There were 50,200,000 of them sold in 1928, the total representing an outlay of $110,250,000.

In 1927 41,200,000 tubes were sold for a total of $67,300,000. Loud speakers and reproducers to the total of 2,460,000 were sold, the expenditures for them totaling $66,400,000. Battery sales, reflecting the trend toward sets operating from house current, showed a decrease for 1928. The total expenditures for A, B and C batteries was $50,400,000, as against $68,000,000 in 1927.

In the matter of parts sales, figures indicate an outlay of $12,000,000 last year, as against $21,000,000 two years ago.

Comparing radio volume with other items, the survey cites the fact that there are today 28,061,000 homes in the United States. Nine millions of these now have radio sets, 13,000,000 have phonographs, 17,000,000 have passenger automobiles, 13,000,000 have telephones and 19,012,654 are wired for electricity.

Generally agreeing that improving the character of service rendered by dealers to receiving set owners constitutes one of the important duties of the radio industry, a radio service course is about to be instituted by the radio division of the National Electrical Manufacturers Association.

The course is a complete education for dealers and jobbers' service men, and comprises, in addition to lesson texts, the wiring diagrams of standard radio receivers and power supply equipment.

The course covers only the field of broadcast reception in which the large majority of service men are engaged. It explains the radio phenomena briefly, the function and design of each part of the usual radio receiver, the essential tools and test equipment required by the service men and all the necessary data on the subject of aerial devices, such as vacuum tubes, batteries power supply devices and radio speakers.

Louvre School Trains Curators for Museums

Paris, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Curators of museums are being turned out by the hundred in one of the oldest schools in Paris.

There are 800 students in this school which has been running for 48 years in the Louvre Museum, yet is seldom mentioned. Many of the students are Americans.

Henri Verne, head of the Louvre, is chief of a staff of professors composed of the many experts on archeology and art, each of them an authority on some sort of antiquity.

"Window Shopping"

New Bathing Ensemble.

A delightful new bathing ensemble for Southern wear consists of a bathing suit of light blue jersey, which laces at one side of the neck and tunic, and a cape of the same material. This shade of blue is particularly becoming to sunburn and tan.

Bronze Shoes.

Just the thing to wear with brown velvet, crepe de chine, &c., are shoes of bronze kidskin sparingly trimmed with tiny leather strapping. Others have smart looking buckles of bronze beads.

Bags for Evening.

Useful little bags to carry in the evening are made of crepe de chine in pastel colors, and are shaped like the roll bag now so popular in leather. At either end is a large tassel of pearl beads, and the top has one of the convenient slide fastenings.

Modern Parasol.

A most modern parasol is made of blue silk in a stunning futuristic design of several tones. The handle is in the shape of a cock's head.

For the Dressing Table.

The dressing table of taffeta or chintz will be most complete if to it is added a large triplicate mirror of jade green composition and a complete toilet set of the same. The mirror is large enough to form the back and sides of the table.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Two new models showing the interesting treatments being given scarf and collar touches. The coat is of light green woolen fabric, with cuffs, collar and bow of light brown flat fur. The dress is of gray woolen fabric with incrustations and collar of blue crepe de chine. (Both courtesy of Premet, Paris.)

New York, Jan. 14, 1929.

IF WE were to characterize the most recent collection of Mme Jenny in a single word, it would be "youthfulness." And if we were to add one other significant note, it would be "tres parisienne."

It is easily the most attractive collection that Mme. Jenny has had in some time, and fairly sparkles with brilliance and originality. It is somewhat unusual to find a midseason collection so distinctive.

Difficult to Find Reason.

It is a bit difficult to define precisely what constitutes this note of youthfulness and chic parisiennism (if you will permit us to coin the word).

It is in the color, for we find almost nothing but the brightest hues and white, with their inevitable suggestion of youth and gayety.

It is in the details—the necklines, the bows and cravats, the finishing of edges, the lingerie touches, the scarfs.

Still Another Reason.

It is in the trimming and ornament—the embroidery, the strass, the beadwork.

But since we have seen a dozen other collections, which had all or most of these same elements, we must conclude that it is most of all in the artistry of Mme. Jenny and her deft use of these units.

FEMININE DAINTIES!

Maybe you don't breakfast in bed these days, but how do you know when you will? An unexpected illness and ensuing convalescence, or a visit for a day or a week-end or a month—you never can tell when you might need some delightful feminine dainties and wish you had sent your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's leaflet telling you how to make a whole lot of them. Bed Jackets, breakfast jackets, scarfs, shawls—all original and lovely, and all extremely easy to make. Hurry!

Premet has a style, as have most of the really important couturiers, that is typical and easily recognized if it is at all possible to summarize it, one would say that it combines chic and practicability.

Look at the coat of light green woolen fabric I illustrated for you today. Incrustations, wonderful workmanship and delightful trimming of a light brown fur, which looks like swansdown and is called "agneau rase." Or the dress of a gray woolen fabric with incrustations and collar of blue crepe de chine, stitching of heavy gray silk thread, the whole finished with a blue leather belt and a blue wooden buckle.

Could you find a garment more practical, yet more chic?

BOWLEGS NORMAL IN INFANCY.

"EVERY normal infant is bowlegged," said Dr. Sweet and his associates. He might have added, "and flatfooted."

A baby's being bowlegged is normal and calls for no treatment. The mother or the physician who tries to straighten the baby's legs undertakes something that is useless, the legs straighten themselves if they are given a chance. Nor does the flatfoot call for any treatment. Never at any subsequent time will the foot be as pliable as it is in babyhood. When the baby is walking all day long and an arch is needed, one will appear. Dr. Sweet and associates are in favor of having the baby go barefoot for a while each day. When shoes are worn, they should be loose and light and should permit the freest possible use of the muscles of the feet and legs.

A baby is born doubled up like an old man. By time he is about one year old he has pretty well unrolled. When a baby tries to walk he stands with his feet far apart, his toes turned out, and his body bent forward. His feet and le are thus arranged because he needs a wide base. He bends forward because of a tendency to fall backward. It is noticed that in his efforts to walk he is prone to sit down suddenly. The forward lean is to overcome this tendency. The line of gravity is naturally a little far back and the baby leans forward to overcome that. His front muscles are not quite equal to the task of preventing him from sitting down. To assist him in getting rid of excessive body curves, the baby should have a flat bed. It must not sag in the region of the hips, and no pillow is to be used. To prevent sagging a board should be placed between the mattress and the springs, and the mattress must be renovated often enough to prevent lumps and hollows.

Soon after walking is started the legs change from the bowlegged to the knock-knee type of architecture. This style is at its maximum at 3 years of age. By about 5 years of age the knock-knee phase has passed into the straight-leg phase. This remains the type except in adolescent girls, in which group the legs again tend toward the knock-knee type. The 3-year knock-knee phase is not to be worried about; it is a part of the schedule and calls for no treatment. If the child is given opportunity to develop his muscles, if his clothing permits his body to be free, if his shoes are right and his bed is flat, the chances are that his body will pass through its schedule to the adult normal.

SUGGESTION OF NEURALGIA.

Mrs. J. B. G. writes: For some years I have had a bad bronchial cough or chronic bronchitis, for which I can find no remedy or cure. At times I have what has been pronounced neuritis: have "shooting" pains, any time, anywhere. Can this be caused by absorption of mucus from the bronchials? I try to cough up and put out all of this mucus possible. Can you inform me about this?

REPLY.

Shooting pains, any time, anywhere suggest neuralgia, but not neuritis. Absorption from the bronchial tubes could cause neuralgia or neuritis. You probably cough too much and too hard. You will cough enough if you leave it to nature and restrain your cough as much as possible.

Has your physician examined you carefully and made certain your trouble is only chronic bronchitis? If so could you go to some mild, soft climate for the winter and spring?

Lakes—Fresh and Salt.

LAKE BAIKAL is set in the midst of high mountains in southern Siberia, and its surface is 1,500 feet above sea level. It is 366 miles long, and covers an area nearly the size of Switzerland. Three hundred rivers and streams supply it with water.

A corner of Lake Baikal.

Although the surface of the lake is well above the ocean, there are parts of the bottom which are far below sea level. At the deepest point so far found, Lake Baikal goes down for a distance of 4,735 feet! So the bottom, at that point, is more than 3,000 feet below sea level.

Lake Baikal freezes during December or January each year, and the ice sometimes becomes 4 feet thick. It does not melt until May. Seals dwell in the lake, and sea sponges are also found there. Probably there was once a connection with the Arctic Ocean.

Lake Baikal is larger than any other fresh water lake in Asia or Europe, but it is not nearly so large as the Caspian Sea (or lake). You probably know that the Caspian has salt water—though it is not quite so salty as the ocean.

The Great Salt Lake of Utah is far more salty than the ocean—being about 18 per cent salt. After I took a swim in Great Salt Lake, I found that all was "caking" on my arms and shoulders.

A man will not sink in Great Salt Lake, and the same is true of the Dead Sea. The Dead Sea is 24 per cent salt.

In eastern Turkestan is the densest body of water ever found anywhere. It is known as Lake Van, and contains 33 per cent salt. A person could just about walk on the water there—without any miracle!

The Caspian Sea is believed once to have been a part of the ocean. Great Salt Lake and the Dead Sea were once fresh water lakes.

WORK ON BRIDGE

THE average Auction Bridge novice hears so much about informatory doubles that he is apt to forget there is such a thing as a business double. The business double really is the important one because, when made judiciously, it secures a penalty of 100 points for each trick that the Declarer falls short of his contract; and when playing against rash bidders these penalties may reach big figures.

When a bid of two or more No Trumps, or four or more of a suit is doubled, the double is business; so also is a double of any declaration whatever if the partner of the doublers has previously bid or doubled. There is one exception to this simple rule, viz:

When a player bids one No Trump, the next player bids two of a suit, and the No Trumpers partner doubles, the double is informatory, although the partner has previously bid. The reason for this will be explained in an article to appear shortly.

While it is usual to take partner out of his informatory double, it rarely pays to interfere with his business double. It is expensive to overcall a bid which partner has doubled and would have defeated; and then fail to go game, worse still fail to make contract.

Do not become panic-stricken because your partner has been doubled. If you have strength, your hand will help to win the doubled declaration; if you are weak, your take-out may be a jump from the frying pan into the fire. If the doubler be a reckless bidder and the partner dependable, it is probable the contract will be fulfilled; if the doubler be sound and the partner reckless, any other declaration is apt to fare worse.

Of course there are exceptions; the following situation will illustrate. South bids one No Trump. West two Hearts. North passes. East bids two Spades. South three Diamonds. West doubles, and North has:

♣J-10-X-X-X

South may be expecting at least normal support in Diamonds and it would be sound for North to bid four Clubs because his hand is trickless in Diamonds, and the bidding would indicate that South has Club strength. If North's hand were:

♠None
♣J-10-X-X-X-X 10

the take-out would be unwise as North can aid South by ruffing Spades.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

HOW much happiness can be bought for five dollars a day? Have you ever tried to find out?

Here are two couples who married on five dollars a day and who survive and recommend the experiment to others. What sum would you consider the least that a couple could dare to marry on? Could you be happy on five dollars a day? Are you happy on less? Are you unhappy on more? Read these letters:

Dear Miss McDonald: What is all this talk about who should have the money and how much? I think it is terrible this haggling over money where love is concerned. The minute I knew was really in love I had only one thought—to get married. I had $600. The man hadn't a nickel. His job paid $35 a week and so did mine. I did not even think a second time. I said, "Let's do it right away." I didn't even keep my job. I was glad to scrap it the minute love came. We were married and furnished a rented house. We now own it. For one year, he stayed at $35 a week. We were happy as a king and queen. We were a king and a queen.

That was four years ago. He gets $75 a week now, but we are not and could not be any happier because we have more money. As I said before, I think it is immoral for people to think in terms of cash when love is at stake. It seems sordid and craven to me.

JUST ONE.

Dear Miss McDonald: I am very much interested in your column and have often been tempted to answer some of the letters I find there. This time I can not resist, for Polly's letter was published on our wedding anniversary and we are so happy that I must tell Polly about it.

This is our case:

We had been "going" together on and off for three months when we became engaged. One year and four months later we decided to wait no longer to get married. I was 19; he was 22. We had 70 dollars and some cents between us. (I had been working since I graduated from high school.) This money bought the ring, the license, paid the minister and for our honeymoon trip, which we took in our little Ford coupe.

As we had no money for furniture, we rented a furnished flat and we did our housework together in the evening, as I was still working. We lived there six months but, as we did not seem to be saving for a home, we furnished a little bungalow on the installment plan, and I am now staying at home keeping house for my hubby.

We have been so happy, especially so these past six months, that I wish to broadcast it to the rest of the world. We never scrap, but then, we didn't before we were married. If one of us gets slightly peeved, the other "loves" good nature back again, as we term it. Consequently, our small "differences" are not serious, nor do they occur often enough to be boring.

Please, Miss McDonald, tell girls that the right kind of a girl and the right kind of a fellow can be happy, so very happy, on less than $35 a week.

HAPPY BRIDE OF ONE YEAR.

MACDONALD SMITH WINS $10,000 LOS ANGELES OPEN

Attitude of Directors Toward Risk Is Uncertain.

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (U.P.).—"If wishes were horses——" and if confidence was currency, the proposed heavyweight bout between Jack Sharkey and young Stribling would be a far, far better bet, as a definite sporting fixture for February 27 than it is at the moment.

What, after all, do we know definitely about the affair?

We know that Sharkey has consented, as every one anticipated, to accept a reduction in the size of his guarantee from $100,000 to $100,000. That, he explained, constitutes a legal reduction in Lithuania.

A special trip up to Boston by William F. Carey, of Madison Square Garden, and William H. Dempsey, temporarily of Miami Beach, Fla., arranged that little detail successfully.

We know that Dempsey now is en route to Miami Beach to try his hand as a promoter, and we know that the directors of Madison Square Garden will listen like business men rather than fight fans or real estate boosters to details of the proposed affair at a meeting of the board when Carey returns from Boston this week.

We know that young Stribling, an almost overlooked factor in the proceedings to date, has agreed to accept 20 per cent of the receipts as his share, and we have heard it said that Dempsey has insisted that 50 per cent of the profits must go to Mrs. Rickard, widow of the promoter, whose untimely death precipitated the present confusion in fistic and Florida real estate circles.

It can be seen that in the business of allotting the profits of the proposed venture, its amateur promoters have not stinted themselves in any way, nor have they been ungenerous toward any one concerned.

About all that remains to be done is to catch approximately half a million dollars worth of cash customers and ease them into an arena (proposed) seating 50,000 persons, none of whom should be more than 16 inches across the beam.

This sounds about as easy as backing an irritated dinosaur into one of the greyhound kennels at the dog track, where the proposed bout is to be held.

Whether the board of directors of Madison Square Garden will take the same cheerful attitude toward the probable materialization of this $500,000 worth of cash customers remains to be seen. It is really up to the directors and not up to Dempsey, who risks nothing save his amateur standing as a promoter, nor to those big-hearted, open-handed Boston bandits—Jack Sharkey and his mahager, Johnny Buckley.

No contract of any sort has been signed with, by or for any one. The directors of Madison Square Garden will first have to authorize the match and accept financial responsibility for it. All that happened up in Boston yesterday was Sharkey's assurance to Dempsey and Carey that he still wanted a guarantee of $100,000, and that he meant money, not maybe.

There was an amusing interlude when the Lithuanian offered to fight Dempsey himself and to guarantee the former heavyweight champion $500,000 for his end of the bout. Dempsey passed off the challenge with a laugh.

"I'm a promoter now," was all he said.

Louis Johrden, Post Staff Photographer.

Amateur ring gladiators of the Knights of Columbus will receive their first test of the season Friday night when they engage the Baltimore Y. M. C. A. Team at Carroll Hall in a program staged under the auspices of the "Casey 500" Club. Pictured above are some of the leading candidates for the local team. They are, across the top from left to right—Nevin Barber, bantamweight; Leo Coveleskie, welterweight; "Kid" Jahnke, featherweight, and K. O. Roberts, heavyweight. D. C. NETMEN IN INDOOR VICTORY

Washington Team 5-4 Winner as New League Opens.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 13.—Washington's indoor tennis team was victorious in its initial appearance in the Intercity Indoor League yesterday when it nosed out the crack Mount Washington Team, 5 matches to 4. The matches were played on the board courts of the Fifth Regiment Armory.

Yesterday's victory was in the guise of a revenge because of the fact that the Mount Washington aggregation had turned back the youth District netmen earlier in the year during the winter indoor league.

Bob Considine, captain of the Washington entry, defeated Alec Keiles in the feature match of the day. Keiles ran into an early lead and was not stopped until he was within two points of victory.

The Dooley Mitchell-Frank Roberts match developed in an orgy of terrific hitting, with the District ace turning the tables on the giant Baltimorean by dint of his mighty forehand and superior steadiness.

By HORACE C. RENEGAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—They'll be packing the fungoes of major league baseballdom for shipment south soon with Florida delivery marked on most of them.

The boys, whose appetites double around the middle of February when the club owners take over the meal tickets, will be moving in the "down river" direction with ten squads drilling in Florida, one in Louisiana, two in Texas, one in Arizona, and the remaining pair in California.

Clubs of the "Grapefruit League," that mythical circuit which springs up annually along the banks of the Suwanee and Florida Gulf region during March and April, will find plenty of training opposition. Five of the squads will be of the American League and a like number from the national loop.

Three of the squads going to Florida—the Nationals, Cards and Braves—will be starting under new managerial direction although the names and faces of the new pilots are familiar in the Peninsula State.

Walter Johnson, guiding Washington, Billy Southworth, of the Cardinals, and Emil Fuchs, in the unusual position of manager-owner of the Boston Nationals, will be the latest in "boss" roles, each making his debut in that capacity with a major league club.

Johnson, the "Big Train," of other years, conditioned his strong pitching arm in the South many seasons; Southworth romped afield with the Giants in this sector for several seasons, and Judge Fuchs is well known as an owner.

MD. GRIDMEN MAY JOIN MARINES

Snyder, Thomas and Wondrack Are Considering Step.

MARINE CORPS football history again may be made by gridmen developed at Maryland University. Three Old Line football stars, one of them a graduate, are contemplating entering the famous Devil Dogs. They are Harold (Snitz) Snyder, powerful full back, who was a popular choice on all-Southern selections; Artie Wondrack, versatile lineman, and Lewis (Knocky) Thomas, brilliant half back of the Terrapin machine of 1927, who finished his college career last June.

Snyder at present is "only thinking" about making the step, but the others, it is reported, are more than likely to do so. Thomas applied for appointment last year, but was disappointed. He found the national quota of 25 officers allotted to graduates of colleges with R. O. T. C. training filled before his application passed through the regular channels.

Wondrack, who is the only Marylander who played on both Old Line Elevens which defeated Yale, will make his application in the near future.

If this trio joins the Marine Corps and wins places on Coach Tom Keady's team next fall, they will follow in the footsteps of a half-dozen other Maryland products who have worn Quantico uniforms during the past five years.

Lord Burghley May End His Career on Track

The marriage in London of Lord Burghley to Lady Mary Scott has aroused speculation as to whether the Olympic champion hurdler will retire from active athletics.

Lord Burghley—"Call me Davie," he was wont to say to those who used the formal address—was twice a visitor to this country as a member of the Cambridge University Track Team, and the high favor in which he was regarded as a sportsman and an athlete was increased last year when the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. voted that Johnny Gibson, of Fordham, who had vanquished his lordship in the Penn relay games, had been ineligible for college competition at the time the event was staged.

"I have no knowledge of your eligibility rules," Lord Burghley replied when the I. C. A. A. A. A. informed him he was the eligible winner of the race and should receive the prize which had gone to Gibson, "and I think it an ill time to apply them now. I accepted Johnny as a rival at the games and he beat me fairly and squarely. The prize belongs to him."

Burghley is the son and heir of the Earl of Essex. His bride is the daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Buccleugh.

Grant, College Champ, Quits Ring for Studies

The heavyweights of the Georgetown and Catholic U. boxing teams will not have the chance to meet the incumbent intercollegiate heavyweight champion, Galahad Grant, of New York University, which will send its boxing team against the local college ring aggregations this season.

Grant will not participate in any boxing contests this season, having withdrawn owing to the pressure of his studies. Had he remained on the Violet Team he likely would have been opposed by Jack Malevitch, of Catholic, and Schaffley, of Georgetown.

VIC BUSY IN FIELD.

HOFFMAN STARRED.

Clarence Hofman, Sacramento outfielder, handled 560 putouts last season, a record surpassed by only two outfielders in 26 seasons. Hofman handled an average of exactly three putouts per game.

Owner, 80, Ill as Horse Wins in French Feature

Nice, France, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—La Fleur, 5-year-old, owned by the veteran French turfman, Arthur Veil-Picard, captured the Grand Prix de Monte Carlo here today. The winner's 80-year-old owner was confined to his rooms with a heavy cold, missing one of his thoroughbred's numerous victories for the first time in 50 years.

La Fleur, son of Vinaigrette, took command after 2 miles of the 2¼-mile journey had been run and won the stake of $6,000 with plenty to spare. He received the benefit of a brilliant ride by France's crack steeplechase jockey, Bedeloup.

There were eleven starters. Le Bouif was second and Silkun, third.

Heeney Starts Training For Another Title Chance

New York, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Tom Heeney, the "hard rock" Gene Tunney blasted in his last heavyweight title defense, has heard the call of the ring again. The New Zealand warrior is busy training for a comeback effort he hopes will land him another chance to win the title.

Heeney eliminated Johnny Risko, Jack Sharkey, Jimmy Maloney and Jack Delaney from the title consideration last year and believes he can do the same this season. He may fight Paulino again for the right to face the winner of the Sharkey-Stribling match in Miami Beach February 27.

Rickard, in Death, Proves Own High Place in Boxing

By BERT DEMBY
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

CHICAGO, Jan. 13 (U.P.).—In death, Tex Rickard has answered the question "did Rickard make Jack Dempsey or did Dempsey make Rickard?"

For years the problem has been discussed. There were arguments supporting both sides for the names of the two were almost inseparable in discussions of boxing.

Since 1919 the two had shared the news, with Dempsey perhaps having a shade the best of it. Rickard built Dempsey into the eminence of million-dollar gates. Dempsey answered by proving himself the most colorful fighter of all time and there was doubt whether it was the promoting genius of Tex or the drawing power of Jack which brought the grand climax of a crowd of nearly 180,000 to the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Chicago.

Dempsey lost that fight but he retained a hold on the sporting public such as never before had glorified a former champion.

Again there was argument as to whether the canny maneuverings of Tex, who hoped to bring Dempsey back for another fight, were responsible for Dempsey's name remaining in the news. There were many who contended that it was the crowd's love of a "two-fisted fighter" which still gave Jack Dempsey a following which is legion.

But during the past year Dempsey had been more or less out of the picture. Rickard had gone on, many contended on the name which Jack Dempsey had brought him.

And then came Tex's death in Florida. Dempsey's name hit the front pages again. The great fighter shared the last news chronicles written around the earthly being of the great promoter.

But it took Rickard's death to bring Dempsey back as a headliner. Immediately there were speculations as to what "Jack will do now that Tex is gone." The speculation was a great tribute to Rickard, the promoter.

There were discussions whether Jack would fight again, and whether he would step into Tex's Madison Square Garden job.

The consensus of opinion seems to be that Jack will draw a crowd—not the Rickard kind of crowd—but a crowd which would go to see Jeck in a last fight—a fight fought because Jack and Tex were pals and Tex wanted Jack to fight again.

Simmered down, the whole question revolves around the fact that Jack was almost out of the news until Tex died. But even in death Rickard put Dempsey back as the central figure of boxing.

Fans, Players In Fight as Clan Wins

Malloch Is Star as MacLennans Win Cup Tie Fray.

By RICHARD S. TENNYSON.

CLAN MacLennan eliminated Rockville in the first round of the Washington and Southeastern District Soccer Association's cup tie tourney yesterday when it triumphed over the youthful Maryland Eleven, 4 to 2, on the Monument Grounds. A quarrel, in which several blows were exchanged between a Clan player, a member of the Rockville Team and several spectators, may be the basis of a protest to be entered by the defeated club.

Jack Watts, Clan outside left, resented remarks that several spectators directed toward him throughout the first half and early in the second period walked toward the sidelines and told the hecklers to stay off the field. A free for all then started, during which Capt. Helm, of the Rockville Team, claims that Watts struck a member of his team.

An officer removed Watts and one of the spectators from the field, but did not place either under arrest. Helm says that he will base his protest on the fact that Watts struck a member of the Rockville Team, but the fact that Watts left the field and did not reenter the game will make a Rockville protest useless, according to several soccer officials.

The Arcadians moved 2 points nearer Rockville in the Capital City League race when Germania failed to place a team on the field for the scheduled game between the two, while Gaithersburg also had a gift of 2 points when the Marlboro Juniors failed to put in appearance.

Rockville is leading the Capital circuit with nineteen points, though winning nine games, tying one and losing none. The Arcadians are second with seventeen points, amassed with eight victories and one tie game. The latter eleven has lost one game and the final Capital City match, between Rockville and Arcadians, will result either in Rockville winning the title or the Arcadians pulling up to a tie.

The Maryland lads showed to good advantage yesterday despite the setback received at the hands of the Scotchmen. The Rockville kickers battled the experienced Clan soccerites a hard battle throughout, and the fair-sized crowd that braved the bitter cold was rewarded with a worth-while match.

The Clan opened the scoring early in the game, although it was kicking against the wind. Johnny Malloch was the scorer and his boot was a spectacular shot from a difficult angle, near the right touch line, that sailed past Poole, Rockville goalie, with terrific speed.

The Clan's lead was short-lived, though, as Helm equalized a few minutes later from a penalty kick, awarded Rockville when one of the MacLennan players fouled in the penalty zone.

Bryden, Clan center forward, put his team in the lead, never to be headed, late in the first 45 minutes of play, with a well-timed boot from the muddy area near the Rockville goal.

John Malloch staged a neat solo run nearly half the length of the field in the early minutes of the second half, and when about 15 yards from the Rockville uprights crashed the leather through. Shortly after Malloch's success the game was held up for five minutes by the afore-mentioned quarrel.

Upon the resumption of play the Maryland kickers made a heroic drive in the face of a strong wind to carry the game to Clan territory. Three trys were made before B. Collins succeeded in gtting one past Staatz for Rockville's second and last score.

After this effort Rockville did little pressing, remaining on the defense for practically all of the remainder of the game. With ten minutes to go, Willie Bryden carried the ball down the center of the field and hooked a fast one past Poole for the final marker of the day. Malloch made a clever try for a goal a few minutes later, and although his shot of 30 yards had direction and distance, Poole made a clever save.

The draw for the second round of the cup matches will be made at a meeting of the association next Thursday night in the playground office, room 2, District Building. British United, Concord and Marlboro are the teams yet to play.

Braddock Will Fight Lomski in Garden Friday

New York, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—They seem to go into the West to get opposition for James J. Braddock, the Jersey City light heavyweight. James, who helped Gene Tunney train for his match against Tom Heeney last summer, battles Leo Lomski, the Aberdeen assassin, at Madison Square Garden Friday night in the week's banner attraction in metropolitan rings. It will be the Jersey City slugger's first bout since he knocked out Tuffy Griffiths, Sioux City sensation, in two rounds at the Garden on November 30.

Lomski has been idle for about four months. He beat Pete Latzo at Detroit early in September and then went to Aberdeen, Wash., his home, to rest up. Lomski undoubtedly will be the favorite Friday night despite Braddock's sensational victory over the highly touted Griffiths. The fight is for ten rounds. Nando Tassi, New York Italian light heavyweight, meets Charley Belanger, the Canadian, in the ten-round semifinal.

Almost the Naked Truth

—By JAMES S. COLLINS—

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The finance commission of the City of Boston has not yet reached a decision on the merits of the case of President Emil Fuchs, of the Braves, against certain members of the city government, but the judge's baseball associates have. Regardless of the findings of the Boston tribunal, Fuchs is certain to receive the solid backing of other National League Club owners. So far the charge of soliciting a bribe rests upon the unsupported testimony of Fuchs, but that is enough to convince his associates that he merits their sympathy and support.

When the Boston City councilmen involved atop abusing Fuchs and explain why they held up a Sunday baseball permit for the Braves after their constituents had indorsed the Sunday sports amendment by a vote of 5 to 1, baseball men will be ready to listen to countercharges that Fuchs pulled the bribery charge out of the air in a malicious desire to besmirch the good names of a group of high-minded public servants. Fuchs' enemies are dragging so many red herrings across the trail of the case that the finance commission might appropriately conduct the hearings on the Commonwealth fish pier.

As a rule, boxing promoters are not men who sleep o' nights. In the first place, the telephone rings at all hours with calls from managers taking advantage of lower rates after midnight (Adv.). Then, too, financial worries have a way of parking in their pillows. Enough shirts have been lost in the business of fight promotion in the last ten years to drape the kaffirs in Africa. But the most agonizing experience the racket can offer has come to Howard C. Griffiths, promoter, and Eddie McMahon, matchmaker, of the St Nicholas Arena. Several times this season they have had to turn away droves of customers with cash clutched in their fists. On such occasions Messrs. Griffiths and McMahon have been known to stand out in Sixty-sixth street in the rain, beating their breasts, as would-be patrons turned back to Broadway. Wherefore, Messrs. Griffiths and McMahon have decided that such things must not be, and are casting about for a bigger stage for their productions.

Griffiths believes that McMahon brought out Al Singer, Kid Chocolate and other great attractions that made the "cradle of champions" rock with applause, and kept the till overflowing this season, is the peer of any matchmaker in the business and will prove it when a limited seating capacity does not cramp his style. Incidentally, Griffiths sees a chance to get even with the Madison Square Garden Corporation, which he has accused of trying to squeeze him on every possible occasion.

"The Garden people are sore because we compelled them to lower the outrageous tops they were charging," declares Griffiths. "Just now, with a much greater seating capacity, they are able to 'steal' the attractions we develop, but a year from now it may be a different story. We'll stick to popular prices, but we simply can't go on disappointing all these good people we have been turning away. It's a shame," the promoter concluded, as he turned away, perhaps to hide a tear.

Buick Motor Bowlers Enter National Tourney

The Buick Motor Co. Duckpin Team, leader of all of the automobile bowling teams in the city, will enter the National Duckpin Bowling Congress' second annual bowling tournament, to be held in Richmond, Va., on March 1.

The Buick team is composed of Carl Gubisch, Joseph F. Vance, captain; W. F. McInturff, C. C. Dixon and R. A. Ryon, regulars; with R. Smith, W. Myers and R. McNally, substitutes.

Because the Buickmen topped all automotive teams in the national tourney last year, chances for them of making a good showing in March looms great on the showing they have made so far this year in their league.

LAMB MADE RECORD.

Lyman Lamb, with the Tulsa Western League Club in 1924, established a world's record by hitting 100 doubles. During his ten years of minor league baseball Lamb has driven out nearly 500 two-base hits, averaging nearly 50 per season.

Armour Fails On Last 18 Holes

By VICTOR O. SIDLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

RIVIERA COUNTRY CLUB, West Los Angeles, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—As a curtain of darkness rolled over picturesque Santa Monica Canyon tonight, MacDonald Smith, product of the windswept plains of Carnoustie, strode to a two-time victory in the great $10,000 Los Angeles open golf tournament.

Play that was always steady turned back the brilliancy of Tommy Armour, Washington, D. C., professional, who had led the tournament until the fifty-fourth hole mark and gave Smith a 72-hole score of 71-71-70-73—285.

With his triumph, the lean Scot, who now claims Great Neck, Long Island, N. Y., as his home, carried off a first prize of $3,500.

It was a crown that he already had worn for a year that Smith retained in the face of the strongest competition that golfing circles of the West Coast ever have seen assembled.

Smith, with a never-faltering pace came from behind in the final 36 holes of the tournament to wipe out a seven stroke lead that Armour had piled up in two subpar rounds. Smith stroked his way over links which had wrecked the golf of Walter Hagen, Leo Diegel, and George Von Elm, and his aggregate for the gruelling 72-hole play was but a single stroke above perfect figures.

Popular champion that the venerable MacDonald Smith is, the gallery never lost hope until the final few holes, that the slender war-torn figure of Armour, would sit in the Los Angeles open throne.

Their hopes had been raised high by golf such as this course never had seen before in his two first rounds of 68 and 67, respectively, three and four strokes under par.

But hopes that the Washington pro would continue that pace were shattered today when Armour fell five strokes over par on his morning round and was six strokes behind perfect figures when he left off at the seventeenth because of darkness on the final eighteen holes.

Armour when he picked up on the seventeenth had to make a four par on the final hole to give him a 288. He will play the last hole tomorrow at 1 p. m., at which time it will be known whether he takes second place and prize money of $1,750. The long first drive, a par five 470-yard affair, proved the nemesis of Armour. On both rounds today he took seven strokes before he could hole out. Again, on the 440-yard fifth, with a par of four, he hit trouble in the afternoon and chalked up another seven. He was consistently slicing and hooking today and his putting was bad.

Only at times did he show the iron play for which he is famous.

The leaders' cards for the last eighteen holes:

Smith	3	5	4	4	4	3	4	4	4	—35

*Last hole not played.

The youthful Horton Smith, of Joplin, Mo., was in third place tonight, but his position was insecure. Leo Diegel, of the Agua Caliente Country Club in Mexico and national professional champion, had a chance to nose him out, while George Von Elm, amateur from Detroit and national amateur king in 1927, could tie him. Smith completed the 72 holes with a card of 71—75—72—76—294.

Diegel left off play on the sixteenth because of the darkness with a 63 for that distance. By finishing in par, a five on the seventeenth and a four on the final hole he would have an aggregate of 292. His previous rounds were 77—69—74—220. Von Elm picked up on the seventeenth, at which time he had 70 strokes. A par on the eighteenth would give him 294 and a tie for third place. The amateur stroked 71—73—76—220 the first three times around the hazardous Riviera layout.

Eddie Loos, who spends his winters golfing in southern California, and his summers in Chicago, and "Wee" Bobby Cruickshank, of Purchase, N. Y., were in the 288 division, next to the temporary third place of Horton Smith. Loos garnered four rounds of 75, 75, 74 and 73, while Cruickshank had 77, 71, 73 and 72.

Frank Walsh, of Appleton, Wis., one of those who found themselves struggling with nightfall, was considered as having a chance to drop into the 290 division. He left off play on the sixteenth with a 69, and par on the last two holes would land him in that bracket. His earlier rounds were 75, 71, 77—291.

Billy Burke, of Port Chester, N. Y., held down the 300 bracket alone tonight, but there was a possibility that he would have company when the unfinished rounds are completed tomorrow.

Ed Dudley, Hollywood, Calif., who had 74, 72, 77—223 for the first three rounds, left off play at the sixteenth with a 68. Par on the last two holes would give him a 77 and an aggregate of 300.

Harry Cooper, of Buffalo, was in with 70—70—76—77—302, while Henry Cuici, from Bridgeport, Conn., with a 72—81—76—74, and Johnny Golden, Paterson, N. J., pro., with 75—75—75—75, deadlocked with 303.

Hagen, playing his last three holes in complete darkness, ran into a triple tie at 306, with Al Espinosa, of Chicago, and Fred Morrison, Montarey Park, Calif. Hagen's play throughout was far above what had been expected of him. The straight shooting which the dangers of this ocean-bordered course dictate for such golf as the leaders displayed, was missing for the most part from the British open champion's clubs throughout the tournament.

BELMONT PARK TO TRY AUSTRALIAN STARTING GATE

Device Finds Favor in England

By GEORGE DALEY

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—An experiment will be made with the Australian starting gate at Belmont Park next spring. J. E. Widener made this formal announcement at a recent meeting of the Jockey Club. He said that the Westchester Racing Association, of which he is president, had ordered one gate and that it would be set up at one of the starting points where it would get as full a test as possible as a preliminary to its general adoption if it proved superior to the barrier now in use.

The members recognized that they faced a serious problem over the question of starting but were not convinced that the stall system had solved it. Realising that the walk-up system, tried by Mars Cassidy last season with a free hand had not been a success, they approved Mr. Widener's purpose to experiment with the Australian gate and adopted a resolution that a committee of three be named by the chairman to investigate the various other starting devices including the stall system and report back to the stewards at the earliest possible time.

The stewards feel that a machine must be perfected which can accommodate any number of horses and one which can be used on the main track without side chutes before its use will be practical. After the meeting, Mr. Widener said:

"It is my feeling that a danger still lurks in the stalls to horses and jockeys under the development so far reached. All of us have an open mind, but in my opinion the side chutes have disadvantages which are impractical for use at all tracks and at all starting points.

"I am not positively committed to the Australian gate, through which it is impossible for a horse to break, but its use in France for two years and its adoption in England next season is an indorsement which surely justifies a trail in this country as an experiment. The Jockey Club in England is the most conservative body in the world, and the fact that the gate has been adopted there after a study of its working for almost two years and an exhaustive experiment at Newmarket is rather convincing of its worth.

"It was first used in France in 1927. We are advised the noise of operation, which was a subject of much unfavorable criticism, has been eliminated. What we want is fair starting, with no cheating by sharp, alert jockeys. There will be no beating this Australian gate. It is too stiff for the boys to break through."

The barrier is made of six strands of heavy 1¼-inch rope bound together by steel bands to prevent it from sagging.

It runs up two arms set on two heavy posts on each side of the track when released and there is no way for one boy to get an advantage over others by anticipating the starter. To attempt it invites a fall.

A resolution of Robert A. Fairbairn also was adopted. It instructs the registrar to designate in the Stud Book the winners of classic races. This is now done in the English Stud Book.

A resolution was adopted on the death of Thomas Fortune Ryan, while the financial statement and the report of the Breeding Bureau was approved. Stewards to serve three years also were elected, as follows: H. P. Whitney, A. H. Morris and J. E. Widener.

Kentucky Derby Entry List Will Close Feb. 6

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 13.—The $50,000 added Kentucky Derby and other stakes to be run during the spring meeting at Churchill Downs will close to entries on Wednesday, February 6, according to announcement by Col. M. J. Winn, president of the American Turf Association and executive director of Churchill Downs.

The Kentucky Derby will be run on the second Saturday of the meeting at Churchill Downs, May 18. The spring session will open on Saturday, May 11, and continue until Saturday, June 1. Besides the Derby, for 3-year-olds, at 1¼ miles, the following stakes will be decided during the meeting: Clark Handicap, 3-year-olds and upward, $10,000 added, 1 1-16 miles. Debutante Stakes, 2-year-old fillies, $5,000 added, 5 furlongs. Grainger Memorial Handicap, 3-year-olds and upward, $10,000 added, 1¼ miles. Bashford Manor Stakes, 2-year-old colts and geldings, $5,000 added, 5 furlongs. Kentucky Oaks, 3-year-old fillies, $10,000 added, 1 mile and a furlong.

Andresito Is Extended To Triumph at Havana

Havana, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Jockey C. Kurtsinger put up a masterful finish to get Andresito home the winner in the fifth race by the narrowest margin over Critic, with Donetta a distant third. The result was in doubt until the official placing.

The start was good and the winner and Critic dominated the running throughout. Andresito on the inside and Critic on the outside. The pair fought it out gamely to the end with the Cuban owned gelding lasting in the final strides.

The track, a veritable quagmire, suitable to none but the pronounced mudders, greeted the Sunday throng which turned out today. The usual seven race program was offered but the outstanding event was absent. The card was given over to platers and sprinting distances predominated.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

By BERT E. COLLYER

BRANCH, Whoopee! Go visit the common enemy and plant a couple smackers on the old beezer. This is a real good thing from the H. P. Headley stable and will be uncorked in the opening spasm at the Fair Grounds today. Walter Taylor, who trains the Headley string, says this is one of the sweetest of his baby racers. HATTIE SETH and GOTTA GONOW for what is left.

Look out for LA PALOMA. Highly tried maiden in the Three D's stable and goes for the bacon in the second race. I understand that commissions were planted in Louisville, a week ago. LATCH KEY, a Whitney horse, has worked well and appears to be the runner up. SUNBRIDE holds the balance safe.

GROUCHER looks like a one-to-two shot in the third.

AFTERGLOW, a Whitney cast-off now in the Bryson barn, should tow-rope his field in the fifth. He appears to have much the best of the weights. DUELIST and BONAIRE probably will be fighting it out for the balance of the purse.

There is a real sleeper in the sixth. It is none other than Chicago O'Brien's MISS ONINE. This filly revels in the mud and there is plenty of money here for her.

SUN RANGER was the medium of an overnight plunge in the seventh. The Sun Briar colt ran a pretty fair sort of a race its out. QUEEN ROYAL came from far back in the same race and appears to be the outside contender.

NEW ORLEANS.

District College Tossers In 7 Home Games This Week

By JACK ESPEY.

CUSTOMERS of the local collegiate basket ball market have a wide variety of games to choose from this week. Seven of the nine games carded will be staged on home floors.

For the first time of the season all of the native rah rah basket anipers will go into action in the same week. The only teams due for foreign appearances are Maryland and Gallaudet, but both of these will gallop for home fans' entertainment, too.

Indications are that every one of the clashes will be hard fought and evenly contested. If any of them develop into routs or runaways, then it will be just another sock on the nose of Mr. Dope, whose reputation for accuracy is none too good anyway.

The plums of the program, if plums they may be termed, seem at this date to lie within three of the attractions. Probably the choicest one will be the strictly local fuss between George Washington and American U. on Wednesday night. The other two will be the Georgetown-Penn State and Maryland-Johns Hopkins contests billed for Friday night.

Maryland will start the week in a game with Virginia at Charlottesville tomorrow night. On Wednesday night, the Catholic-Loyola game at Brookland will vie for support with the battle between George Washington and American. No action is scheduled Thursday, but on Friday night four contests will be held.

Gallaudet will visit St. John's, of Annapolis, on Saturday, and George Washington will take on Baltimore University in the week's final combats. A possibility exists that Georgetown will meet either Gallaudet or American, but nothing definite on this score will be known until Lou Little, Georgetown athletic director, returns tomorrow from his vacation.

Enhancing the attractiveness of the George Washington-American set-to is the fact that the Colonial Quintet will be making its initial splash of the season, and the many hundreds of supporters of the downtown school doubtless are anxious to glimpse their favorites at the start. Besides this, the game takes on unusual interest because of the keen rivalry between the contesting institutions.

American U., owing to its experience gained in early-season competition, probably will be picked to win, but any such thought does not enter the minds of the Colonials, who refuse to concede victory until the ball game is over. Coach Maud Crum has the Colonials in a fighting frame of mind and expects them to push the Eagles to the limit if not to step on them.

George Washington will present a pair of newcomers in Snow, center, and Fine, forward, on whom much dependence is placed by hopeful G. W. fans. Snow recently suffered an attack of flu and has not yet fully recovered. Fine, however, is reported to be going strong in practice sessions and is rated a capable running mate for Reds Allshouse, the veteran forward. Gray and Barrow, other veterans, will handle the guard positions.

In the pinch-hitting roles George Washington will have seven men ready. They are Bowen, Young, Christopher, Blaine, Thacker, Schaffer and Pomeroy. The last named still nurses the hope that he will be picked to start at guard.

In Friday night's headliners there also are prospects of lively competition. Penn State is reported a really formidable opponent for the powerful Georgetown Five, while the Maryland-Hopkins scrap promises 40 minutes of thrills because of traditional rivalry, if nothing else.

The Catholic University Five will be out to shake off its losing jinx in the battles with Loyola and Villanova. The Cardinals have lost their first four engagements. The loss of Johnny Blumette through ineligibility, has not helped the Cardinal machine, but Coach Rice, notwithstanding, has faith his charges will get out of the rut this week. Villanova last Saturday dropped a 32 to 28 decision to Baltimore University, which defeated Catholic by the same margin early in the season.

Gallaudet, greatly encouraged by its triumph over Catholic and the Old Dominion Boat Club last week, views its impending games with confidence. While little is known of the Shepherd quintet which visits Kendall Green Friday, little doubt is expressed that the Silent Five will not continue its winning streak. A different outlook attends the contest with St. John's at Annapolis. The Johnnies ran themselves dizzy and the basketers of Bridgewater College crazy in scoring a 77 to 20 win last Saturday.

Nusakan Sets Record In Tia Juana Victory

C. B. Irwin's hard-worked little miss Teddy Wawaw, finished third, five lengths behind Golden Prince. Nusakan had 122 pounds up, against 123 for Golden Prince. Kelsay had Nusakan away at top speed and forcing him along on the back stretch opened six lengths on Golden Prince, which had dropped back after a swift beginning. There was no stopping Nusakan today and try as he might, Golden Prince could not reach a spot where he could force him to a drive.

STANTONS BEAT RED SHIELDS

Stantons nosed out the Red Shields, 28 to 26, in the Silver Spring Armory yesterday in a game in doubt until the final whistle. The Stantons engage the Seaman Gunners tomorrow night in the latter's gymnasium at 8 o'clock. For games with the Stantons phone Manager Jordan at Lincoln 6977-J.

Wake Forest to Meet Duke in State Game

Durham, N. C., Jan. 14.—In their first tilt among members of the North Carolina "Big Five," the Duke University Blue Devil basketers will meet the Deacons of Wake Forest on the Duke floor Thursday night. A night later the Devils will play the University of South Carolina Gamecocks in their second conference game.

After the games this week the Devils will have but one more before February. Examinations come late this month and the Duke Team will meet only N. C. State's Red Terrors during that period. However, on February 1 they will come out of the lull and face a month full of activities on the basketball court. The moon will see a Southern tour as well as many home games.

The Demon Deacons have one game to their credit in their victory over Furman University, while the South Carolina Quint has had great success in their early season games with the exception of two defeats at the hands of Georgia.

Duke students feel that the first three games lost successively to Georgetown, Navy and Virginia do not give full indication of the strength of the Blue Devil Eleven. Due to early closing of the university on account of flu the men had but four days of practice together before embarking on the trip. During the holidays several of the men were down with the flu and were unable to get together until shortly after school resumed work.

Coach Kellison Quits Va. for William-Mary

Richmond, Va., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Athletic officials of William and Mary College of Williamsburg, Va., have announced that John S. Kellison, assistant football coach of the University of Virginia, has been selected as assistant coach at William and Mary. Kellison will assume his duties at William and Mary this week, the announcement says. He will assist Branch Bocock, head football coach, and will have complete charge of freshmen baseball. He will also assist in varsity basket ball coaching.

The announcement that Kellison has joined William and Mary coaching staff follows close on the announcement that Earle "Greasy" Neale has been released as head football coach at the University of Virginia in order that he may take the position as coach of the St. Louis Cardinals. During his many seasons of coaching experience, Kellison has been closely associated with Neale. Thus the release of Neale and the acquiring of Kellison's services by William and Mary interrupts a twelve-year coaching connection of the two men.

Kellison first came into athletic prominence with West Virginia Wesleyan, from which institution he was graduated in 1916. In the fall of the same year he was appointed director of athletics at his alma mater.

During his student days at West Virginia Wesleyan Kellison played tackle and guard for the varsity eleven and in his senior year he was selected for an all-American berth.

FRANCIS SEEKING BERTH.

George Francis, local product, is anxious to connect with some baseball team here or in the vicinity this season needing a pitcher. Francis, a right-hander has hurled for Silver Spring, Kennedys, Edmonds Art Stone and Petworth A. C nines in the past and has good records with all of these teams. Francis can be reached at Shepherd 3042-W.

WINCHESTER BOWLERS WIN.

Charles Town, W. Va., Jan. 13.—The Winchester, Va., bowling team defeated Charles Town in a five-game match on the local alleys by the score of 3,092 to 3,042. Newlin was high man for the winners, while Burkitt rolled best for the home club.

GALLAUDET'S STAR LEADS SCORERS

Cosgrove Has Made 89 Points; Mesmer Next With 61.

PLAYING in only six games and with little aid of chances at the foul line, Del Cosgrove, Gallaudet forward, continues to hold first place in the individual standing for scorers among the District college basket ball teams with the fine total of 89 points. He is far out in front of his nearest rival and has easily the best figure in field goals, 40.

Capt. Freddy Mesmer, midget forward of Georgetown, now occupies second place with a collection of 61, having climbed from seventh place since the first of the new year.

Georgetown has five players in the first ten, the others besides Mesmer being McCarthy and Dutton, who are tied with 55 points

SCHOLASTIC FIVES IN 20 CONTESTS THIS WEEK

Prep Schools Open New League

Gonzaga and St. John Fives in Opener on Wednesday.

Eastern-Western and Business-Tech to Play Tomorrow.

THE local scholastic basket ball season will reach its peak this week with the playing of 20 games. In addition to the high school series, games of tomorrow and Friday, the opening of the Prep School League on Wednesday is included in the program.

One game today will open the busy week, with the Benjamin Franklin Five meeting the Tank School Quintet at Fort Leonard Wood, Md. Tomorrow Eastern faces Western, and Business meets Tech in the high school series games in the Tech Gymnasium, beginning at 3:15 o'clock, with four other tilts on tap to surround this headline attraction.

Central will engage the Maryland Freshmen at College Park in one of the contests, with the Devitt and Benjamin Franklin Teams, mixing in the Langley Gymnasium, lised at 8 o'clock. The Hyattsville School Five will engage in two games, one at 3:30 o'clock at Charlotte Hall and the other at 8:30 o'clock at night at Leonardtown, Md., with the Leonard Hall Cadets.

Wednesday's feature game will bring the Gonzaga and St. John's Teams together in the opening of the Prep School League at the Boys Club at 3:15 o'clock, while costarring with this attraction will be a clash between the Eastern and George Mason Quintets in the Eastern Gymnasium.

A swimming meet will also be staged on this day, Central entertaining the Tome Natators in the Central Gymnasium.

St. John's against Business in the latter's gymnasium and Rockville High against Georgetown Prep at Garrett Park will mark the activity for Thursday which will be the leanest day for action of the entire week.

Central and Eastern clash in the high school series on Friday, on the program with Business and Western at the usual time of 3:15 o'clock in the Tech gymnasium. The Tech Five, idle in the series on this day, will keep in action by playing the Catholic University Freshmen at Brookland while three other games are scheduled.

Georgetown Prep and Benjamin Franklin will meet at Garrett Park in one of the games, with Emerson at Annapolis, Md., against the St. John's Junior Varsity in another. The Bliss Electrical School Five will entertain the Leonard Hall Cadets in a night encounter at Silver Spring, Md., at 8 o'clock.

Closing the busy week will be three games on Saturday which will bring the Gonzaga and Calvert Hall teams together at Gonzaga, in the only home encounter, and St. Alban's against Shenandoah Military Academy at Winchester, Va., and Bliss Electrical School against the St. John's Varsity at Annapolis, Md.

With the Fair Athletes

THE Baptist Young Peoples Union Basket Ball League will open tonight in the Wilson Normal gym at 7 o'clock, when the first of three games, listed for the opening evening, will be played. Miss Frances Cooper, in charge of girls' sports for the Baptist Federation, stated last night that the schedule will run until April 1.

Tonight's games will be: Second Baptist vs. Fountain Memorial; Fifth Baptist vs. Bethany; First Baptist vs. West Washington. Calvary, the seventh team in the circuit, will open its season next week. The league games will be played every Monday night in the Wilson gymnasium.

First Baptist has an opportunity this season to gain permanent possession of the Baptist Federation Trophy, awarded to the winning team each year, as it won the league championship in 1927 and 1928. Three consecutive championships are necessary to have permanent custody of the trophy.

West Washington was second last year and is entering another strong sextet in the league, but Second Baptist is expected to prove the biggest stumbling block to the two-time champions. Among the well-known performers signed with the Second Baptist are Marcie and Almea Adkins, who have made this club a formidable combination in preleague games.

ROXIES-CAPITOLS PLAY.

The Roxie A. C. will play the Capitol Athletic Club tonight at 8 o'clock in the Hine Junior High gym. Tomorrow night the Capitol Club will play the Strayer's Business College six and on Monday next the active Capitol lassies will play the basketeers in the Calvary M. E. gym at 7:30 o'clock.

PARK VIEW TO MEET.

A general assembly will be held at the Park View School Wednesday for the purpose of presenting the trophies won by the Park View girls in playground, dodge and basket ball leagues. Miss Mamie Hastings, physical director of the school, will present the prizes.

EXHIBITION AT FAIRMONT.

Girls of the Fairmont School are planning an athletic exhibition to take place just before or immediately after the Easter vacation. Last Thursday the students held their first meeting since before the Christmas holidays and laid plans for the exhibition and also discussed an athletic program which will include basket ball and other activities conducive to physical development.

The most capable basket ball performers were divided into two squads with the first including the following: Kitty Barrett, Anne Kaufman, Marjorie Montgomery, Jeane Builtman, Virginia Newhouse, Elisabeth Love, Margaret Robb, Patricia Newal, Charlotte Moss and Madaline Froman.

The varsity will be selected from the first squad but it was stressed by school authorities that any girl in the school who showed sufficient ability would be placed on the first team in interschool matches any time during the season.

The annual interclass series will start Thursday with the Junior and Prep meeting. The third team, Seniors will play early next week. The plan is to have each team to play the others twice and should a tie result a third game will be played between the deadlocked teams. The jewelry firm of Pearson & Crain have donated a trophy and the class winning it three times will have permanent possession.

The Fairmont girls have booked basket ball tilts with Gunston Hall, National Park Seminary, Gallaudet and Eastmans. At least two other matches with local schools will be arranged in the near future. Miss Louise Pridmore is manager and Miss Kitty Barrett is captain of the basket ball squad.

ST. ALOYSIUS.

The St. Aloysius girls' basket ball squad will hold a practice session tonight in the St. Martin's gymnasium at 7:30 o'clock. All candidates for the team are requested to report fifteen minutes before that hour in order to be ready to take the floor promptly.

PENN LEADS IN COLLEGE LEAGUE

Columbia Team May Furnish Contention; Schaaf Stars.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Pennsylvania sits atop the Eastern Intercollegiate Basket Ball League today and for the moment, at least, no rival appears strong enough to argue about it.

The league season is barely started but the first four games would indicate that if there is to be any serious opposition to Penn's march to its second consecutive championship it will have to come from Columbia's Lions. Columbia is the only member of the six-club circuit which has not yet been seen in action. The Lions start their season against Princeton at New York Wednesday.

Penn, which started off the season by trouncing Yale, 35 to 19 a week ago, repelled Dartmouth, a leading challenger, a Philadelphia last night, 26 to 23. Joey Schaaf, the Red and Blue's high-scoring forward, was the chief thorn in Dartmouth's side, scoring five field goals and one foul.

Princeton, which lost its opening game to Yale by a four point margin, beat Cornell 25 to 21 at Princeton in the only other league game last night. Tom Skillman, Tige center, tallied ten of his team's points. Hall, of Cornell, was only a step behind, tossing in four field goals, all of them within two minutes in the closing part of the game.

Four games are scheduled for this week, Penn alone getting a vacation. Tomorrow night Dartmouth battles Yale at New Haven. On Wednesday, Princeton tackles Columbia. The Tigers mouth on Saturday night while Yale then travel to Hanover to meet Dartis trying to take Cornell into camp at Ithaca.

The standings:

Team	W.	L.	PF.	PA.
Yale	1	1	48	60
Cornell	0	1	21	25
Dartmouth	0	1	23	26

McCall, Waldrop Roll 796 for Doubles Mark

Fresh from rolling their first block in the Campbell Sweepstakes on Saturday, Leroy McCall and Hugh Waldrop established an all-time record for doubles at the Hyattsville alleys when they rolled 796 in defeating Belt and Trott. This mark betters that held by Dreele and Smith, of Baltimore, of 779, made several years ago.

McCall rolled a 307 set and Waldrop 399 in defeating Belt and Trott in three games. Their high game of 305 also set a new high doubles record.

CENTER FIVE WINS FROM EAGLES

IN a hard-fought game played at the Community Center gym last night, the J. C. C. unlimited class tossers defeated the Anacostia Eagles, 44 to 36. The Center team led all the way, being on the front end of a 28 to 17 score at the intermission.

Kramer was the outstanding star of the game, collecting five field goals and four from the freedom line to lead both teams, with 14 points. The Center's tap-off man was all over the floor, and also figured prominently in the fine team play displayed by the winners.

L. Levine, with 8 points, was second high gun for the Center five, with Daglish, who contributed 9 points, showing the way for the visitors.

2 Company F Quintets Win in Weekly Games

The regular Sunday afternoon attraction at Hyattsville yesterday saw two Company F teams win in games in the Hyattsville Armory. The Company F Regulars had little trouble in defeating the Nusbaum Basketers, 31 to 11, in the feature game, while the Company F Reserves No. 1 won easily over the Hyattsville Comets, 30 to 17, in a Prince Georges County League encounter.

Wright and Vincent were the big guns for the regulars in scoring 9 and 8 points respectively against the Nusbaums, while J. Shanklin, Sticknall and Chase divided honors in starring for the Reserves against the Comets.

Fractured Shoulder Fails to Stop Grid Star

COACH TURNS HIS MIND TO BASEBALL

TODAY'S freezing temperature makes this yarn untimely, but nevertheless it should be recorded that Jack McAuliffe, Catholic University athletic director, last Thursday began looking for robins winging northward when nature, during a brief spell of absentmindedness, turned loose a couple of hours of warm sunshine.

With one eye on his overcoat and the other on the sky, McAuliffe stood at the window of his office in the Brookland Gymnasium, scratching his head and asking his visitors what kind of a fellow is this weather man to fool somebody just when he is thinking of dusting off the ice skates.

Turning away after ten minutes of fruitless watching and waiting, the mentor of the Cardinal athletes paced the floor, still scratching, and more vigorously than ever. The visitors looked on interestedly but silently. Then the thermometer started rising.

Faces turned red. Hands tugged at necktles and, in unison, they started bawling out the janitor, who had just finished coaling the furnace. McAuliffe, however, was too busy to take part in this. He had to scratch.

"You guessed it, Eddie," McAuliffe replied, adding, "you know, we'll play seventeen baseball games this year." And thus Mr. McAuliffe's furious pawing in his hair was explained.

The robins failed to appear and the balls and bats remained in the locker room at Catholic U., but baseball for a short time was the chief topic of discussion. That is the turn a coach's fancy takes when Old Sol gets warmed up out of season.

Diamond practice for the Cardinals yet is a month or more away but already their prospects are being counted by McAuliffe and his assistants, Lafond and Jack Clarke. The latter will help McAuliffe in the coaching of the varsity while Lafond will drill the freshmen tossers.

Three experienced pitchers and a veteran catcher, besides one infielder and an outfielder who saw regular service last spring will be available when the first call for candidates is issued. Standing ready and eager to plug the gaps caused by graduations will be many of last year's freshmen.

Coming up from the 1928 yearlings are six whose playing was impressive—Al Reiter, Rocco Blasi, Will Riley, Sweeney and the Cosker twins, Norman and Louis. Reserves and utility men from last year will be Bo Mansfield, Duke McCabe, and Louis Gioffre. It is also expected that Joe Raiche who played first base no the 1927 team will report.

Lacrosse Drills Start For Virginia U. Squad

Charlottesville, Va., Jan. 13.—Lacrosse practice has been started at the University of Virginia and whenever weather permits the stickmen will drill on Lambeth Field under the direction of Dr. Allen F. Voshell, who is coaching this sport.

A quarter of a century ago lacrosse was one of the most popular sports at the university, for the team was supreme in the South. In 1905 the successful Harvard team was challenged for the national college championship, but the boys from Cambridge had little difficulty defeating Virginia, 8 to 0.

College Golf Title Tourney May Be Played on Deal Links

THE intercollegiate golf championship of 1929 will be fought over a metropolitan course once again and at present the site of this year's college links controversy rests between the fine Deal (N. J.) course and the Rockaway Hunt Club on Long Island.

According to Maurice J. McCarthy, jr., of Georgetown, defending champion, the Deal course is favored as the scene of what McCarthy believes will be the greatest intercollegiate battle in the history of these combats.

The course at Deal is one of the oldest in New Jersey and the State amateur championship has been played there several times. Max Marston, when a member of Baltusrol, defeated a clubmate, Eddie Wilde, in 1919, to win the State title, and in 1926 A. F. Kommer, Baltusrol, also defeated Wilde in the final for the same title. In fact, the New Jersey championship, if judged by results at Deal, would seem to be the private possession of Baltusrol players.

While it is located within a stone's throw of the Atlantic Ocean, the Deal course does not take advantage of any water hazards and is strictly an inland course. Located across the road from the Hollywood, N. J., course, Deal is much more rolling than its neighboring layout and is a difficult test of golf. The length of the Deal course is in the neighborhood of 6,300 yards.

McCarthy compares the coming college title play to picking horses, but believes the odds are greater on any one player walking away with the coveted championship he won at Apawamis last June than in the ordinary horse race. Among prominent contenders McCarthy names Phil Findlay, Harvard ace who holds the reputation of being the longest driver among amateurs; Gene Homans, of Princeton, Met amateur champion who defeated McCarthy in the final of that tournament at Plenimore last summer; Dunlap, another Princetonian who has several notable victories to his credit, and Wilson, of Yale, who is the "brightest" of Eli's dark horses.

Besides this formidable group there will be Jack Williams, of Williams; Al Brodbeck, the all-around Penn athletes from New Rochelle, and Marx Flanigan, McCarthy's schoolmate. The champion does not forget those invading youngsters from the far West, the most notable of whom is "Chuck" Hunter, of the University of Washington, a lanky, powerful youth who puts tremendous strength into his golf strokes.

The Georgetown title holder does not say it, but even these younger aces of the links will be hard put to get over the McCarthy hurdle at Deal, for the winner at Apawamis last year has no desire to relinquish his honors. As a regular on the Georgetown basket ball squad McCarthy is keeping in fine condition, and when the grass gets green once more will be in fit shape to continue at the same stride he quit late last fall.

Once again Princeton appears to have a fine edge to win the team trophy. The addition of Gene Homans and George Dunlap to the Nassau team has not caused them any loss of strength, and with Youngs and Ames also in the play remaining schools will find the road to victory a hard one.

Tilden Will Play Here If He Is Reinstated

Further action on plans to hold an exhibition tennis match, with Bill Tilden and other internationally famous stars competing, in connection with the entertainment on the coming inaugural program, must awainst the decision on Tilthen's amateur status to be made by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

If Tilden is reinstated, the plans as tentatively set some time ago will be carried out definitely. This would call for Tilden, in cooperation with the local men building up the match, together with three or four other tennis celebrities, to participate in a one-night stand on March 2.

The Tech High School gymnasium, with a fine wooden floor and plenty of space to seat spectators, will be used for the match. This much is certain, according to Winfree Johnson, community center athletic director, who, with Paul Harding, of the Edgemoor Club, proposed the match.

Should Tilden fail to regain his amateur standing when the executive committee of the U. S. L. T. A. meets early next month in Boston, he will not perform here. That he will return in the tennis moguls' favor is, however, now generally predicted.

EAGLES BEAT FREDERICK TOSSERS

THE Skinker Bros. Eagles had a slight handicap to overcome yesterday afternoon before their game with the Cresap Riflemen of Frederick, Md., but they overcame it and won out in a 34 to 13 encounter at the Congress Heights gymnasium.

Ralph Bennie, their star guard, and Jack Faber, flashy forward, both were absent when faces were counted before play, Bennie because of an infected foot, and Faber because of an attack of flu. The Eagles, forced to play with only five men present named, Sweeney, Thompson, King, Krumm and Streeks, went out and showed the many fans packed in the Congress Heights auditorium just how handicaps were overcome by letting down the Cresaps by the score already mentioned.

The Cresaps displayed strength only once during the fray, that in the first few minutes of the going when they compiled a short-lived 8 to 2 lead. The Eagles, with Sweeney leading the way, quickly decreased this advantage while they reversed the margin 16 to 9 by half time.

After the intermission the Eagles coasted their way to victory, ringing up points with almost reckless abandon. Sweeney made 12 points, including six baskets, while King, Streeks and Thompson aided with 9, 8 and 5 points, respectively.

With this victory under their belts, the Eagles plan to make ready for a big week ahead of them. On Wednesday night the Old Dominion Boat Club Five will be met at Congress Heights at 8:30 o'clock.

Sunday's attraction will bring the Miami A. C., of Miami, Fla., Southern unlimited champions for 1927-28, to Congress Heights. This game promises to be the outstanding one of the year for the Eagles, who have gone to a lot of expense to play the Southerners here. The Miamis have won 30 straight games to date and will stop over here on an Eastern trip, which will see them in Raleigh, N. C., on Wednesday night.

St. Martin Quintet Routs K. of C. Tossers, 49-25

The St. Martin unlimited Five ran away with the newly organized K. of C. Quintet, 49 to 25, last night, in the latter's gymnasium. The game marked the second defeat in as many starts for the Caseys.

Heiss and Wanley led the Saints in their victory, Heiss totaling 15 points and Wanley going his teammate five better, for 20 points. A 24-to-6 advantage was rung up during the first half, which enabled the Saints to virtually coast through the final two quarters.

Tonight the Saints entertain the Y. M. C. A. Five in the St. Martin Gymnasium at 8:30 o'clock. Sox Harrington is booking games at North 2623-J between 6 and 7 o'clock.

Sarazen and Partner Win Best Ball Match

Paramount Club Lists Boxing and Mat Bouts

Three bouts and a wrestling match will feature the Wednesday weekly athletic program of the Paramount Club, 426 Ninth street northwest.

Hemsley, Pirate Catcher, Hailed as "Find" by Experts

Shows Class Both Behind and at Bat; Started Pro Baseball Career at 14, Married at 18, and Is in Majors at 20.

WHERE are the great catchers of yesterday? The wind has blown them all away, and big league club owners sigh and wonder when the wind of the baseball fates will blow another Bresnahan or Kling or Schalk or Killifer or Criger or Schang or Snyder into the game. Time was when there were plenty of great receivers, men who could handle their pitchers with craft and who could slug the ball in the pinches and whose work behind the bat thrilled the fans.

O'Farrell, of the Cards, was such a man in 1926 and he was the talk of the circuit, but he had only one great year. Hartnett, of the Cubs, is a fine receiver, and Hogan, of the Giants, is regarded as a sure comer. But great catchers are coming to be very scarce. When the Pirates flashed young Hemsley, the rookie, on the baseball screen late last summer, the experts did not watch him long until they began to talk about him.

He had that indefinable thing called class benind the bat. He had aptitude for the many critical plays that close suddenly in on him. He was dangerous at the bat. He had speed and color and a lot of vim. So, naturally, they are looking forward with interest to what the youngster will do next season.

Ralston Hemsley is just 21 years old He started his baseball career early In fact, Hemsley started a lot of important things early in life. He was catching for his father's semipro team in Syracuse, Ohio, at the tender age of 14. He got married at 18. He was playing on the Frederick Team in the Blue Ridge League at 17, and got his big league call at 20.

There must be some impelling cause for this youngster to crash the doors of opportunity so soon. He seems to have been born to the game. He loves it. Baseball is meat and drink to him. He chafes on the bench like a wolf cub when the pack sounds its hunting cry on the hills. He has two brothers, both catchers, one younger and one older than himself. The older brother, a Blue Ridge performer, talked to this writer about his sensational kinaman. "You simply could not hold Ralston back," he said. "He is a bundle of nerves and energy and he plays so hard during the game and studies the game so hard all the rest of the time that he forged far ahead of everybody he played with in his boyhood."

Hemsley's father before him was a ball player. The head of the house is a coal miner, but he carried his baseball with him from the bright sunlight and green sward down to the deepest levels of the mine. He swore it helped to keep him young and happy in the darkness. He played the game clear into middle life and he brought his three sons up in a home atmosphere that reeked of baseball. The older Hemsley organized a semipro team in Syracuse, his home town, that had quite a reputation in the Ohio coal fields.

One summer the regular catcher left town and the manager, who had groomed his son Ralston for this very job, sent him in behind the bat to catch for his crack team. The kid had been catching the old man's curves in the back yard ever since he was 12. His older brother wanted the job, but the boss of the Syracuse team knew his baseball and picked the younger one.

The boss of the Pirates, who is said to know his baseball as well as any man that ever lived, also picked this same Hemsley to go behind the bat as his regular receiver—picked him at the tender ago of 20 and sent him back there, in a championship game before he was old enough to vote.

YOUR BOY AND YOUR GIRL

The Parent Counselor.

If Studies Were Athletics.

How I had to work to get into it! As only two boys—a regular and his substitute—were allowed to study any subject given in the class, and there were 50 candidates out for each subject, I worked with all my heart and soul to get into the class—and stay in.

But I made it. Whoopee! The home town paper had a picture of me. Reporters interviewed me. The head of the school had me talk in assembly. Cigarette manufacturers sent me samples of their wares. I indorsed collars, shoes, sweaters and even books. The girls went wild over me.

How I had to work to stay in the class! The teacher made me eat special food and forbade my smoking. Ten p. m. was my bedtime. Seeing my steady girl was taboo.

Every one of us was bawled out by the teacher—from the son of the boilermaker to the son of the millionaire. And the more he bawled the more we liked him.

Not one bit of nonsense from any of us. One lisp of back talk and we knew we'd be fired from the class. Whew, what a training! What a teacher! What a system!

Every eye was on me. The principal prayed for my health. The school cheered me when I mastered my lesson. Twice a day the school doctor examined me to see that I was in perfect form for my studies. When mother walked up the church aisle the congregation turned its head and to a man said: "There goes Bill Dean's mother. How proud she must be."

Then came the great day for which school, teachers and I had worked. What a gang showed up! What a story the newspapers printed! What cheering! What wonderful girls looking on!

I threw my mind, body—yes, my very soul—into showing how well I knew the subject, for wasn't the honor of my school at stake? It could have had my heart or head or leg for all I cared.

That day every student did his duty. God bless each and all. Team work? Well, I rather guess. All for the glory of our school.

After we had all recited—and how the crowd did yell when an especially brilliant recitation was made—we were carried on the shoulders of stalwart alumni to automobiles which whisked us through the downtown streets. The mayor made a speech from the steps of City Hall. We were given the keys to the city and the school board called a special meeting that night and voted each of us a platinum edged gold medal.

Just as mine was being pinned on I woke up.

It seems that the coach had said to me that day, "My boy, you've made the football team."

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER.
Exchange Your Sons.

My son is perfect except that he doesn't care to take part in anything in school. He prefers to sit at home and read or listen to the radio. When he does go anywhere it is with his sister or mother. Now for flamboyant youth this seems wrong to me. What is lacking?

DAD.

Comment—Right under your letter was this one: "My boy is on about every team at school. He never comes home except to meals. He will not look inside a book if he can help it. And as for radio and tools—nothing doing. And when he goes on trips he never thinks of his sister or his mother. How can I change him?"

If this column could be a parent exchange I think I would solve these two problems by providing an exchanging of sons. Then neither would be satisfied.

A well-rounded boy will do well in his studies, participate in the social life of the school, read some, be interested in the radio and pay some attention to his sister and to his mother. But these well-rounded specimens are scarce. Possibly this is a wise provision of nature.

The first boy is an introvert. The second leans strongly to being an extrovert. One will in all likelihood be a researcher, a professor, possibly a physician or a literary man. The other may go to the bow-wows or be president of the Rotary Club, governor of the State, criminal lawyer, athletic coach, or manager of a five and ten.

Space does not permit a more detailed statement on these types of personality. Readers desiring more information should send for my leaflet, "Contractives and Expansives." (Don't forget S. A. S. E.)

Charge Overtime.

I care for children when their parents go out and am saving toward my college education. What should be my rate between 7 and 12 o'clock?

H. S. SENIOR.

Answer—Fifty cents an evening until 10:30, then 50 cents for every hour or fraction thereafter. Parents who have children should be in at 10:30.

BANKRUPTCY NOTICES
IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE District of Columbia, holding a Bankruptcy Court. In Bankruptcy No. 2087. In the matter of D. C. Chemical Company, Inc., a corporation, bankrupt. To the creditors of D. C. Chemical Company, Inc., a corporation, of the City of Washington, District of Columbia: Notice is hereby given that on the 24th day of December, A. D. 1928, the said D. C. Chemical Company, Inc., was duly adjudicated bankrupt; and that the first meeting of its creditors will be held at my office in the Woodward Building, 1518 H street northwest, Washington, D. C., on the 21st DAY OF JANUARY, 1929, at 10 o'clock a. m., at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the officers of the bankrupt corporation, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting. RALPH D. QUINTER, Referee in Bankruptcy.

PROPOSALS
DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, WASHington, D. C., January 11, 1929. Sealed proposals (in duplicate) will be received at the Department until 2 o'clock p. m. Thursday, January 31, 1929, for furnishing all labor and materials and performing all work in the construction and completion of home for nurses, boiler house, laundry, quarters and dining hall, including all outlets thereto, roads, sidewalks, grading, water, sewer, electric lines, etc., complete, to be considered only from individuals, firms or corporations possessing satisfactory financial and technical ability, equipment and organization to insure speedy completion of the contract, and in making awards the records of bidders for expedition and satisfactory performance on contracts of similar character and magnitude will be carefully considered. At the discretion of the Secretary drawings and specifications may be obtained upon application to the Director. A certified check in the sum of $100 will be required as a guaranty for the safe return of the plans loaned. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids, to waive any defects, accept one part and reject the other as the interest of the Government may require. Proposals must be securely sealed, marked "Proposals for construction of home for nurses, etc., Freedmen's Hospital," and addressed to Secretary of the Interior,

ACTION TO APPROVE STREET CAR MERGER WILL BEGIN TODAY

DISTRICT COMMITTEE'S SUPPORT TO BE ASKED

After two years of fierce controversy, it appears that a local traction merger is at last about to materialize. However, the controversy is far from over.

This morning, it is expected that a subcommittee of the Senate District committee will meet and formally approve of the new merger resolution drafted by Dr. Milo R. Maltbie, New York utility expert, who has been representing the public in the negotiations with the traction companies.

Capper to Present Plan.

After the subcommittee acts, Chairman Capper will place the resolution before a meeting of the full District committee and ask that it be favorably reported to the Senate itself. The measure will then be well on its way through Congress.

The attitude of the traction heads toward the terms laid down in the new resolution is somewhat surrounded by doubt. Now they are reported to have accepted terms, and a little later they are reported to be still holding out. The subcommittee, however, apparently takes it for granted that the resolution is acceptable to the traction men, and is prepared to approve it and place it before the Congress.

In the opinion of Senator Capper, the resolution drafted by Maltbie is a real bargain for the Washington straphangers. Not only does it leave out the $50,000,000 valuation which the companies demanded in the beginning, but it extends from one year to two years the period over which the present street car fare must be continued. These are concessions for which opponents of the original merger agreement have been fighting ever since the negotiations began.

Complaints Are Heard.

Yet—and this is what puzzles and pains the senators—there are a few persons who are dissatisfied with what has been done. To the senators it is a distressing experience to discover that they are being criticized after achieving what they believe to have been a real victory for the car-riding public.

However, it probably comforts them to know that the men on the other side of the negotiations—the traction heads—are being criticized by the stockholders of the street railway companies. In berating their officers, some of the stockholders declare that far too much has been conceded to the Senate committee.

Thief's Loot Includes Valuable Gold Watch

Frank W. Reed, of 3245 Cleveland avenue northwest, reported to the police of the Fourteenth Precinct that his home was entered some time between 10 o'clock Saturday night and 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and a large quantity of jewelry stolen. Entrance was gained through a kitchen window which had been left unlocked, Reed said.

Included in the loot were two women's wrist watches, three college class rings, a $2.50 gold piece, some foreign coins, a gold band bracelet and a very valuable antique watch. Reed has asked the police to send fingerprint experts to his home today in an effort to obtain a clew to the identity of the thief.

Fat Man Offered Prize At Capital Food Show

Tonight is expected to bring out a large contingent of weighty Washingtonians at the food show in the Washington Auditorium, with announcement that a prize will be awarded to the fattest man present, by the Retail Grocers Protective Association. Tested scales have been provided for accuracy and possibly for safety.

In the afternoon, babies 18 months old and under will be judged by popular acclaim for a prize of $2.50 in gold. Helen Francis, 16-year-old Park View School girl, was the winner of the beauty contest held Saturday night. She was acclaimed by the applause of the audience.

Army Nurses' Leader Is Honored by French

Maj. Julia C. Stimson, superintendent of the Army Nurse Corps, has been awarded the silver Madaille Hygienique Publique and diploma by the French ministry of labor, hygiene, charities and social providence, it was announced yesterday.

During the World War, Maj. Stimson served as superintendent of Base Hospital 21, while that unit was attached to the British army in France. Later she was appointed director of the nursing service of the A. E. F., her service in that capacity earning for her the distinguished service medal. Her home is at Alexandria, Va.

Man Injured as Auto Overturns in Collision

William Reese, 31 years old, of 54 V street northwest, escaped with minor injuries yesterday when his automobile turned over at Broad Branch road and McKinley street northwest, following a collision with another machine.

Reese was extricated by police of the Fourteenth Precinct, who took him to Emergency Hospital, where he was treated for lacerations to the scalp and bruises to the leg. He later went to his home. The automobile with which Reese's car was in collision was operated by Mrs. Mary L. Radford, 36 years old, of 1534 Thirty-first street north west.

Two Injured by Falls Downstairs in Homes

Mrs. Reva King, 53 years old, of 1685 Gales street northeast, was treated by Dr. J. A. Radzievich for lacerations of the scalp as a result of her fall. Her condition is not serious. William Williams, colored, 62 years old, of 906 Third street southeast, suffered minor injuries when he fell downstairs at his home, and was also treated by Dr. Radzievich, after being taken to the hospital in the automobile of a friend.

Girls Given Chance To Visit Hollywood

The second opportunity to enter the Washington Post-Mary Pickford contest is given girls of the National Capital today. Seventeen entered Saturday, the first day of the contest, which will close at 6 o'clock the evening of January 29.

Not a single detail has been overlooked to provide for the comfort of the contest winner and her chaperone on the interesting trip to Hollywood, where a joyous program of festivities has been arranged.

The luxurious train which will carry the popular Washington girl to the capital of movie land will leave Chicago at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening, February 9, and arrive at Los Angeles at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of Tuesday, February 12.

Go among your friends and acquaintances and have them sign the following card (copies of which must be obtained from the library of The Washington Post, on the fourth floor of The Post Building):

Contest Editor,
The Washington Post.

I nominate Miss Blank to go to Hollywood as the guest of The Washington Post and Mary Pickford, who is now making the all-talking picture, "Coquette."

Name .....

Address .....

Telephone No..... Apt. No.....

The cards must be signed by the name and address of the writer, and if any card or address is found to be obviously fictitious, you will be immediately disqualified for the contest.

The contestants must register at the library of The Washington Post in order to enter the contest.

The girl who has the greatest number of these cards signed in her behalf, will be the winner.

Important Conditions.

There are three important conditions of the contest. First, no cards that are mailed in will be considered, but must be brought to this office by the girl in person, in packets of not less than ten at a time. Second, not more than one letter of nomination must be written by the same person. Third, contestants' cards will be received in the library of The Washington Post, each week day between 11 and 1 o'clock and 3 and 6 o'clock only.

Announcement of the winner will be made on or before February 2 and the winning contestant will be chaperoned by a woman member of The Washington Post staff and will leave Washington February 8.

The contest is open to any young woman between the ages of 18 and 25 except employes of The Washington Post and members of their families.

In case of a tie the same prize will be given each of the successful contestants.

Arrest Upon Hospital Cot Follows Collision

Edward Botts, colored, 26 years old, of 2307 L street northwest, suffered severe injuries yesterday and was arrested on his cot in Emergency Hospital on charges of reckless driving, driving without a District permit and while drunk, following a collision at Twenty-second and K streets northwest.

Mrs. F. Imogene Karns, 30 years old, of 3220 Connecticut avenue northwest, operator of the car with which Botts collided, escaped injury. Botts was treated by Dr. Leon Gordon for lacerations about the head and face and for a sprained back. His condition was undetermined last night.

Hunger Drives Youth To Surrender as Thief

Driven by hunger and cold, Harry Kenneth Kehoe, 22 years old, 25 Edna street, Brighton, Mass., last night surrendered himself to local police, telling them, they reported, that he is wanted in Brookline, Mass., for absconding with funds of his employer.

Kehoe told Detectives Charles Nally and E. E. Thompson he had taken $198 he had collected for the Chestnut Hill Market at Brookline on December 12. Since that time, he said, he has been roaming about the country. He was held for investigation pending word from Brookline authorities.

Two Women Injured By Auto on F Street

Mrs. B. Edgerton, 32 years old, and Mrs. Emma L. Moorman, 55 years old, both living in the Chastleton Apartments, were knocked down at Twelfth and F streets northwest yesterday afternoon by an automobile.

They were taken home and treated by Dr. J. B. Jacobs. Mrs. Moorman suffered a fracture of the hip and Mrs. Edgerton a sprained hip and shock. E. Bell, 50 years old, 2000 Hamlin street northeast, was driving the car, police reported.

Open Forum Discusses Calendar of 13 Months

The advantages and disadvantages of the proposal for a thirteen-month calendar were discussed at a meeting of the Washington Open Forum yesterday at 808 I street northwest.

Speakers discussed various phases of the plan, making the chief point that it would simplify matters and that dates of such events as Easter would not be affected. Among the speakers were Prof. Alfred Tomson, Samuel Salomon, Harry J. Lindenschmidt, Sol Le Barbe, James Adams, Mrs. Gertrude E. Mackenzie, Leland R. Barton, Edward J. Irvine and Lyman A. E. Gale.

Helium Transfer Cars New Army Equipment

Two tank cars for transporting helium gas have been delivered to the Army Air Corps and are now taking the gas used in inflation of blimps from plants to service airdremes throughout the country.

The gas-carrying unit is a car on which are mounted three large cylinders, having a capacity of 206,000 cubic feet of helium under 2,000 pounds pressure, sufficient to inflate any ordinary sized Army blimp.

Two Men Refuse Help When Autos Overturn

James Franklin Douglas, 36 years old, of 1209 Florida avenue, and G. W. Buckard, 36 years old, Foxhall Heights, D. C., narrowly escaped serious injury yesterday afternoon when their automobiles overturned following a collision at Twentieth and K streets northwest.

Both men suffered slight scratches and bruises, but refused hospital treatment. The drivers attempted to avoid the collision, but their machines collided and overturned.

Capital Man Is Fined As Drunken Motorist

Barnard Brown, of 614 G street southeast, was tried before Justice Howard U. Gosnell yesterday at Savage, Md., on charges of driving an automobile while intoxicated and reckless driving and was fined $122.90.

His trial followed his arrest earlier in the afternoon by First Sergt. R. A. Atkinson, of the Maryland State police, on the Baltimore boulevard.

WIND SWAYS WALL LEFT AFTER STORE IS SWEPT BY BLAZE

STRUCTURE IN MIDCITY BLOCKED OFF BY POLICE

Razing of Menace Is Awaiting Decision by Officials and Owners on Method.

The walls of the Dulin & Martin china store in the 1200 block of F street northwest that early Saturday morning were swept by fire were in imminent danger of being blown down by the high wind that raced over the city late yesterday.

George S. Watson, chief of the Fire Department, and J. W. Downey, assistant building inspector, visited the ruins yesterday afternoon and found that the walls had buckled more than 9 inches during the day, leaving them at a dizzy angle.

Held Job for Experts.

Chief Watson said that if the walls did not come down immediately in all probability they would fall shortly in view of the high wind and the weakening foundation. The officials of the store will be consulted today and arrangements made to remove the walls if they haven't fallen in the meantime.

Chief Watson said that his department was not equipped to level the walls and that some construction company should do the work. The firemen can knock the walls down, but much damage to the adjoining buildings and business establishments would result, he said.

To remove the hazard to life, Inspector Downey ordered the Lucy Lou Shop, the Rizik Co. and the Snyder & Little Shoe Co. to remain closed today. Should the walls fall, the brick would crash through these stores and endanger the lives of any one working in them.

The Lucy Lou Shop and the Rizik Co. stores were badly damaged by the water and falling roof during the fire. The roof to the Dulin & Martin store crashed into the Rizik store, wrecking the place. Mr. Rizik, the proprietor, was in it at the time and narrowly escaped injury. The Lucy Lou store was saturated with water, and employes were busy cleaning it up late yesterday afternoon.

Blocked Off by Police.

For the safety of pedestrians and motorists, the police blocked off the Dulin & Martin side of the 1,200 block of F street. Should the side and rear walls of the store fall there is danger that the facade would be forced out in the street. Then, too, the curiosity of the pedestrians passing along the street hinders traffic.

The fire was discovered in the store at 3:12 o'clock Saturday morning and within a short time six alarms were sounded. The Fire Department mobilized every piece of apparatus in the District in its fight against the blaze and called upon the nearby cities, including Baltimore, for assistance.

After three hours of valiant fighting, during which water towers were brought into play and two firemen injured, the flames were brought under control. Until the roof of the structure caved in it was difficult to reach the fire.

Traction Car Kills Railroad Brakeman

Robert L. Maddox, 50 years old, a brakeman, was killed instantly early last night when he was struck by a car of the Arlington-Fairfax Railway Co. at Relee Station on the Columbia Pike, Arlington County. The accident occurred when Maddox attempted to cross the tracks in an effort to get a car to Washington. He is employed in the Potomac yards.

Coroner B. H. Swain, of Arlington County, ordered the body removed to the undertaking parlors of Cunningham, Kennedy & Watkins at Alexandria. An inquest will be held at the Arlington County Courthouse at 11 o'clock this morning.

The car which struck Maddox was operated by Motorman Lester Hamman, 30 years old, of Ballston, and conductor James Stevens, 33 years old, of Five Oaks, Fairfax County. Both have been summoned to appear at the coroner's inquest. Maddox was identified by a card in his pocket.

Man Slightly Injured When Auto Overturns

Harry Thieu, 42 years old, of 3312 Georgia avenue northwest, was treated at Sibley Hospital last night for injuries received when the automobile he was driving collided at Rhode Island avenue and North Capitol street with an automobile operated by Joseph H. Rogers, 29 years old, of Hyattsville, Md. Thieu's automobile was overturned and badly damaged.

Rogers and passengers in his automobile told police that Thieu attempted to drive across Rhode Island avenue against a red light. Hospital physicians said that Thieu was not badly hurt.

Miss Adelaide Talbott Weds.

The marriage of Miss Adelaide A. Talbott, of 4818 Georgia avenue northwest, and Thomas William Walter, of Silver Spring, Md., was announced yesterday by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Talbott. The couple were married at Marlboro, Md., December 1.

Lone Policeman Tags 500 Cars in 7 Weeks

More than 500 persons have received tickets for parking overtime and failing to have their addresses changed on their permits from J. H. Hunt, policeman attached to the Second Precinct, during the past seven weeks.

Hunt was assigned to this work seven weeks ago and has been averaging about 70 cases a week. Last week 93 persons were incommoded by his visits to their autos.

The autos that have been placarded most frequently with his tickets were parked along Vermont avenue from Fifteenth to Fourteenth and along K between Fifteenth and Twelfth streets northwest. All who received tickets were privileged to leave a $3 deposit at the Second Precinct station. Those who didn't do so were served with warrants which necessitated a $5 deposit.

THE NEW WEEK'S BILLS

PALACE

By NELSON B. BELL.

Unless you care to hear the lion roar, figuratively, for a couple of hours don't go to the Palace this week. Apparently most people do, for if Orangelo Ratto, the eagle-eyed house manager, had not taken me out of the mob around in the alley, through a coal hole and the boiler rooms into an air duct leading to an ornamental grill high in the ceiling of the palatial Loew house, I should never have been able to get in at all Saturday night. It was that packed. And who am I to suggest that all those people were crazy?

I mean to say that it is Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer week at the Palace and there is plenty going on. M-G-M is greeted as one of heaven's greater blessings by Mr. Colby Harriman, managing director, the M-G-M stars are celebrated in an organlogue by Charles Gaige, and the major screen feature bears the M-G-M trademark—not to mention the M-G-M News and the M-G-M March, played with a fine fanfare of brass and much thumping of drums by the house orchestra under Mr. Borjes' galvanic baton. Whoopee!

"Show People," while not so keen a satire as "Hollywood," for example, still is a lively and amusing travesty, excellently played in a brisk and breezy tempo. It is more a parody of personalities than a burlesque of a big business. It devotes the greater part of its ample footage to tracing the career of Peggy Pepper, from Georgia, who began by accident in the custard-pie school of slapstick comedy, graduated to serious drama and the high hat as Patricia Pepoire, and was brought back to earth by the youthful comic who had got her her start and a well-flung pie plate of pastry.

Marion Davies is the "artiste" whose success goes straight to her bandeau and William Haines the low comedian of the Comet Films who starts her on the high road to fame and fortune and finally is deservedly yanked to a place by her side after he has tossed the custard monkey wrench into the marriage with a former waiter masquerading under a bogus title longer than you have been in town. Both play with skill and sprightly humor—Miss Davies wholly without restraint, Mr. Haines as repressed as he was in "Excess Baggage" in much the same sort of part.

During an annoyingly brief scene at a luncheon table, a glimpse may be had of Douglas Fairbanks, Norma Talmadge, Leatrice Joy, William S. Hart, Rod La Rocque, Mae Murray, grown old and fat; Renee Adoree, Karl Dane, Aileen Pringle, Claire Windsor, George K. Arthur and probably a few I have forgotten. In earlier sequences, Charlie Chaplin and John Gilbert have done bits and the supporting cast on its own account includes Del Henderson, Paul Ralli, Tenen Holtz, Sidney Bracy and Polly Moran, with an exceptionally clever piece of work by Harry Gribbon, as the short-reel comedy director.

It is none of my business if Miss Davies doesn't care for Gloria Swanson.

In his "Perfect Girl" revue, Boris Petroff introduces an athletic chorus led by Helen McFadden, daughter of the famous physical culturist, that lends a touch of novelty to a half-hour stage interval in which Luella Lee, the Cheer Leaders, a collegiate male quartet, Wesley Eddy and the Palace Syncopators and Joe Penner, the nut comedian, all pastime efficiently and entertainingly.

But the Fox Movietone News must certainly feel like a red-headed stepchild among all that M-G M.

PRESIDENT

"MATA HARI," with Magda Sonja, and "THE PLEASURE GARDEN," featuring Virginia Valli and directed by Alfred Hitchcock. Reviewed on Saturday night by Franklin W. March.

Patrons of the President Theater this week will have an opportunity to witness examples of foreign screen technic, for, although not specifically informed, this reviewer would assign the production of "Mata Hari, the Red Dancer," to Russian sources and that of its companion piece, "The Pleasure Garden," to English cinema makers.

The former, in spite of what must appear to American audiences as crudities of plot development and of lighting, deserves favorable comment for the way in which the dramatic tension is built up during the progres of the story. The final scene, culminating in the execution of this famous international spy, because of her betrayal of Russian military plans to Austria, are excellently done. The plot concerns Mata Hari and her love for a Russian student and farmer, for whom she sacrifices her life after a desperate attempt to accomplish her ends through a feat of espionage. The players are not named, but Magda Sonja, portraying the title role, and whoever plays Count Rokovski, her nemesis, are particularly noteworthy.

"The Pleasure Garden," featuring Virginia Valli as a chorus girl, and with Carmelita Geraghty, John Stuart and Miles Mander in support, is interesting chiefly as an unintentional comedy. Saturday night's audience found much to amuse it in the antics of the "heavy" although his efforts were undoubtedly intended to produce a far more profound effect.

Miss Valli, after finding herself deceived in the man she marries, ultimately attains happiness, we are led to believe, in the affections of her protege's fiance, who has been discarded by Carmelita for less conventional lovers.

It seems only fair to deduce that this picture is of somewhat ancient vintage and therefore to be considered rather in the light of a museum piece than as serious contemporary screen drama.

Theology Dean Warns U. S. to Shun League

A "rampant paganism and a final breakdown" will be the fate of America if it enters the League of Nations, Dr. B. G. Wilkinson, dean of theology of the Washington Missionary College, declared last night in a sermon at the Arcadia. Entry into the league by this country, the speaker said, is in direct defiance of the Bible, which "plainly raises the notes of alarm on this movement."

Dr. Wilkinson said that men are rushing into false peace movements more on account of their fear of war weapons than because they are stirred by the necessity of getting right with God. Trust in other nations, he declared, will not suffice to prevent our being drawn into war.

Boy Is Slightly Injured When Struck by Auto

Richard Ranzie, 10 years old, of 413 Columbia road northwest, received slight injuries yesterday when he was struck and knocked down by an automobile while playing in the street in front of his home. The automobile that struck the boy was operated by Joseph Curtain, of 608 Kenyon street northwest, who took him to Garfield Hospital.

Dr. R. W. Wilkinson examined young Ranzie and treated him for bruises to the head. The boy's condition is not serious.

FOX

"BEWARE OF BACHELORS." Warner Bros. sound and dialogue picture, featuring Audrey Ferris, William Collier, jr., and Margaret Livingston. Directed by Roy Del Ruth. Reviewed Sunday afternoon.

Young Dr. and Mrs. Davis had three days to go to their first wedding anniversary. So far they had not had a single quarrel. Apprised of this remarkable record of connubial bliss, dear old granddad promised them the family fortune if they would stick it out without a battle to the end of the first year, reputed to be the hardest. If they could not, then all that dough was to go to a male cousin of the doctor's. The cousin, being a wise young business man, fond of loafing, promised his pal, the vampire, a 50-50 split if she could bring a little fisticuffing among the Davises the next day or two. Whereupon she went to work. And how!

There is no visible reason why it should have been called "Beware of Bachelors," and, added all up, it does not, of course, make sense; but it does make a frisky hour or so of laughable, high-voltage and, at times, mildly risque diversion that kept yesterday afternoon's crowd whooping most of the way to the wire. The picture opens with a dialogue sequence that proves Tom Ricketts, usually seen in very small parts in silent drama, to be a fine actor of the old school when rendered audible. It then lapses into muteness and becomes only occasionally articulate thereafter.

Audrey Ferris and William Collier, jr., are splendidly cast as the young married couple, and Margaret Livingston is a colossal hazard for any wife. Andre de Beranger, as a perfume salesman, contributes another of his flawless impersonations of a butterfly man, bearing the highly appropriate name of Claude de Erie—whether you spell it "Debris" or merely consider that "Erie" means "cheese." Clyde Cooke and numerous others appear in the cast, but what of it?

The stage portion of the bill takes on quite the smack of novelty and will interest all who wonder what happens when a "wet" show reaches a theater and has to be set and routined. "The Rehearsal" opens with a bare stage and the artists in street clothes. As each act is called it communicates to "Mr. Leader" all necessary instructions as to introduction, how many verses and choruses, tempo, cues, &c. In the meantime, the stage is being set by the grips and the flymen, lighted by the electricians and otherwise made ready for the opening performance. Then they all come on again, in costume and makeup, and do their stuff. Revelatory, no end.

Taking part in these highly confidential goings-on are the twelve Foxettes—Peggy O'Neil, tap dancer de luxe and blonde de looks; Auriole Craven, singer, dancer and violinist; the Blooms, in an eccentric doll dance; the Dean brothers, acrobatic dancers; Charles Troy, eccentric dancer; Gus Mulcahey, harmonica virtuoso and dancer; the Three Coeds, vocalists with a toy three-octave piano, and Mlle. O'Brst, violinist, assisted (?) by Charles and Mack, burlesque classicists. The "Florodora Sextet" pick-out number by the Foxettes is you must know, is decidedly "smoker circuit."

"The Merry Wives of Windsor" overture and the Fox Movietone News complete a program with plenty of paprika.

METROPOLITAN

"ON TRIAL." Warner Bros. all-talking picture, featuring Pauline Frederick, Bert Lytell and Lois Wilson. Directed by Archie Mayo. Reviewed (third week) by J. F. Brady.

"On Trial," which opened its third week at the Metropolitan Saturday, is still playing to enthusiastic audiences and being favorably commented upon.

"On Trial," a 100 per cent talking picture, is not only one of the most interesting so far presented, but it is also impressive by virtue of its smooth continuity, its engrossing delevopments and the good voices and professional skill of the players. In "On Trial" voice reproduction has reached the highest degree of perfection.

A remarkable interpretation is given by Vondell Darr, a youngster whose work speaks well for her future. She is extraordinarily good in several of her court scenes. The work, both acting and voice, of Pauline Frederick, Lois Wilson, Bert Lytell, Jason Robards, Edmund Breese, Richard Tucker and several others in the galaxy of stars stands preeminently to the fore.

The story has already been reviewed at length. It is the tale of the tragic end of a married man who philandered too freely outside his own home and of the consequent sorrow inflicted upon those he left.

The supplementary features include an Aesop Fable, a Pathe Review and Sound News, featuring Hazel C. Arth, Washington winner of the recent Nation-wide radio auditions.

THE STRAND

"Girls from the Follies" pranced into the Strand yesterday, with Sam Raynor anticking famously in the van and Gladys Clark, a bid of a lot of looks and life, leading serried ranks of chorines rather remarkable for their youth and willingness. It's a good show, and altogether worth going down to Ninth street to sit in on.

The ballyhoo before the opening was that this bill would step fast, and it did. There's scarcely a moment of lag, from prologue to somewhere around 11 o'clock.

Sam Raynor has a hatful of good gags, of quite modern vintage, and the skits he engineers are well worked out. He has a scream in an ardent attempt to climb a set of steps, which brings the house gales of laughs. Miss Clark is a youngster with beauty to spare, a nimble set of toes, a good voice, and, above all, a youthful vivacity that should register big all week.

Then there are Jean ReRoy, Mae Raynor and Zona Duval, all with good dances and some songs—although the tunes might be better. Miss Duval is particularly good to look upon, and they all make a good team of girl leads. Johnny Crosby and Frank Mathahan make an unusually funny pair of elders and abettors to Sam; the three have teamwork that registers. The costumery is new, and in several skits lavish, and the sets are good. There are 25 scenes in the two acts.

Woman Is Thrown Out Of Auto by Collision

Mrs. Mary E. Dowling, 18 years old, of 2026 Lawrence street northeast, was thrown to the street and suffered shock and injuries yesterday when the automobile in which she was riding, driven by her husband, Harold M. Dowling, collided at Eleventh and Water streets southwest with an automobile operated by Howard F. Burchell, of 1401 Trinidad avenue northeast.

Mrs. Dowling was taken to Emergency Hospital in a passing automobile and treated by Dr. Leon Gordon. Her condition is not believed to be serious. Neither her husband nor Burchell was injured in the collision.

EARLE

"CONQUEST." Warner Bros. all-talking picture, starring Monte Blue, supported by H. B. Warner, Lois Wilson and Tully Marshall. Directed by Roy Del Ruth. Reviewed Saturday afternoon.

One of the major impressions conveyed by "Conquest" is that the Warner Bros. rushed Mary Imlay Taylor's story through the sound studio to insure its being the first to capitalize the public interest aroused by the probable adventures of Commander Byrd and Capt. Wilkins at the bottom of the world. To save time, only the high lights of the melodramatic tale of two aviators in love with the same girl are utilized to motivate the plot. The result is a sketchy sort of drama which, in my opinion, omits a great deal that might have been visualized and made audible in the interest of plausibility.

Nothing seems to be necessary for an Antarctic exploration beyond the announcement, "Well, we're off in the morning!" With some such scant declaration of intention, the action leaps from the luxurious drawing rooms of the rich to the barren wastes of the desolate ice packs of the South Pole. Two lone flying men, after one vain attempt, master Nature with the ease of a magician taking rabbits out of a borrowed hat. One of the men, a craven coward; the other, paragon of all the manly virtues. Of course, Lois Wilson marries the wrong one—well played by H. B. Warner—as a result of his treacherous indifference to the truth and the supposed death of the one she really loves—not so well played by Monte Blue. Mr. Warner makes everything even, however, by obligingly jumping overboard into the icy seas on the way back from the second, and successful, expedition.

It is, I should say, Mr. Warner's picture. He plays with infinitely more authority and finish than Mr. Blue, the supposed star, who still has a tremendous amount to learn about the reading of lines and the creation of dramatic effect by means of the voice. Tully Marshall, long absent from the local screen, also demonstrates the value of stage training and Lois Wilson is as satisfactory as any one could be in the role quite as lacking in conviction as that of her father, impersonated by Edmund Breese.

The supplementary attractions are many and varied. The newsreel is long, but interesting, and a Lyman H. Howe "Hodge Podge" at least provides some exquisitely beautiful views of Sweden among other "shots" of less immediate appeal. "The Quiet Worker," a fast-action, two-reel comedy, enables Jerry Drew to affect many of the mannerisms of the late Larry Semon, aided by a large number of beautiful girls.

Irene Franklin in three of her familiar vaudeville numbers, with Jerry Jarnigan at the piano, proved as competent an artist on Vitaphone as when present in the flesh and scored, as she always does, in "Red Head," the "Night Club Hostess" number and "Help, Help, Help," the plaint of a fireman's bride.

Continuing its sudden rehabilitation, the Earle orcesthra, under Daniel Breeskin, scored handsomely in selections from Leoncavallo's "Il Pagliacci," during which the Prologue was sung by an invisible barytone and the "Vesti la giubba" aria by an invisible tenor.

COLUMBIA

By the end of this week's showing of "Interference" all Washington should know that Paramount's first all-talking picture concerns itself not with the trials of the radio fan, but with such weighty matters as love and hate and vengeance and their effects on the lives of men.

It is neither wise nor profitable to interfere with the happiness of another, even if one hates as Deborah Kane hated because one loves as Deborah Kane loved. That fact is brought home quite forcefully both to Deborah and the audience, though it is only the audience that is permitted to take warning therefrom, the wages of interference for the former being unalterably sudden death.

There is only one touch of fineness in this woman of vixenish nature—her love for Philip Voaze. It is this that sets her apart from the usual feminine menace and makes her a character to fire the imagination with a spark almost as vivid as that created by Philip, the glamorous wanderer, who rights the wrong he has done his one real love, Faith—now the wife of Sir John Marlay—by making forever still the vengeful hand that would destroy the security and joy that have come to her through marriage to the famous doctor.

It is in no way a reflection upon the splendid work of Evelyn Brent and Doris Kenyon as Deborah and Faith, respectively, to say that William Powell, as Philip, contributes the most memorable characterization of the four principals and that Clive Brook as the doctor follows next in excellence. Here are two men of ability and poise, whose voices add materially to the compelling charm of their personalities. Both are perfectly cast.

The screen play has been written with a skillful retention of the original tenseness of situation, though it departs further than would seem necessary from the form of the stage presentation. If memory serves correctly, a number of characters have been deleted and the sequence of events occasionally reversed.

The ample supplementaries include Eddie Cantor, in a Movietone talking and singing feature, Ruth Etting in song hits, through the same medium, the Fox Movietone News, the M-G-M News and music by the house orchestra.

Kellogg to Analyze Treaty at Banquet

Fosdick Also Will Address Conclave on War Cures That Begins Tonight.

The Kellogg peace pact will be analyzed by its author, Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg and by Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick tonight at a banquet opening the fourth national conference on the cause and cure of war, to be held in the Washington Hotel.

Kellogg will present the treaty from the point of view of governments, while Dr. Fosdick will view it from the angle of the peoples of the nations of the world. One thousand delegates from 46 States are expected to attend the conference, which will come to a close Thursday.

Questions affecting international relationships from the standpoints of military, naval, aeronautical and banking activities will be discussed by speakers representing the six great powers.

Rescue Squad Revives Man.

George Love, 56 years old, 1141 Bladensburg road northeast, was partly overcome early yesterday morning by gas escaping from an outside service pipe. He was revived by the rescue squad and physicians of Casualty Hospital.

BROOKHART SLATED AS MASS MEETING SPEAKER ON WAGES

MEASURE OF LEHLBACH IS HELD TOO INVOLVED

Increases of House Proposal Called Scant; Hearing to Be on Wednesday.

The question of salary legislation for Federal employes will be much in the forefront this week.

Tonight in the auditorium of the Interior Department, there will be a mass meeting of Government employes, and Wednesday morning the hearings on four salary bills will be started before the House civil service committee.

Tonight's mass meeting will be under auspices of the Treasury local of the National Federation of Federal Employes and is expected to attract a throng that will tax the capacity of the hall.

Brookhart to Be Speaker.

The principal speakers will be Senator Brookhart (Republican), of Iowa, who has introduced in the Senate what the employes call a "common sense" bill to correct the Welch pay raise act, and Representative Seller (Democrat), of New York, who has introduced the same measure in the House.

By adding an additional salary step to the various classification grades the Brookhart bill would remove the confusion that now surrounds the Welch act and would give the employes the raises that Congress intended they should get—$120 for those who got only $60 and $200 for those who got only $100.

Hearing on Wednesday.

The Brookhart bill and the Lehlbach bill are the two principal salary measures that will be considered at the House hearings which open Wednesday.

Representatives of the employes, while they see good features in the Lehlbach bill, feel that the Brookhart bill is a better one from a standpoint of fairness to the workers.

Not only would the Brookhart bill give raises to about three times as many employes as would be benefited by the Lehlbach bill, they say, but it is more lucidly written and would be easier to administer. As for the Lehlbach bill, they claim that this is almost as complicated as the celebrated McCarl ruling on the Welch act.

Infantry Unit Ordered Motorized by June 30

Complete motorization of the Thirty-fourth Infantry at Fort Eustis, Va., by June 30 has been ordered by the War Department, it was announced yesterday. It will be the first infantry organization so equipped although several infantry regiments already are partly motorized.

Preliminary steps toward complete motorization were taken last May and the final steps awaited the results of a test to determine the quality and type of certain vehicles. The transportation for rifle companies will consist of standard three-ton trucks of class B type, now in stock.
